World-Wide Protest Grows As Chessman Death Nears

NOT AN 8-POUND BOY —IT WAS A STOCK FRAUD

A false report on the birth of the Queen's baby stirred some sections of Victoria today.

The report coming through on a direct stockbroker's wire shortly after noon said the Queen had had an eight-pound boy.

Several people who had been making wagers on a boy or girl were collecting bets before they learned the report was not true.

Royal Birth Close

LONDON (AP) — The Queen was reported to be in labor tonight in an apparently difficult childbirth. John H. Peel, the gynaecological surgeon who is delivering her baby, remained at her side in a day and night vigil.

LONDON (AP) — The Queen called her doctors into prolonged consultation at Buckingham Palace today but by early evening her expected baby still had not arrived.

John H. Peel, obstetrician and the gynaecological surgeon in charge of the birth, led his three medical colleagues into the palace soon after 9 a.m. They were still there at 7 p.m.

Peel was able to assure Prince Philip that he could safely leave the palace for a luncheon engagement.

A crowd of several hundred milled around the palace waiting for news. Some have kept vigil at the gates since Saturday.

The Prince, clearly in high spirits, wisecracked his way through his luncheon speech.

"I'm sorry that the Queen cannot be present," he told the lord mayor; "but as you realize she is otherwise engaged."

BAND PLAYS

During the morning the crowd outside the palace watched the changing of the guard through the palace railings in wintry but sunny weather and heard the guards' band play selections from Call Me Madam. The band started up with the number It's a Lovely Day Today.

At one point a sudden roar of jet engines made Londoners look up expectantly. Royal Air Force Hunter jets were due to fly over the palace in salute to a new royal baby on its birth.

But it was another of the many false alarms—a giant Boeing 707 airliner heading over the city toward London Airport.

SPECIAL SERVICES ON OLYMPICS

Times readers will be kept fully abreast of events at the Winter Olympics which opened at Squaw Valley, California, today.

Sports staffer Mike Rose is on the scene as is Andy O'Brien, sports editor of Weekend Magazine. Another special writer will be Bill Westwick, sports editor of the Ottawa Journal.

Their dispatches will supplement full coverage by Canadian Press and United Press International wire services. (See sports pages.)

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—The men's downhill ski race, originally scheduled for Friday, was postponed until Feb. 22 because of heavy snow today.

'Morally Wrong To Take a Life'

See Also Page 13

OTTAWA (CP)—A pointed but dispassionate plea for abolition of the death penalty for murder in Canada was voiced in the Commons today by Frank McGee.

With about half the 264 MPs in their seats and the public galleries packed, the young Progressive Conservative member for York-Scarborough began his argument with these six main contentions:

1. "Capital punishment is not an effective deterrent to murder and certainly not a unique deterrent."

2. "It is morally wrong that the state should take a life."

3. "Capital punishment is based on revenge, on retribution. Punishment should be reformative, and not retributive."

4. There was a great risk of error; "innocent men have been hanged and innocent men will be hanged as long as human beings are human beings and subject to error."

5. There was a question of the capacity of the country's legal system, no matter how good it is, to reach any decision that would "justify taking a human life."

6. Capital punishment has an adverse effect on justice. Juries, being humans, "are reluctant to bring in a guilty verdict because of the necessity to impose a penalty of death." This was "hardly logical and not—in my view— desirable."

Vancouver Rinks Wins

VERNON (CP) — Irene Fraser of Vancouver today won the B.C. Women's Curling championship with a 9-6 victory over Frances Turner of Trail.

Fines for Unions, Firms A Way to Prevent Strikes?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The possibility of controlling strikes by imposing government fines on management and labor has been suggested by British Columbia Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

The fines would be imposed if the two parties failed to solve a dispute within a given time, he told the Vancouver Foremen's Club Wednesday.

The minister said a proposal put forward by a United States professor of economics called for a 15-per-cent cut in wages and seizure of union dues and company profits on every day the parties failed to reach a settlement.

"I wonder if there is merit to considering this proposal?" Mr. Wicks asked.

He said remedial legislation is no answer to labor strife in B.C. and called for a higher degree of discussion between management and labor as the greatest possible deterrent to labor strife.

'America Will Rue The Day'

(By UPI)

Opposition grew throughout the world today to the scheduled execution Friday of Caryl Chessman in San Quentin's gas chamber.

In London, where six of the nine morning newspapers devoted more space to the Chessman case than to the impending royal birth, one newspaper said Americans will rue the day if Chessman is executed.

The London Daily Herald prediction reflected a burst of European sentiment against the execution.

"There is one thing to be said about the case of Caryl Chessman who has spent 12 years fighting for his life," the Herald said. "If he is executed tomorrow, it will be a day when it will be rather unpleasant to be an American."

Jurists in South America sent protests to California Governor Edmund G. Brown. A French singer left Paris by plane to make a personal appeal to Brown. A Roman Catholic priest in Milan, Italy, appealed directly to President Eisenhower.

HELPS GANGSTERS

The priest was Fr. Michele Blandino who has devoted much of his life to helping war criminals and deported U.S. gangsters. He sent his appeal to the U.S. Embassy in Rome asking Eisenhower to prevent the execution.

In Lisbon the newspaper Republic said editorially, "besides ranging world opinion on the side of the condemned man, the 12 years of struggle for his life have chiefly cast doubts on the validity of the death penalty as an anachronistic repressive measure."

The newspaper dismissed Chessman's 12-year legal battle as the important item and asked, "should we not say rather that justice itself has broken the record?"

STUDENTS RALLY

In Scandinavia, student groups re-pledged their support in a campaign to have Chessman spared.

Mme. Georgie Viennet, a handsome French songstress, left Paris Wednesday night by plane en route to California to protest personally to Brown. Last year she formed an association against capital punishment and said its membership includes Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr. Albert Schweitzer and Nobel Prize winning author Francois Mauriac.

Prominent jurists from Argentina, Panama, Spain and Mexico added their criticisms to the clamor over U.S. handling of the Chessman case.

Mexican congresswoman Macrina Rabadan telegraphed Eisenhower to pardon Chessman and said Latin American women would wear mourning during the president's *forth*coming 10-day tour of Latin America if Chessman is executed.

Judge Secundino Torres Gudino of Panama and Amilcar A. Mercader, former president of the Buenos Aires court of justice, also protested.

Torres Gudino said the execution would "create an enormous lack of confidence in U.S. laws."

Mercader said the impending execution "causes me deep concern."

"I have asked myself whether the time he has spent on death row has not been worse than death itself," he said.

Newspapers throughout Europe called on President Eisenhower to commute Chessman's sentence although he does not have the power to do so.

Riot Squads Watch Farms

PARIS (UPI)—The government moved in riot police today to maintain order in two farming districts where French farmers, angered by President Charles de Gaulle's price-freezing policy, called massive protest rallies.

Authorities feared a repetition of last Thursday when a similar protest rally by 5,000 farmers in the northern city of Amiens erupted into a bloody three-hour riot in which more than 120 police and demonstrators were injured.

KIDNAPPER, ROBBER, PERVERT

SAN QUENTIN, [illegible] (UPI) — At about 7.50 p.m. Jan. 23, 1948, Caryl Chessman, 26, a graduate of three California penal institutions, was arrested by Los Angeles police after an 85-mile-an-hour chase.

Police rammed the Chessman car to bring it to a halt. The auto had been stolen and contained loot from a robbery staged earlier in the evening.

Chessman went to trial as the notorious "Red Light Bandit." And a jury of 11 women and one man convicted him on 17 of 18 counts.

Witnesses named Chessman as the man who posed as a policeman with a flashing red spotlight on his car and preyed on lovers-lane couples.

On two occasions the bandit robbed the couples and departed. Two other times he robbed the couples but also forced the girl to go with him in his car and forced her at gunpoint to perform a perverted sex act.

Chessman's convictions and sentences:

Kidnapping—four counts. Death on two counts; life without parole on two counts.

First degree robbery—eight counts. Five-years-to-life, served consecutively.

Sex perversion—two counts. Zero-to-15 years.

Attempted robbery—one count. Zero-to-20 years.

Grand theft—one count. One-to-10 years.

Attempted rape—one count. Zero-to-25 years.

'WE STILL HAVE HOPE'

Lawyers Seek Another Delay

(Times News Services)

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. — Attorneys for Caryl Chessman went back to the California Supreme Court in San Francisco today in an 11th hour effort to put off Chessman's execution scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

The court refused by a 4-3 vote late Wednesday to recommend clemency for the 38-year-old convict - author. Without the court's approval the governor was powerless to commute Chessman's 1948 death sentence for kidnap, robbery and sex perversion.

George T. Davis and A. L. Wirin, attorneys for Chessman, filed two petitions with the state supreme court:

—An application for a 10-day stay of execution to give attorneys time to file affidavits by psychiatrists and others that Chessman "is rehabilitated and is entitled to clemency."

—A motion for reconsideration of Wednesday's ruling by the supreme court voting against recommendation of clemency.

"We haven't given up hope." Davis said. "The end of this case won't come until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning."

'Conscience Appeal' to Governor

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, to whom Chessman made a "conscience" appeal Wednesday, said he was standing firm on his decision to take no further action in the case.

"Unless the court takes some further action, I have no power to grant clemency under the constitution—and the question is closed," the governor said.

California law provides that both the governor and a majority of the state supreme court must approve clemency in the cases of persons convicted of two or more felonies. Chessman was convicted of 17.

However, Brown said he would remain in Sacramento rather than attend today's opening of the Winter Olympic games at Squaw Valley as scheduled.

Brown rejected a clemency plea by Chessman's attorneys last October, noting that Chessman had shown no contrition. The condemned man contends there is no reason for contrition because he is innocent.

Chessman again insisted he was innocent in his "conscience" plea to the governor.

Eisenhower Powerless to Intervene

In Washington, the White House today described the Chessman case as "a matter entirely for the State of California."

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said there was nothing Eisenhower could do officially

Hagerty's views on the lack of power for the president to intervene in state cases was borne out by justice department officials. They said a president can exercise his clemency or commutation powers only in federal cases.

Meanwhile, Chessman entered what appeared to be the final 24 hours of an 11½-year battle to escape execution.

He's taking the series of setbacks calmly—commenting only that he felt he has made a great contribution to humanity. He said his death would be "significant."

The condemned man said one of the main purposes in the last two years was to use his case—as it became increasingly controversial—"to focus attention upon the existence of the death rows and the practice of capital punishment."

Chessman said he believed passionately that the death penalty is an outmoded, useless device which does not prevent any crimes.

He said he considered the possibility of the death penalty when he was holding up drug stores in the early years of his life of crime, but was "indifferent" to it.

"I said to hell with the death penalty," Chessman added.

SOCREDS SET SIGHTS ON OTTAWA BY 1985

EDMONTON (CP) — The aim of the Social Credit party in the next 25 years is to achieve national power in Canada, Premier E. C. Manning told 300 party members Wednesday night when he opened the Social Credit League's new headquarters here.

Premier Manning said it is just now beginning to be recognized that Social Credit principles are as applicable to prosperity as to depression.

ONE GOAL ACHIEVED, ONE TO GO

Peggy Bank Goes for Landscaping

One down and one to go is the score today in The Times' "Pennies for Peggy" drive to fill a wheelbarrow with coppers for the sake of art and the city's honor.

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said Victoria sculptress Peggy Walton Packard will be paid her commission Friday for the bust of Queen Elizabeth.

"She sent in her bill for $300 and I have an appointment for 11.30 Friday morning to give her the cheque," he said.

That takes care of the fund's initial objective, but there still is a job to be done in properly landscaping the Beacon Hill park site for the bust.

So the wheelbarrow is still waiting for more pennies from Victorians. Contributions can be mailed to "Pennies for Peggy," c/o The Daily Times or can be left in special containers at either the Broad Street or Douglas Street offices of The Times.

So far more than 2,000 pennies, a $250 landscaping offer, several letters and even a First World War veteran's mementos have poured into the wheelbarrow.

Ald. Mooney said Mrs. Packard reduced her bill by $50 to offset the lack of an inscription on the statue as had been previously arranged.

This leaves about $150 in city funds for the landscaping job but parks officials have estimated that a setting befitting a statue of the Queen would cost several hundreds more.

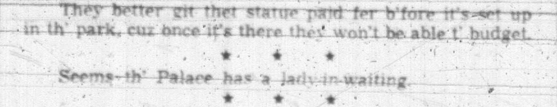
All money collected in The Times fund will be turned over for use in landscaping the statue's final resting place. (It was moved from Garbally public works yard to the City Hall lobby while an argument raged over the permanent site to be chosen.)

Examples of citizens' sentiments over delay in setting up the statue which is to commemorate the Queen's visit here last July, are these messages sent along, with contributions:

"Good for you! Make City Hall look small! . . ."

"I am enclosing my total bank roll that I had when I was wounded in France in 1916, also some spare meal tickets that were given me on the hospital train when I was invalided home while serving with the CEF . . .

"I have been waiting for a deserving cause and feel that this is it."



They better git thet statue paid fer b'fore it's set up in th' park, cuz once it's there they won't be able t' budget.

IN THE HOUSE

WITH

Norman Cribbens

It seems the cabinet has not yet given up hope of convincing the Opposition we are "a debt-free, pay-as-you-go province."

Health Minister Eric Martin hammered away at this theme during Wednesday's budget debate, and in the style of an old-time preacher, stormed at the CCF as scoffers and unbelievers.

The CCF seemed equally determined to justify this reputation. They jeered derisively whenever Mr. Martin mentioned the allegedly cancelled debt and laughed outright when he described the gala bond-burning ceremony at Kelowna last summer as "the greatest moment in our history."

"All right," said the minister, "you may laugh but deep down inside you know we have wiped out the debt, and you are angry because we have succeeded."

Mr. Martin paused for a drink of water and a rare silence fell over the chamber.

"You can almost hear a cancelled bond drop," he smiled.

* * *

Leaping back into the fray, Mr. Martin referred to a speech by CCF leader Robert Strachan last Monday as an "outrageous attempt" to discredit the government's achievements.

He said Mr. Strachan could benefit from some advice which Disraeli, the great British statesman, gave to a new member of parliament:

"It is better for people to wonder why you do not speak than to wonder why you do."

And then, using words that Disraeli would not have used, Mr. Martin said:

"The leader of the Opposition has stuck his neck out over the debt and we are going to chop it off."

He further taunted Mr. Strachan by saying he was "scared stiff" of the government's increase in the home-owner grant from $28 to $50.

"Don't kid yourself," retorted Leo Nimsick, the puckish CCF member for Cranbrook, to which the minister replied:

"If the people of this province thought you could do better you'd be over on this side of the house."

* * *

The rest of the afternoon was decidedly dull. The budget debate droned on and there were sighs of boredom and restlessness on both sides of the house.

This prompted Arthur Turner, the paternal-looking CCF member for Vancouver East, to suggest there should be "intermissions" to relieve the tedium of daily four-hour sittings from 2 to 6 p.m.

"How about a nice tea and crumpet break?" joked Mr. Strachan.

But Mr. Turner wasn't joking. He said while members were free to leave the House when another member was speaking they were afraid of missing something.

"But not much," answered a half-audible voice.

* * *

John Tisdalle, the prophetic-looking member for Saanich, also defended Social Credit finances and went out of his way to deny Opposition claims that government backbenchers have to "toe the line."

"We have absolute freedom to say just what we think," he declared.

But the CCF didn't look impressed.

* * *

At one point in the debate a ship's siren started blowing from the Inner Harbor, and it went on so long that members looked up in surprise wondering if the royal baby had been born.

But the siren proved to be a false alarm.

* * *

The most restless member of the cabinet is Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi who admits he would rather be cruising over new highways than listening to speeches.

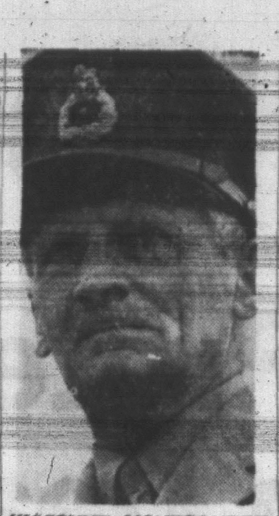
He bounces in and out of the chamber and sometimes appears to be dozing in his seat. But really, of course, his eyes are closed for deeper concentration.

* * *

Oldest visitor to the public galleries this session was James W. Reid, 88-year-old father of James A. Reid, the Social Credit member for Salmon Arm.

Mr. Reid, Sr., flew here from his home in Calgary and flew back again after attending an afternoon sitting and enjoying a reunion with his son and grandson.

"My father is remarkable for his age," Mr. Reid said. "He is planning to fly to South Africa next spring to visit a brother he has not seen for 70 years."



VISCOUNT MONTGOMERY . . . not coming here

B.C. Visit For Monty

British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein will visit Vancouver early in May, but Government House sources indicated today, he is not expected to visit Victoria.

One of his engagements will include acceptance of an honorary degree from University of British Columbia.

Viscount Montgomery also will be special guest at the Westminster Regiment's 16th annual Melfa dinner May 7, Lt.-Col. W. E. McKinney, commanding officer of the regiment, announced Wednesday.

Col. McKinney said the dinner normally is held May 24 but was brought forward because Montgomery has to leave for Europe May 10.

The dinner will commemorate the crossing of the Melfa River in Italy, May 17, 1943 — a Canadian breakthrough said to have opened the gates to Rome.

Pilot Survives 9 Days in Bush

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—The pilot of a light aircraft—object of an intense search—stumbled into this northern outpost early today, exhausted and near collapse after nine days in the bush in 18 degree below zero weather.

Terrence W. Korpatnicki, 32, haggard and hollow-cheeked, was so exhausted he was unable to speak.

He was pilot of a single-engine Fairchild which was spotted in a slough 20 miles north of here.

The aircraft was reported overdue after a 40-mile flight to Tsu Lake on Feb. 9. Two passengers, whom Korpatnicki had dropped at the lake, were found safe.

RCMP and RCAF aircraft were called into the search Wednesday and a trapper and his dog team were rushed into the rugged country to conduct a ground search for the pilot.

A message was stamped in the snow beside the downed plane, spotted Wednesday. It read: "SOS—unable to proceed—require food and water."

MLA Blasts Trial Delay

A juvenile boy was held in the municipal jail at Vernon for 43 days before being brought to trial, it was alleged in the legislature Wednesday.

Francis Richter (SC-Similkameen), said the boy was among 34 boys and four girls who were held in the lock-up at Vernon last year.

"This is a sad state of affairs," the member said, "and it points up the need for a demand or detention home in the area."

He said the home could also serve the Kelowna area, where 20 boys and one girl spent some time in the city jail last year.

Mr. Richter appealed to the B.C. government to build a courthouse at the Okanagan town of Oliver. At present, he said, the police office is used simultaneously as a court and on one occasion a trial was held on the porch.

Home-Building Hit By Loan Shortage

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — Works Minister Walker said Wednesday Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will reduce direct lending for home construction in 1960.

* * *

WALKER
. . . banks uncertain

He also said in the Commons that housing starts will drop this year — there were 141,000 starts in 1959—but that there will be a substantial number of completions in 1960.

Mr. Walker was introducing a government resolution providing for an increase to $1,500,000,000 from $1,000,000,000 in the amount which CMHC, the government's housing agency, can loan directly to home builders.

He said this extra $500,000,000 is intended to last "for some time" and that CMHC won't continue to lend on the scale of the last two years. The corporation committed $350,000,000 last year and the total now is close to $900,000,000.

The resolution on housing still was being debated when the brief Wednesday sitting was adjourned.

Private Firms Quitting Mortgage Field

Mr. Walker said there was a steady withdrawal of private lenders from the mortgage field in the latter part of 1959. These lenders mortgaged only 25,000 dwellings in 1959 compared with 46,000 in 1958.

There likely will be greater participation in lending by insurance, trust and mortgage companies in 1960, Mr. Walker said, but the position of the banks is "uncertain."

It was estimated that 125,000 new dwellings will be required each year to keep up with the population increase and shifts. It would be difficult to maintain this rate in some years and it was important that compensation be made for this in other years.

Mr. Walker said the government will continue to support urban redevelopment schemes and public housing.

Erhart Regier (CCF-Burnaby-Coquitlam) said the government, although it has claimed it would not let CMHC operate at a deficit, might have to do so.

The new interest rate of 6¾ per cent on NHA loans was still not high enough to lure more private funds into the housing field. There were other more attractive prospects for this capital at comparable rates without a long-term tie-up.

The government should realize it has a "social responsibility" to help the low wage-earner obtain housing and to subsidize CMHC if it has to.

Opposition Begins Jobless Debate

The government can start digging in now for an all-out assault by opposition members on unemployment.

Battle lines were drawn Wednesday with agreement that the next time the supplementary spending estimate on the winter works program comes up—probably Friday—the doors will be opened for a full-fledged unemployment debate.

The Liberals tried unsuccessfully Wednesday to bring about an emergency debate on unemployment.

H. J. Robichaud (L-Gloucester), moved a motion for the special debate in view of "the grave unemployment situation as revealed in a government press announcement today 504,000 persons were without jobs on Jan. 16 and 755,000 Canadians were registered for work at National Employment Service offices on Jan. 14."

Speaker Roland Michener ruled the motion out of order.

Negro Leader Arrested In Tax Case

ATLANTA (AP) — Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro champion of a campaign of passsive resistance against segregation in the southern U.S., was arrested Wednesday on an Alabama perjury warrant.

King said he doesn't know what his latest arrest is about.

He called his arrest "another attempt by the State of Alabama to harrass me because of the position I've taken in the civil rights struggle. It's either the sixth or seventh time that I've been arrested in the last four years."

King posted $2,000 bond.

In Montgomery, prosecutor William Thetford said King was indicted by the Montgomery county grand jury in connection with his 1956 and 1958 Alabama state income tax returns. He said King did not report approximately $31,000 of personal income during the two years.

PUBLISHER URGES COLLABORATION

'Let's Say Yes to Russia'

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should take the lead in cooperating with Russia for the development of world resources, Michael Wardell, publisher of the Fredericton Gleaner, said today.

In an address to the Ottawa Canadian Club he proposed East-West collaboration in an "international work-force of scientists and engineers" which could improve the world and the lot of all peoples.

Russia was speaking of the possibility of East and West "joining together in a mighty assault, not on each other, but on the undeveloped resources of the world."

"The Russian visions are sparkling with schemes for improving our world, rather than destroying it," he said. "They are talking of the possibility of altering the characteristics of climates and terrains in many areas of our globe . . . and they are wanting to harness the tides in immense electric power developments.

'NO TO NATO'

"What a magnificent thing it would be if Canada were to say no to NATO, no to arming Germany with nuclear warheads, no to the further spread of nuclear armaments; and yes to Russia:

"Yes, we will collaborate. We will collaborate in setting up the first international work-force of scientists and engineers. Let us take the map of Canada and see what we can do with your help. . . .

"We could see an Atlantic revival quickly bringing this area of Canada up to the level of the rest of Canada—perhaps leading it."

BURIED MURDERER 'NOT ONE OF US'

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Agnes Wing said today town council objects to the burial of a convicted murderer in the town's jailyard on Main Street and will send a protest letter to Justice Minister Fulton.

On Feb. 9, Marvin McKee, 20, of Huntsville was hanged in the Parry Sound district jail for the murder of a Huntsville taxi driver. Before the execution, held here as the closest district jail to Huntsville, McKee asked to be buried in the jailyard.

"I do not think that he should be buried on our main street," Mayor Wing told a reporter today. "He is not from our community and we are being penalized."

The Cost of Mr. Bennett

THE PUBLIC OF BRITISH Columbia has been so titillated by Mr. Bennett's election bait that the real effect of his budget has been widely overlooked. What he has really done is to saddle the economy of this province with unnecessarily burdensome costs at the very time when it faces increasing competition in both domestic and foreign markets.

Every tax, wherever it applies, contributes to that burden. The direct effect of taxes on business is obvious—they are costs which business will hand on, so far as it is able, in the form of prices. Indirectly all taxes work toward the same end. The private citizen compelled to pay taxes will demand wages to cover them and wages are the main content of prices.

Federal, provincial and municipal taxes combined are thus a major factor in the nation's competitive position throughout the world market—a market where competition is increasing every day.

Having retired his Government's direct debt, Mr. Bennett was in a position to reduce taxes by something like $25 millions a year. That is no great sum in the provincial economy but it could have been usefully applied where it would do the most good—to municipal taxes, for example, or to various taxes on our exporting industries. At least such a tax reduction would have given a new direction to provincial policy, toward lower instead of higher costs of doing business and living in British Columbia.

But Mr. Bennett is determined to spend every cent he can lay hands on, and more. Actually he has introduced a deficit budget after years of surplus and direct debt reduction. To finance the expected gap between revenue and expenditure he has dipped into the till and used, for next year's purposes, some $25 millions accumulated in former surpluses.

As that windfall is non-recurring, it will be interesting to see how the next budget can be balanced. Presumably Mr. Bennett expects his revenues to keep on growing as fast as his expenditures, which must automatically increase every year by the commitments already made.

This may be a safe assumption if we can assume that the provincial economy will continue to grow at its present rate, contrary to the predictions of some eminent experts in the Federal Government.

However that may turn out in the next year or two, the fact remains that Mr. Bennett intends to spend at a maximum rate, a rate probably higher, in proportion to our means, than that of any provincial government in Canadian history. And clearly he never intends to reduce the nation's highest tax rates. When the chance of a reduction occurs, as direct debt is retired, he rejects it in favor of more spending to win his next election.

Even this rate of spending, and its resulting burden on the economy, does not satisfy Mr. Bennett. He is demanding still more money from the federal treasury to be provided by no one but the taxpayers of British Columbia. For if Ottawa raises a dollar in taxes the people of this province must pay their full share of it, and actually—because their income is relatively high—pay a relatively higher share. Mr. Bennett may be able to hand on some of his bills to Ottawa but that offers no escape to the taxpayer.

Today the nation requires more than anything else in a competitive world a reduction in its productive costs, or at least an assurance that costs will not continue to rise. Nowhere is that requirement more obvious than in British Columbia, which lives mainly on exports.

Yet Mr. Bennett has set his course in the opposite direction. In the famous phrase credited to the late Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's adviser, the provincial Government intends to spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect, if it can. Does any opposition party dare to question that program of prodigality?

Dollars for Fun, Not for School

FROM TIME TO TIME, EDUCAtors wonder out loud why the public complains of the high cost of education but seems content to spend a disproportionate share of its income on liquor.

The Very Reverend Henri F. Legare, rector of the University of Ottawa, has expanded that theme in a recent statement contrasting Canadian expenditures on education and on "frivolities". This, he suggests, is the road to cultural suicide. We can afford, he seems to be saying, the non-essentials, but protest paying for what we need if we are to grow as a nation.

The argument suggested in the rector's statement could be projected into a vicious circle. It would go something like this: We need education to appreciate cultural values. We need money to provide that kind of education. Instead we spend our funds on "frivolities". Hence we do not provide sustenance for education, lack appreciation for cultural merit, spend more money for "frivolities" and pursue our unhappy way to cultural suicide.

If that generality is acceptable, there is at least one qualification that should be noted. More and more people are interested in providing education. That is one reason why the volume of students pouring into universities is growing. But the hard-headed Canadian, who may lack a sensitivity toward what is considered cultural, has a pretty fair idea of what he wants for his money in other purchases.

And a growing number of hard-headed Canadians are reaching the point where they are prepared to pay for education once they have been convinced that the dollar they put into it buys a product worth 100 cents. As the educators are able to prove that value, they will receive increasing support from a growing section of the public.

The White Collar Trend

A DROP IN UNION MEMBERship during the period 1956-58 is noted in a recent issue of the Monthly Labor Review of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, and the New York Times speculates on the cause of this declining strength.

The recession during that period is rejected as a reason, since other reverses in the business cycle have not had a similar result. The teamsters union scandals are also discounted in this context, since statistics show this union has increased its membership despite the general trend.

The technological revolution now sweeping North American industry is suggested as a major cause. Thousands of new jobs requiring highly skilled workers are being created, and many non-skilled jobs are being wiped out as a result of the increasing application of mechanization to production. And it is among the more highly skilled workers that unionization has been least successful. The automobile workers union and the steel workers, for instance, are reported to have lost a quarter of a million members each, while the United Mine Workers has lost three-quarters of its members.

White collar workers and the more highly skilled technicians have been the object of a strong unionization drive. Although the white collar employees account for more than 50 per cent of the American labor force, they comprised only 12 per cent of organized labor in 1958 —and even that represented a 300,000 decrease from 1956.

Trees to Look At

PROF ARTHUR ERICKSON OF the University of British Columbia has given the people of Qualicum something to think about —and with them the residents of all other parts of this Island.

He has urged that a stop be put to the excessive cutting of trees and that replanting be undertaken to preserve the beauty of the district.

To support his case the professor has shown slides of various cities around the world where preservation of trees and careful planting have added greatly to their attractiveness.

Instead of following a thoughtless practice of clearing ground for new buildings, Prof. Erickson suggests that builders design and site their buildings with a view to making the most of existing stands.

The advice is sound. It points up the fact that trees still have value if they are used only to look at. Without them, charming localities can become bare ground that gives pleasure to no one.

Vital Trans-Atlantic Trade

WASHINGTON—Canada is caught midway, as usual, between the United States and Europe in a new trans-Atlantic trade negotiation far more complex than Canadians or their Parliament have yet grasped. If Canada is to benefit from this supreme attempt to unify the Western nations and avoid grave economic consequences it must be prepared to take difficult decisions and revise its tariff structure. While the United States policy, now crystallizing, is too complicated for brief description, it may be summarized in four propositions:

Hutchison

FIRST, if the European Common Market abolishes the tariffs between its six member nations and maintains a high common tariff against other nations, the United States' exports to Europe, and Canada's also, will be seriously damaged—and this at a time when the United States and Canada are both carrying an over-all trading deficit.

Second, if the Common Market conducts a tariff quarrel with the European Free Trade Association (the Outer Seven) headed by Britain, the political consequences may be even more serious than the economic.

Third, the obvious theoretical solution of these problems—the establishment of a common market, spanning the Atlantic and including the United States and Canada—is impossible in practical American politics at the present time.

FOURTH, since the rival European trade groups will start cutting the tariffs between their member states on July 1, without necessarily applying these cuts outside the two separate zones, action on trans-Atlantic trade cannot be delayed. Otherwise a crisis may develop before autumn.

To avoid such a crisis the United States considered but abandoned, at least for the present, the project of a trans-Atlantic free trade area in which the tariffs of Europe and North America would be reduced by stages as the European tariffs are being reduced within the two trade groups.

This solution, which appeals to many Canadians as ideal, runs against two obstacles.

In practical politics the United States Government feels that it must conduct all tariff negotiations under the president's limited power to reduce tariffs without the approval of the Congress.

THESE powers are not wide enough to embrace a trans-Atlantic free-trade area. The president can cut existing tariffs by about 20 per cent only, over a period of four years. If a more drastic cut in tariffs were pro*posed to the Congress* a Pandora's box of troubles would be opened in American politics and the administration's objectives perhaps lost in endless Congressional wrangling under the pressure of protectionist industries.

Moreover, a trans-Atlantic free-trade area, though strictly legal under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, would tend to breach its spirit by discriminating against all nations outside the area. In fact, a free-trade area is discriminatory by definition since it gives lower tariffs to its members than it grants to outsiders.

If Europe, the United States and Canada agreed to cut and finally abolish the tariffs between them they could, by this policy, damage the trade *of Japan, India, Australia, South Amer*ica and other regions with grave political and economic results.

PROBABLY these results could be moderated, or even prevented entirely, by various tariff concessions to the outsiders but these arrangements would be extremely difficult and, in any case, the daunting problem of re-opening the whole American tariff in the Congress would remain.

This does not mean, however, that the United States Government will do nothing and stand idly by while the European trade groups reduce their tariff in two separate compartments and possibly quarrel between themselves. A definite American policy to avoid these dangers and greatly increase trans-Atlantic trade is now taking shape. It will be described in the next dispatch from Washington.

Getting a Tow and Getting a Lift

The Times (London)

A SHIP was towed into the Tyne the other day after becoming disabled off the Northumberland coast, and it may well have found that its emotions towards the vessel that performed the friendly office by no means consisted solely of gratitude.

Gratitude of course existed, but there was probably a measure of irritation mixed with it, irritation directed partly at itself and partly, and irrationally, at its deliverer. For there is about the act of being towed something that is, not to put too fine a point on it, humiliating.

A ship, to be sure, is spared the indignity that sometimes befalls cars which choose to give up the ghost in the middle of nowhere. It does not have to suffer the fate of being lugged along with its front wheels in the air, a forlorn object, helpless, bereft of its natural powers, and looking as though it will never again eat up the miles with insolent, purring ease.

The poor ship which has run out of *steam or suffered the nautical equiva*lent of a puncture has at least no reason to reproach itself with cadging. And, what is more, the act of towing and being towed on the high seas can be one of high drama and heroism.

Who can forget the epic struggle of Captain Carlsen and the Flying Enterprise, and the glory of the adventure and others like it should draw the sting from the embarrassment of entering harbor at the end of a rope.

WORLD DISAPPROVAL By WALTER LIPPMANN

No Tests Regardless of Ban

THE explosion in the Sahara Desert, which showed that French science and technology are as good as anyone else's, is notice to all of us that there is no monopoly and not much mystery about nuclear weapons. What France can do today, China will be able to do tomorrow, *not to speak of Ger*many and Japan. This would not necessarily mean the end of the world. But it will certainly mean that as the test explosions are multiplied, the air will become polluted, and the consequences to future generations are horrible to contemplate.

Lippmann

For 14 months the U.S.S.R., the U.K., and the U.S.A. have been negotiating a treaty designed to put an end to test explosions. These negotiations have progressed marvelously, and they represent something quite new and unex*pected in the relations* between the Soviet Union and the Western world.

To be sure the three of us, who now have nuclear weapons, cannot impose our treaty, *even if we reach final agree*ment, on the rest of the world. But if we are agreed on a treaty, we shall set an example, we shall create the machinery, around which world opinion will surely rally.

France Would Help

There is little reason to doubt that France, for example, if her rights are respected, would join in and contribute valuable help in making the test ban workable.

Yet for the time being the negotiations are stalled. The issue arises out of experiments conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission in a salt mine in Louisiana.

These experiments showed our experts that relatively small underground explosions cannot be detected by the existing instruments. They cannot surely be distinguished from earthquakes.

America's difference with the Soviet *Union is over the size of the under*ground explosions which can be detected. U.S. experts say that the underground explosion can be nine times as big, and still go undetected as the Soviet experts say it can be.

The Administration has taken the position that the United States will not agree to abandon underground explosions if our experts say they are too small to be detected. We propose, therefore, to authorize such small nuclear testing.

Soviet Position

As it happens, these authorized explosions would be just the ones which the Atomic Energy Commission and the Pentagon regard as desirable in order to perfect a number of weapons they are working on. The Soviet position, on the other hand, is that all tests must be banned, even those which cannot be detected.

The abstract logic of our position—ban only what can surely be detected—is perfect in itself. But there is very good reason to think that it is unrealistic and that if we hold to it inflexibly, refusing to work out any one of the many compromises which are quite conceivable, it will prove to be quite an unwise position. For it is based on the assumption that no treaty is better than an imperfect treaty.

I think this assumption is miscalculated. The miscalculation is a failure to realize the significance of the concessions which have been made by the *Soviet Union in agreeing to an elabor*ate world-wide inspection system, of which a large number of stations, manned by foreigners, would be on Soviet territory.

In the perspective of Russian, not to speak of Communist, suspicion and dislike of foreigners the Soviet concessions promise a political break-through of historic significance.

Our policy-makers have not, it seems to me, taken into account the full consequence of the Soviet concessions. It is that the Soviet Union is by way of convincing most of the world outside this country that it is sincere about ending nuclear testing.

Buying Support

We have been told by the experts of the Atomic Energy Commission not to worry about fallout. But mankind is terrified by it, and the Soviet Union is buying world support by agreeing to be inspected by foreigners in order to end the testing.

The President and his advisors should bear this in mind when they talk about resuming our own testing. The President has said that "we consider ourselves free to resume nuclear testing" but that we shall not resume it without announcing our intention to do so.

What does the President think would happen if he did announce such an intention? There would be an uproar around the world. Quite competent and cool observers believe that the uproar would bring about a special meeting of the General Assembly of the United Nations to protest against our action, and that if the question were put to a vote, we should be lucky to get 10 votes out of 80.

In any event the damage to our influence and our prestige would be enormous.

Diplomatic Victory

Moreover—and this is the point that the Administration should not overlook—if the treaty fails because it is not totally perfect, the Soviet Union will have won a sweeping diplomatic victory. The Soviet Union will not have to admit foreigners to carry out inspection on her territory.

At the same time the United States will not really be free to continue test*ing. For the more we test, the more* we shall be denounced and opposed as having failed to show a decent respect for the opinion of mankind.

When these negotiations started, the Russians wanted to ban testing without any inspection. If we hold inflexibly to our present position, there is likely to be no treaty, and the Russians will get for nothing most of what they wanted in the first place.

They will have no inspection and they will have made it almost impossible for us to do much testing.

Not 'Most Powerful'

Your movie critic, Phil Lee, is mis*taken in his assertion that HMS Hood* was "the world's most powerful ship" (Victoria Daily Times, Feb. 12). Displacing 42,100 tons, she was certainly the largest warship in the world, but was inferior in fire power and armor to several of her contemporaries in the Royal Navy, notably HMS Rodney, the 33,500-ton battleship, not to mention the battleships of the King George V class which also took part in the Bismarck action.

It may not be generally realized that HMS Hood, building of which commenced in 1916, was a battle cruiser, heavily armed but comparatively lightly armored.

Man oh Manon

I wish to refer to a news item which appeared in the Times, reporting that 640 Winnipeg listeners protested the showing on television, by the CBC, of the French opera, "Manon."

The protests fall roughly into four categories. They are so pertinent, I believe, that they deserve analysis.

1. "This is an English country." The great operas were written by Italian, German and French composers. Why blame the CBC for this? The Metropolitan Opera present them in their original language.

2. "The CBC is full of [illegible]." It is a revelation of the culture of the average TV viewer, and his determination to inflict his taste on others.

3. "The opera replaced such programs as The Rifleman, Man From Blackhawk and Tennessee Ernie Ford." Did the CBC mess up the intellectual training of its listeners?

4. "The opera was too long." To the best of my knowledge, "Manon" has been presented by most opera houses of the world in its entirety. The CBC finds itself in good company.

The CP dispatch reports that only 35 callers approved the opera, approxi*mately five per cent. Could it be one* of the reasons why a "backward" coun*try, like Russia, is forging ahead of* "highly civilized" countries?

Some say that the rulers in the Kremlin force the young Russian to love high intellectual training. Courage, men of CBC. You might not be fighting a losing battle. I don't believe culture can be hammered into a head, but you never know.

Senior Civil Servants

A news item in a recent Times: "Senior Civil Servants Get Substantial Pay Hike."

Senior deputy minister hike $2,400. Second echelon, $1,800. Third echelon, $1,500. Executive Assistant to Premier, similar increase.

Social Credit seems to be OK for top echelons. How about the lower echelons? Perhaps they would like a chance at the grab. Perhaps someone could advise me of the amount the lower echelons receive.

Pension Strings

It has come to my attention that a war veteran's wife whose husband gets war veteran's allowance of a little over $100, can only earn $50 a month.

The husband is confined and not able to do any work. I feel the wife should be able to make as much as possible for the future days when she will be alone and at that time be forced to work or go on welfare.

We all know there are husbands making large salaries who's wives are also employed and taking home cheques well over $50 a month.

Surely the wife of a veteran, who has given up his livelihood for his country should have more consideration than this paltry $50 a month.

Hoping the very near future will see a change in this clause of the War Veterans' Allowance Pension.

Hardly Reasonable

Mr. C. Luff doesn't like the C.C.F. sponsoring public power, but his example of British Labor's administration of railways is hardly comparable or reasonable.

If he studies the records of the Saskatchewan Power Corporation he would see the benefit of public power. Mr. Luff may be satisfied with the fantastic rates of the B.C.E. but most of us find them a burden.

Better watch out Mr. Luff or the Liberals, Conservatives or even the Socreds will be offering you a nomination for your continued efforts in trying to split the ranks of labor and the C.C.F.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK By RUTH ENKE

Ecology and Economy

I SEE THAT the word "ecological" has popped up in the Thetis Lake easement row.

Ruth

The University of Victoria was interested in the park as an outdoor laboratory for ecological studies, Alderman MacLean is reported to have said.

And Alderman Edgelow—if I can believe my eyes and the printed page—said "Now we've got the university evidently going to be used in this. How in their wildest dreams can anyone say this is going to affect the university when most universities have their own gardens?"

This curious statement makes me think that perhaps we should look at that word "ecological" since possibly other Victorians, like Alderman Edgelow, may not quite understand it.

The clearest explanation of it that I can find is in an excellent little book, "The National Parks: What They Mean to You and Me," by Freeman Tilden.

Mr. Tilden is writing with the blessings of the National Park Service of the United States. But what he has to say about ecology is applicable to our wild parks and to any area of uncultivated land which far-sighted citizens wish to keep unspoiled for the present and for future generations.

* * *

Because ecology is so important, Mr. Tilden gets right down to it on page two of this little book which, in my opinion, would be useful to any high school teacher who has a feeling for parks and conservation principles.

The word "ecology" is not yet in common use, says Mr. Tilden, writing in 1957. But it shouldn't be a hard word to take because we are already used to the word "economy" which comes from the same root.

That root is the Greek word for "home."

Economy in its original meaning simply meant the art of running a home—household management, in other words.

Ecology is the study of plant and animal life in their home, that is in their own environment and over long periods of time.

Ecology also means that we study plant and animal life in relation to the other forms of life which share that home. All these forms of life together make up the community of a given area. (Exactly like human beings, really Plenty of university students in a town, for instance, mean more money for the merchants, for service stations, for movie houses, etc.)

This idea of ecology is rather different from the way in which natural history used to be taught. I know that we used to study each plant and animal by itself, and gave little thought to its relationship to other forms of life in the community.

* * *

Now if this is the meaning of ecology, then a trim or artificial university garden is obviously not to be compared with Thetis Lake area.

Obviously, too, if we let the B.C. Electric cut a swath within the Thetis Lake area limits we are going to affect the ecological associations within that swath and beyond its borders.

The Thetis Lake area is only 1,400 precious acres.

And what a fight to protect those 1,400 acres from the ravages of the few people who still haven't learned that conservation costs money, but restoration costs more!

Diet and Drugs

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

I learn that several of the drugs now much used for the reduction of appetite contain a substance called phenylpropanolamine. According to an author in the Journal of the American Medical Association, its effects are not pronounced. If one takes enough of it to take away much of the appetite, it is likely to have some undesirable side-effects. A "reducing" drug sometimes put in chewing gum is said to be benzocaine. This is supposed to anesthetize the taste buds or nerve endings in the mouth, but according to the experts, it has not been proved to everyone's satisfaction that this will lessen the appetite.

Alvarez

According to the expert writing in the Journal of the AMA, "there is no vitamin, or mineral, or protein food supplement that will produce a reduction in body weight." Drugs of the amphetamine or dexedrine type can lessen the appetite, but they are nerve stimulants, and hence had better not be taken in the afternoon if they are not to interfere with sleep that night. I am a bit afraid of these drugs because I have known a few persons who got to taking a handful of the tablets every day.

According to government experts, "there is no device effective for 'spot reducing,' 'melting away' fat, rubbing or vibrating it off, or breaking up fatty deposits." One cannot count on the vibrators to do the work. Unfortunately, a good sensible reduction diet is still the only good treatment for a fat person.

Dr. H. Blackburn, J. Brozek, and H. L. Taylor of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, recently reported a study made of lung volumes and vital capacities in the cases of men averaging 52 years of age. Some were smokers and some non-smokers; some were heavy smokers, and some had stopped for at least a year.

Interesting was the finding that the vital capacity (the amount of air a man can blow out of his lungs) was smaller in all of the smokers than in the non-smokers. The man with a low vital capacity is more likely than another man to become short of breath, or to become handicapped by emphysema or asthma or chronic bronchitis. Often a man with emphysema or asthma or chronic bronchitis can give himself a wonderful break just by stopping smoking.

* * *

This past summer it has been discouraging to see how many cases there were of polio; and naturally, the first reaction of many persons was to say, "I told you so; the Salk vaccine is no good." But a careful study of what actually happened shows that all the blame cannot be put on the vaccine; most of it must be laid at the door of those many mothers who did not know enough or care enough to take their children to be vaccinated. A large percentage of these mothers were illiterate persons who perhaps had not even heard of the vaccine.

What I am very hopeful about is the fact that in many parts of the world the new "oral" or "live" vaccine has been swallowed by many millions of children with apparently excellent results. The only reason that it is not being used widely is because of the fear of some men that, with many "passages" of the virus through human beings, it might regain its original power to cause paralysis. In a year or two, if this does not happen, it may be that all that our children will need in order to be protected from polio will be one teaspoonful of the medicine.

Russians 'Welcome' Ike's A-Ban Reaction

(Times News Service)

GENEVA—Semyon Tsarapkin, Russian delegate at the nuclear test ban conference, said today he "conditionally welcomed" President Eisenhower's remarks that the Soviet proposal for a comprehensive test ban was less rigid than previous Moscow demands.

Tsarapkin, who made his comment conditional on reading the president's verbatim remarks at his press conference in Washington Wednesday, said it was a "good reaction."

Tsarapkin said "we made a big concession in order to sign an immediate ban on all tests for all time."

The U.S. warned Russia Wednesday that the U.S. Senate may reject a treaty banning nuclear tests unless it permits an adequate number of on-site inspections of suspected treaty violations.

U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth was prompted by Tsarapkin's repeated refusal to give any figure for a quota of inspections.

The Soviet proposal admits a total ban could not be policed by a cheat-proof inspection system. But he said that until scientific improvements can make the system perfect, the three powers should use the maximum amount of instrument reading on which they can agree at present.

This is a counter-proposal to President Eisenhower's plan last week for a ban on all tests except small-scale underground explosions, which are often difficult to detect.

ROYAL PAIR TO VISIT U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The King and Queen of Thailand have accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to visit the United States. The White House said Wednesday they will arrive in Washington June 28 to begin a 10-day stay.

'You Want Best Apples In the Box'

UN Official Raps Refugee Rejection

A special United Nations representative for world refugees said today he is disappointed with British Columbia for rejecting a federal government proposal to settle 100 European tuberculosis refugees and their families in Canada.

Peter Casson said the United Nations needed every bit of assistance, regardless how small, to help re-establish and rehabilitate thousands of destitute refugee families in Europe and Asia.

"I regret that British Columbia rejected the government's scheme," he said.

Premier Bennett rejected the Ottawa proposal on the grounds that it was "too small a gesture." B.C.'s share would have been eight families.

LITTLE ENOUGH

As it was, Mr. Casson said Canada is doing little enough to assist handicapped refugees without fully co-operating in a small humanitarian program.

Since the war, he said, Sweden had accepted more than 1,400 handicapped refugees and their families. About 90 per cent have been rehabilitated.

Norway and Belgium are also doing their share in assisting ailing refugees, he said.

In the past, he said, some countries, including Canada, had only assisted the physically fit.

"You want the best apples on the top of the box," he said.

Mr. Casson is in Victoria in connection with Refugee Year—a world-wide movement formed to solve the problem of re-establishing refugees dispossessed of homes and national rights. He will speak at the First Baptist Church Auditorium at 8 tonight.

Mr. Casson said there are still thousands of people living in Europe under shocking conditions in camps, including former Nazi slave compounds.

LOST A FINGER

"Can you imagine the disappointment of a family when it learns at the last moment that it can't enter a country because a son is missing a finger," he said.

Britain, he said, is the first country so far to reach its objective in a campaign for refugee funds. They raised $5,600,000.

The campaign was so successful, he said, that the United Kingdom refugee committee has started another campaign to raise an additional $5,600,000.

Mr. Casson urged Victorians to support the newly-formed refugee committee here which plans to launch a drive for funds.

"The campaign should be a community effort," he said. "This is one of the last chances we will have in solving the refugee problem."

Cigaret Plant For Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans are in progress for the Rothman-Rembrandt group to build a cigaret manufacturing plant in the Vancouver area, a company official announced Wednesday.

John Fitzgerald, public relations director of the group for Canada, said the plant—first on the Pacific coast of North America—will provide 300 manufacturing jobs with an estimated capital investment of $1,500,000.

D. Cook Heads District Council For Scouts Group

The second of eight planned district Scout councils was organized here Wednesday with W. H. Gibson appointed district commissioner and William Stewart district cubmaster.

To be known as the Tsartlip District, the new administrative set-up includes Scouts of Royal Oak, Prospect Lake, Elk Lake, Cordova Bay, James Island, Brentwood, Sidney and Deep Cove.

D. Cook was named president and Dr. William Newton, vice-president. P. Thomas was chosen secretary, P. Hemphill, treasurer and D. Crosby, badge secretary.

Named to the executive were D. Mulldroch, D. R. McLaren, Dave Woodsworth and J. Barber-Starkey.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Resurge Continues At Toronto and N.Y.

The New York stock market scored one of its best recovery. Added to Wednesday's small recovery, the market at noon had made up the losses of Monday and Tuesday.

Gains of two or better were posted for Ford, Republic Steel, Texas Instruments and American Tobacco.

Spearheaded by resurging banks and steels the Toronto market continued to clip along at higher levels today.

AT TORONTO International Paper had the best industrial gain with an increase of 1¼ at 105. Interprovincial Pipe Line was ahead ⅞ at 55⅞.

On the losing side Goodyear Tire fell 10 points at 160 on a small turnover and Huron and Erie slipped five points on sales totalling 50 shares.

Western oils declined slightly. Changes were minor with gains outnumbering losses.

AT NEW YORK Distillers-Seagrams added a point in the Canadian list. Walker-Gooderham, McIntyre Porcupine, Aluminium Ltd. and Hudson Bay Mining were also higher.

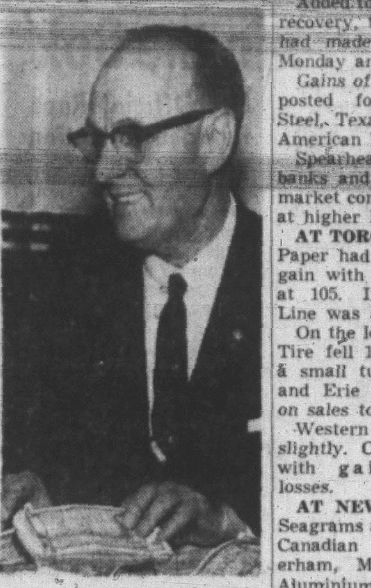
Canadian oils were mainly better on the American exchange. Canadian mines and industrials generally lost ground.

AT MONTREAL the stock exchange continued to show gains, following Wednesday's late revival, in moderate trading.

AT LONDON the stock market showed some improvement today following the late rally on Wall Street Wednesday.

Gilt-edged securities were a little firmer and most dollar stocks improved. Industrial shares were irregular with Unilever, Philips Lamps and Ford Motors all showing improvement. Steels were generally erratic.

AT VANCOUVER the market was active with prices stronger during the forenoon. Peace River Pete traded 1,000 at 25. Giant Mascot moved 36,000 at 27. Continental Mines sold 2,000 at 40. Mid-West Copper moved 10,000 at 14. Pacific Nickel traded 5,000 at 74.



REG. N. E. HARRIS, CLU
. . . honored by profession

Long Service Rewarded

Thirty-two years of uninterrupted service in the insurance business has won a life membership in the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada for Reg. E. N. Harris, CLU, of Victoria.

Mr. Harris was one of three insurance men so honored at the 53rd annual meeting of the LUAC at Montreal, Feb. 10-12.

A member of LUAC since 1928, Mr. Harris became a CLU in 1930. In 1933 he served as president of the Victoria local. In 1946 he assumed the dual responsibility of secretary-treasurer of the Victoria local and at the same time served as a member of the board of directors of LUAC.

Victoria Life Underwriters Wednesday pledged $500 to Victoria University building fund drive. The monies will be paid over five years at $100 per year.

Bank Rate Drops

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada interest rate dropped today to 4.87 per cent from 5 per cent last week.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax prices had a firmer appearance in trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Flax trade was moderately active and offerings were less burdensome than on Wednesday.

Barley trade was moderately active with domestic and export house purchasing. Prices were firm.

Oats trade was mostly of a domestic nature. Rye trade had no feature and rye prices were irregular.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: West Germany 150,000 bushels; the United Kingdom 55,000, and Belgium 30,000.

Lakehead prices for Class 2, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged from Wednesday.

FATHER BEATS TEACHER WHO SCOLDED TOTS

LANGLEY, B.C. (UPI) — A father of five was held today for psychiatric examination after pleading guilty to assaulting a teacher who scolded his offspring for being late.

Sigmond Sort was remanded for a pre-sentence examination Wednesday after he pleaded guilty to beating Miss Muriel Boskill earlier in the day.

Police say Sort walked into a class and beat Miss Boskill with a rubber hose in front of screaming fifth and sixth graders. Two fellow-teachers at the grade school rescued Miss Boskill who was released after treatment at a hospital.

Neighbors said Sort was furious because his children were criticized for being late for school.

Transport Hearing Slated Here Monday

The MacPherson royal commission on transportation has completed prairie hearings and will open a one-day session in Victoria at 10 a.m. Monday at the Empress Hotel.

The provincial government will add its views on transportation to the thousands of words already accumulated by the commission.

Then the six royal commissioners—one of them, Herbert Anscomb, a former B.C. finance minister—will fly back to Vancouver to wind up their western fact-finding tour next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Travelling with the commission are more than a dozen lawyers who represent different groups or governments with a vital stake in transportation—Canadian truckers associations, grain interests, provincial governments and the railways.

Up to now, the trial of transportation has been chiefly devoted to Western Canada's statutory freight rate level on export grain shipments. The CPR and the CNR contend that grain traffic — moved at low rates first set more than 60 years ago and pegged there by an agreement and Parliament —is their major sore spot.

They claim they lose about $70,500,000 a year because they are forced to handle the grain traffic at statutory rates about which they can do nothing. As a remedy, the railways have suggested a federal subsidy paid to the companies but clearly tied to western farmers.

In a bid to win support in the west, the railways have admitted that prairie farmers cannot afford at the present time to pay higher rates on grain shipments to export terminals. The railways want, instead, to have the federal treasury put up the money to cover a "just and reasonable" rate level which, the CPR says, would be double the current rate. The CNR says a 125-per-cent increase would be acceptable.

Cost to the federal treasury could range from $18,000,000 to $70,000,000.

U.S. Demand For Cattle Takes Drop

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia cattle exports to the United States during 1959 fell sharply to 15,420 head from 36,139 in 1958, preliminary figures show.

Livestock officials said increasing demand from eastern Canada for B.C. feeder cattle offset much of the drop in U.S. demand, however.

K. V. Chowen, manager of the B.C. Livestock Producers Co-operative Association, said the Canadian demand increased as prices slipped, reflecting lower U.S. demand.

He said cattlemen generally had a good year, although prices were lower than in 1958.

$100,000 For Loss Of Family

MILTON, Ont. (CP)—Royal Austin Skinner, 39, Wednesday was awarded $100,000 damages in an out-of-court settlement of his suit against two natural gas firms he blamed for an explosion in November, 1958, which caused the death of his wife and child.

Mr. Skinner was severely burned when he tried to save his family.

When settlement terms were presented in Ontario Supreme Court today, Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly said it was "a fair and honorable settlement."

Mr. Skinner will receive a flat $100,000 and pay all his hospital, medical, and legal expenses.

Skinner received damages from United Suburban Gas Company and Gas Machinery Company (Canada) Limited, both of Hamilton, for personal injury and loss of his family.

Municipal Aid Boost CCF Aim

A CCF government would encourage municipally-owned shopping centres and low rent housing areas, Saanich CCF provincial candidate Pat Thomas said Wednesday.

Speaking to a meeting of poll captains, he emphasized the need for more provincial-municipal conferences. Greater and more diversified aid for municipalities would be a major aim of his party in government, he said.

The CCF in government would assume more and more of provincial education costs until the entire cost of elementary and secondary schools was borne by the province, he said.

A CCF government would pay all costs of new hospital construction and 100 per cent of social welfare and health costs, he said.

'Tag Drunk Drivers'

LONDON (Reuters) — Conservative MP Robert Mathew Tuesday suggested that persons convicted of drunken driving should be forced to place a special sign on their windshield for up to five years after conviction.

TISDALLE DEFENDS CARTONS

Dairy Ban 'Helps Competition'

An appeal to the government not to prosecute Saanich Milky Way Dairy for continuing to use 64-ounce milk cartons despite a cabinet ban was made in the legislature Wednesday by John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich).

Mr. Tisdalle also called for:

1. Extension of West Saanich Road to join Trans-Canada Highway.
2. Government assistance in completion of an east-west highway, based on McKenzie Avenue, linking Trans-Canada Highway with Gordon Head.
3. An additional RCMP officer for Sidney detachment.
4. Reconstruction of McTavish Road.
5. Routing of a domestic water line to Swartz Bay ferry terminal over a circling route which would service Saanich peninsula homes which are not now serviced, the system to be taken over by the people served in a new water district.

ERROR IN PRINCIPLE

On the milk carton controversy, Mr. Tisdalle said the government erred in principle when it acted to halt use by the dairy of the American-sized half gallon cartons. Instead of helping local farmers "we are protecting the competition."

"The workers of Budapest were not granted redress . . . but we as Social Crediters stand for fair treatment," he said. He asked the ban be removed, "We cannot procede to prosecute."

He said he has heard the government argue that the consumers were being hurt by the use of the smaller cartons. (Some bought them thinking they contained 80 ounces, the imperial half gallon).

"But everyone I meet says 'I don't care what size it is, so long as the weight is marked'," Mr. Tisdalle added.

He said the demand for the Saanich milk was growing and so far as price goes, it is fair and in ratio to the carton size.

Mr. Tisdalle said he had heard also that the federal government might be considering licencing of salt water sports fishermen.

He felt the idea might have some merit as a conservation measure. But the minister of recreation and conservation "should make sure there is some return—that some tangible assistance comes back."

He also said he wanted to spike a rumor he had heard that some government members had been buying up lands in Saanich in the area where the new highway will be routed to Swartz Bay. "They did not. I want to spike it right now," said Mr. Tisdalle.

Young Victorians Seek Honors In World Motorcycle Events

Two young Victoria men will represent Canada in world championship motorcycle races to be held this spring in England.

They are Jim Fracy, 21, of 1472 Derby Road, and Jack Heanski, 20, of 1377 Hillside.

Both are thoroughly experienced motorcyclists with a bevy of wins behind them in various events held in B.C.

Mr. Fracy will be the first rider to represent Canada in the European scrambles while his companion will be one of Canada's contestants in road races.

Jim Fracy has placed third in the B.C. scrambles championship and has proven to be a top competitor in other events.

Jack Heanski is one of the province's outstanding road racers and almost always places in competitions.

Mr. Fracy leaves Friday and will fly to England. He plans to purchase a "bike" there.

His companion will follow in a couple of weeks and will take his motorcycle with him.

His motorcycle currently holds the lap record for any type of vehicle at the B.C. Sports Car Club's Westwood circuit.

The pair plan to be away at least a year.

Roy Melvin Richmond, Nanaimo, $15 and $3 costs for speeding over 50.

Algeria Shuffle

PARIS (Reuters) — The French cabinet launched a sweeping reorganization of the civilian administration in Algeria Wednesday. Decrees were announced naming eight new prefects in eight of the 12 Algerian departments.

AFTER A-BOMB

Everyone Would Have To Pitch In

If there is a nuclear attack on Canada, not only the army but all surviving civilians would be needed to help keep the country running.

Maj.-Gen. A. E. Wrinch, army survival chief, made the statement here Wednesday. He was in Victoria to address active and reserve army afficers, and civil defence officials.

Gen. Wrinch said the army's survival plan is based on the belief a large number of people would survive a nuclear explosion. It calls for fallout shelters in every city, informed public opinion, and a disciplined rescue force.

He pointed out the army has not taken over civil defence, and would need assistance from thousands of civilians in the event of attack. "It has been estimated that from 350,000 to 500,000 persons could be needed for rescue operations alone," he said.

U.S., CANADA TELL OTHERS BUT BALK AT HOME

What's Good for the World...

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada and the United States have reached agreement on how to tackle a number of sticky problems hampering world trade but they still are at odds on how to resolve some tough problems in their own backyard.

At a two-day ministerial conference which ended Wednesday, the two countries agreed Europe and other industrialized countries should take more of Asia's low-cost manufactured goods to ease the flood of these products in North American markets.

They also agreed that the sterling area should eliminate completely all remaining import quota discrimination against dollar area goods from Canada and the U.S.

But the U.S. rejected Canada's demand that U.S. lead and zinc import curbs be withdrawn and that the U.S. stop subsidizing its cotton textile exports to Canada and other markets.

CANADIAN CHARGE

Canada on the other hand rejected U.S. complaints against a new Canadian charge for use of air navigation facilities by civilian aircraft flying over Canadian territory.

A U.S. spokesman said this charge went into effect last month and seemed to be a tool against aircraft simply for the privilege of flying over Canadian territory on North American routes. They said only a few countries make such a charge. Canada said the charges "covered only a part of the large and growing costs of these facilities."

The U.S. said it also would like to see removal of Canadian import curbs on turkeys. Canada asked for removal of U.S. curbs on flaxseed, linseed oil and cheddar cheese. Authorities said later there may be a possibility of some action on these farm products but that no pledges were made by either country.

"BEST" MEETING

Despite the lack of major decisions on domestic issues, Canada's Finance Minister Fleming said in a statement the two-day meeting of the joint economic and trade committee was "one of the best" ever held by the group set up five years ago.

He said he would report to Parliament today on achievements.

State Secretary Christian A. Herter headed a U.S. delegation of five cabinet members, their deputies and other experts. Both sides felt progress had been achieved.

The committee's next meeting will be in Ottawa sometime next year.

Canada Joining Plan To Help Poor Nations

WASHINGTON (CP) — Representatives of eight Western powers including Canada will meet here early next month to prepare the foundations for what President Eisenhower hopes eventually will become a congress of all free countries to channel capital into impoverished areas.

This will be the beginning of the Eisenhower dream — to unite the free world in a common goal that could provide a positive and potent challenge to the Communist aim of enlarging its economic camp until it chokes off capitalism.

The eight countries, which annually spend billions of dollars to help needy countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America, are the United States, France, Britain, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Portugal, as well as Canada.

They agreed in Paris last month to work together on their investment programs until a new 20-country association can be set to replace the antiquated 18-country organization for European economic co-operation.

SUEZ BARRED TO ISRAELIS

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—President Nasser said Wednesday the United Arab Republic will never allow Israeli ships or goods to transit the Suez Canal.

In a speech to thousands of cheering Syrians at the northern Syrian city of Aleppo, he declared that Israeli goods seized in any UAR port will be confiscated for the welfare of Palestine Arab refugees.

Delightfully New and Different!
QUICK ENERGY
FAMILY DESSERTS
featuring ROGERS GOLDEN SYRUP

1 ORANGE BABA
Make a sponge, chiffon or angel cake from a mix. When cool — or next day — spoon over the cake this syrup: To one cup of Rogers Golden Syrup add enough fresh or frozen orange juice to make a thin pouring syrup. When the cake has absorbed all the syrup, glaze with heated apricot jam. Use a pastry brush to apply jam. Decorate in a flower design with glace fruit and almonds.

2 FRENCH PANCAKES
You'll need one egg for every two people. Beat lightly and stir in enough flour to make a stiff paste. Add a pinch of salt and a good teaspoon of Rogers Golden syrup for every egg used. Add milk to make a thin batter (like coffee cream). Pour less than enough to cover the bottom, into a hot greased frying pan. Tip until batter covers bottom. Turn almost immediately.

3 BUTTERSCOTCH SUNDAE SAUCE
¾ cup Rogers Golden Syrup
1½ cups light brown sugar
½ cup butter
Pinch of salt
1 cup cream or evaporated milk
Bring all ingredients to a boil and cook for two minutes. Can be stored in refrigerator several days.

Hall	20	6	12—38
Morton	3	8	5—16

Victoria's Navy team can pull up anchors this weekend with the knowledge that the Commercial Hockey League pennant will flutter from its mast.

Coach Norm Jones' sailors, who open a best-of-five Vancouver Island intermediate final series in Nanaimo Saturday, ran up the CHL banner Wednesday night.

Playing before almost 800 fans at Memorial Arena, Navy retained the city title with a 6-4 verdict over Pattersons. That gave them the two-game, total-goal round, 13-5.

Second game of the Island series will be played in Memorial Arena Monday, starting at 8.30.

Two quick goals by Dave Hill early in the third period gave Navy its clinching victory over the only team that has managed to beat the Sailors this year in league play.

Scoring champion Neil Standley also scored twice, including the insurance goal, with only 24 seconds left in the game. John Morris and Carl Christiaens fired Navy's other counters, while Pattersons got two goals from Les Corby and singles from John Makowsky and Ab Weibe.

The close-checking tactics of Pattersons and some fancy puck-stopping by George Hall kept the score respectable. The Navy attack was near its usual effective peak and Hall was called on to make 38 stops while Navy's Art Morton blocked only 16.

'It Doesn't Rain, It Just Pours . . .'

By Canadian Press

New York Rangers, with only a faint hope of catching a Stanley Cup playoff berth, have bumped into more grief and the Boston Bruins have reached the end of their modest winning streak.

Rangers received another parcel of trouble Wednesday night when goaltender Gump Worsley was knocked out for the rest of the National Hockey League season with a cut hand. Bruins slipped down into a third-place tie with Chicago when their four-game victory skein was snapped by a 3-1 loss to Toronto Maple Leafs.

The 33-year-old netminder Worsley had two tendons in his right hand severed at the start of the second period when star centre Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks ran into him.

MAY CALL BASSEN

Practice netminder Joe Schaefer took over and let in all five goals as the Hawks won 5-1.

Hull's skate cut through Worsley's glove after Gump had fallen to the ice while making a save.

The last-place Rangers said they will call up either Hank Bassen of Vancouver Canucks in the Western League or Marcel Paille of Springfield Indians in the American League. Bassen and Paille, both 27, have been in the NHL, but couldn't stick.

BRUINS CRIPPLED

The Bruins were crippled by injuries before the game started but worse things were to come, forwards Guy Gendron and Leo Labine were out with the flu and defenceman Doug Mohns was out with a groin injury as the Bruins took the ice.

Early in the game Vic Stasiuk, the league's fourth-place scorer, was sidelined with a pulled groin muscle. Fleming Mackell, who had just returned to the lineup, was sidelined in the first period, also suffering from a groin injury.

LUMLEY SHINES

But for the sparkling work of goalie Harry Lumley, Leafs would have run up a much higher score. Lumley made 34 stops to Johnny Bower's 22.

The lone Boston goal was scored by Larry Leach, who had scored only five goals previously this season.

Weather Halts Scottish Soccer

LONDON (Reuters) — Snow and ice caused the postponement of five of the seven Scottish Cup second-round soccer ties and replays due to take place Wednesday.

Hearts vs. Kilmarnock and Hibernian vs. Dundee ties were called off for the third time since Saturday.

The replays between Queen's Park and Montrose, Inverness Caledonians and East Stirling and Celtic and St. Mirren also were postponed.

Queen of the South beat Stirling Albion, 5-1, in their Scottish Cup second round replay at Dumfries and now meet Dundee United or Partick Thistle away from home in the third round.

Carol in Usual Form As Mount Doug Wins

When they line up for awards at Mount Douglas High School later this year, it's a cinch Carol Casilio will be front and centre.

That has been her position all season as Mount Doug marked up an unbeaten record in Inter-High Senior Girls' Basketball League play. It's an "off day" when she fails to score at least 12 points.

Carol led Mount Doug to the Lower Island championship Wednesday by scoring 16 points as her mates downed Victoria High 44-16 in the final of a two-day tournament.

Mount Newton defeated Milnes Landing 30-21 in the consolation final.

Mount Doug now journeys to Ladysmith for the Island tournament Feb. 26-27.

Lineups and scorers:

Mount Douglas—Carol Casilio 16, Georgina Noels 4, Joyce Murrant 4, Sylvia Wedman 5, Sue Watson 3, Lynette Walton, Sylvia Campbell 4, Pat Donaldson 4. Total 44.

Victoria High — Joanne Dark, Gail Archibald, Jennie Dark, Carol Thomas, Sandra Shaw, Mary Pearson 2, Susan Mason 2, Fern Jeager, Barbara Walsh 2, Arlene Perry 10. Total 16.

EIGHTH OLYMPICS OPEN . . . . . . FANS DON'T WANT TO PAY

Small Crowds for Biggest Games

By MICHAEL ROSE
Times Staff Reporter

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. — The eighth Winter Olympic Games finally started today to the relief, and perhaps some surprise, of the organizing committee, which has been faced with more than the usual amount of pre-Olympic bickering.

Amid the silent contributions of surrounding snow-capped peaks and the noisier effusions of seething spectators, Richard Nixon, vice-president of the United States, spoke the words that will set the Games in motion Friday:

"I now declare open the Olympic Games of Squaw Valley, celebrating the eighth winter Olympics."

Most of the 400 press, radio and TV representatives have been in the valley for a week before and seemed to understand something of what was going on but to me, with only a day in the area, the whole situation was one of unrelieved confusion.

Harried and stern gate guards attempted to weed out bona fide "VIPs" from keen but broke spectators who didn't have the price of admission but made up for it with a wealth of explanations.

"Everybody's got a sad tale," one guard told me, and then after listening to an impassioned plea by a woman, said, "Lady, I think I'm going to cry," and repulsed her.

Their military-style operations applied to athletes and non-combatants — the paying customers — and one result was that the opening-day crowd fell far below the original estimate of 35,000 for the opening ceremonies. In other words, the 1960 Winter Olympics seemed doomed in advance to be a financial flop.

Fresh snow and frequent minor slides on the slopes have kept a staff of U.S. Signal Corps specialists busy repairing breaks on more than a million yards of communication cable.

A really serious fall of snow could not only upset the games schedule but also maroon about 20,000 people in a village designed to house and feed 1,500. It is a prospect which has weathermen scanning the unpredictable skies.

If the weather holds up, the eighth Olympics should certainly be, if not the best, the biggest of them all.

By JACK SULLIVAN

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) — The eighth Winter Olympic Games opened today with traditional pomp jazzed up with a make-believe Hollywood touch, some apprehension and the background of bickering usually associated with this get-together of athletes from around the world.

The athletes—some 740 of them from 30 countries provided the color, backed up by bands, a 2,645-voice chorus, the release of 20,000 balloons and 2,000 "doves of peace"—pigeons—in an amphitheatre setting surrounded by snow-capped mountains.

It has taken five years and $20,000,000 to build this Olympic village—and the organizers are probably wondering if it has been worth it.

They've had headaches in the past, and these have been compounded since the competitors, plus talkative officials at their demanding best, descended on the site 10 days ago. Hockey, as usual, was loaded down with beefs—the condition of the artificial ice rinks, both indoor and outdoor, practice periods and the schedule.

PUDDLES ON ICE

The complaints about the ice were rounded up by Bunny Ahearne of London, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, who declared on the eve of the opening ceremonies that the surface of the multi-million-dollar indoor arena was "okay for shinny."

George Dudley of Midland, Ont., North American president of the IIHF who headed the ice inspection committee in mid-afternoon Wednesday, said the outdoor rinks were "completely unsuitable" for play during mid-day when the sun is at its hottest and causing puddles of water.

This was followed by federation complaints that accommodations for hockey officials were "lousy," the food was "poor," and transportation "terrible."

Neanderthalish guards voicing the magic word "security" also annoyed the press corps Wednesday. On undisclosed grounds—with the implication that the security of the United States was at stake—all parking passes were revoked and reporters who drove into the Olympic area were forced to abandon their cars almost a mile away from the centre of activities.

SKATERS AND SQUAWKS

Figure-skating officials complained that hockey teams had shoved their athletes off the ice of the indoor arena. Some hockey sources made the same complaint in reverse.

Russia is expected to top the list again in the unofficial point standing—Olympic regulations recognize only individual or team competition—on the prediction that the Soviet contenders will win 13 of the 27 titles at stake.

The Russians won the unofficial national championship at the 1956 Winter Games in Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, when they took the hockey title away from Canada by beating Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchman — the name of the team that opposes them in the 1960 tournament.

The Games actually open Friday, when titles will be decided in the 30-milimetre about 18 miles cross-country skiing, the men's downhill ski event and the pairs figure-skating. In the preliminary hockey round, Canada takes on Sweden, the U.S. meets Czechoslovakia and defending champion Russia should have an easy time against Germany.

BIG FOUR OPENERS

HAMILTON (CP)—The Big Four Football League's 1960 schedule will open with two games Tuesday, Aug. 16.

Totems Team To Beat

The defending champion Victoria High Totems rate as the team to beat, but the strength of some of the leading challengers promise to stamp this year's Lower Island school basketball tournament as the best-balanced in years.

That's the opinion of coaches who are busy grooming their charges for the first-round games Friday at Central Junior High.

All eight entries will see action on the opening day. First-round losers will continue in consolation play early Saturday while winners step into semifinals and finals in the evening.

Finalists qualify for the Lower Mid-Island tournament to be played at Victoria High next weekend. The Island tournament at Nanaimo March 4-5 and the B.C. championships at Vancouver March 24-26 are the last two steps on the play-off trail.

Friday's action starts at 5 p.m.

PRO BASKETBALL

St. Louis 131, Minneapolis 127.
Philadelphia 123, Syracuse 116.

NAME OVER YUNG HEART WON'T GET TO LAUNDRY

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP)—The laundry business at Olympic village suffered a minor setback Wednesday because of Jayne Mansfield.

The blonde actress was mobbed by athletes, spectators and photographers when she showed up dressed in high-heeled boots, red ski sweater and red-checked stretch pants — stretched beautifully.

While signing autographs she spotted Chang Yung, Korea's speed-skating threat. He didn't have any paper so Jayne autographed his tan jacket — just over the heart.

"I'll never have it washed," said Yung.

Stamps Climb Closer to Cats

Calgary Stampeders, desperately striving for a playoff berth, turned on the power Wednesday night to wallop last-place Spokane Comets 9-2 in the only Western Hockey League action.

But the Stamps are still 13 points out of the fourth and last play-off position, currently occupied by Victoria Cougars, who have a chance to move into a second-place tie with Edmonton tonight.

The Cougars continue their final swing through the Prairie section of the league with a game at Winnipeg, where they clipped the Warriors 3-1 Tuesday night.

MATCH PENALTIES

At Calgary, the smallest professional hockey crowd since the Corral opened in 1951—2,344 fans—saw a first-period stick-swinging duel between Stampeders' Terry Gray and Spokane's Fred Creighton. Neither was injured and both were banished with match penalties.

Comets, all but eliminated from the post-season action, were never in the picture at Calgary as the Stamps pumped home five first-period goals and rolled home easy winners.

TWO-GOAL DEBUT

Rookie Don Wilson, up from Saskatoon Quakers of the Saskatoon Quakers of the Saskatchewan Junior League, made an impressive professional debut as he shared scoring honors with veteran Les Colwill. Each scored twice, Colwill's second marker being the winner.

Fred Hucul, Jimmy Brown, Sid Finney, Norm Johnson and Jackie McLeod rounded out Calgary's scoring. Al Johnson and Del Topoll counted for Comets, who trailed Calgary 5-1 after the opening period and 6-2 after 40 minutes.

Arnie Through For Rest of Year

Victoria Cougars appear to have lost their little color guy for the balance of the season.

Diminutive Arnie Schmautz, one of the more effective forwards in the Western Hockey League, won't be allowed on skates for at least eight weeks.

Injured in a WHL game at Winnipeg, Tuesday night, it was originally thought Arnie may be able to return to action in three or four weeks. He suffered a linear fracture of the skull above his left ear.

Cougar club doctor Reg Wride said Wednesday, after conferring with the Winnipeg medic who has been attending Schmautz, that further examination showed Arnie also sustained "a slight tear in the brain covering."

"There is little chance that he will play again this season. He can not be subjected to any body contact for perhaps as much as eight weeks," said Dr. Wride.

The league schedule winds up March 20.

Arnie's condition "will heal itself" and an operation will probably not be needed.

Schmautz suffered a concussion and the fracture when he fell to the ice after being checked by Winnipeg defenceman Gary Bergman.

Victoria coach Hal Laycoe said the Cougars now are going with nine forwards and he has made no immediate plans to replace Schmautz.

Cougars will continue their Prairie tour tonight with another game in Winnipeg. The Cats journey to Edmonton for a Friday night game and will play in Calgary on Saturday.

Hank Also Stopped By His Last Punch

CHICAGO (AP)—Bad luck has caught up with boxer Henry Hank, 24, bright new middleweight title prospect.

The former Detroit zoo keeper and father of five children broke his right hand on the last punch that cracked into Sixto "Kid" Rodriguez's jaw Wednesday night. He is expected to be out of action for two months.

Hank's savage attack stopped the California light-heavyweight champion from San Anselmo in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-rounder. It was his sixth straight victory and 29th knockout.

Hank, who weighed three pounds less than Rodriguez's 165½ pounds, is rated No. 3 by the National Boxing Association.

Rodriguez, stopped for the third loss in 29 starts, was rocked in every round but didn't go down.

Referee Bernie Weissman stepped between the fighters and called a halt at 2.41 of the sixth. Rodriguez tried to escape the referee's clutches and continue but trainer Norman Smiley restrained him.

Lead Sneakers May Slow Vics

Until they come up with lead boots for handicapping purposes, Gordon Hartley's appear destined to maintain their clear-cut superiority in high school cross-country racing circles.

The Vics swept the first five places and the Eaton Trophy Wednesday.

Ace John Valiant took first place with a timing of 22 minutes, 23 seconds. Alf Lincoln, Eric Carlsen, Alan Valiant and Gary Kidson followed in order. Shawnigan Lake's Jeremy Long was sixth.

Five Schoolboy Rinks In Running for Title

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — Dave Sullivan and his New Brunswick rink have provided the biggest upset of this year's Canadian high school curling championship.

The Saint John High School foursome had won only once in four bids when they went into Wednesday night's sixth round against Northern Ontario, unbeaten in five starts. They stunned the Dryden High School rink with a 13-4 victory.

Alberta provided another surprise as Tommy Kroeger skipped his rink to an 8-7 win over Saskatchewan. Dale Hoffman's Saskatoon team had been unbeaten in four games.

B.C. RINK WINLESS

In the other evening matches, Prince Edward Island defeated Newfoundland 10-6, Nova Scotia scored the most one-sided win of the competition — 18-3 — over British Columbia, and Ontario edged Quebec 7-6.

The results left the battle for the title at least a five-way affair. Northern Ontario still is tops with a 5-1 mark. Saskatchewan and Manitoba have 4-1 records and Nova Scotia and Alberta are 4-2.

Next are Ontario and Prince Edward Island with 3-3. New Brunswick is 2-3 and Newfoundland 1-4. Quebec and British Columbia trail with five straight losses.

MILNES LANDING WINS

Netminders Finally Heard That Applause

Soccer goaltenders too often miss that applause but they received their dues Wednesday in the Inter-High Senior Boys' League.

Mel Foxworth of Belmont and Hugh Wadams of Milnes Landing both scored shutouts and Oak Bay's John Fraser, although finally scored upon, played a prominent role as his mates kept their unbeaten record intact.

Oak Bay scored a key victory in defeating tough Mount View 2-1 on goals by John Rostran and Russ Selwood. Mount View's Tom Collett fired the only goal that has managed to elude Fraser this season.

Belmont squared its record at 2-2 with Foxworth scoring his second straight shutout, 3-0 over Mount Douglas. Warren Chapman, John Allen and Harv Chipper counted the goals.

The day's big surprise occurred at Vic High, as Milnes Landing edged the host team 1-0 on a goal by centre forward Allan Brooks.

COBB WRITING MEMOIRS . . . . . . STILL FIERY AT 73

'I Was Always the Louse,' Ty Recalls

By PAT PARRISH

NEW YORK (NEA)—"I don't believe the Lord would have been so kind to me if I had been such a louse."

This was Tyrus Raymond Cobb of Royston, Ga., looking back, angrily, on a baseball career that has been called the greatest of this age.

If you've never met Ty Cobb, don't go into the conversation with any preconceived ideas. A first meeting with the gentleman who helped make baseball will do much to tear down any images created by facts and legends about his career.

At 73, Cobb talks like he played baseball: completely and directly, and he still shakes your hand like it was an arm-wrestling contest.

But Ty Cobb, at 73, also has trouble relaxing. As he sits in a New York hotel room, his face now more wrinkled than in the old pictures you remember but still alive with competitive fire, he shifts his 6-1 frame nervously.

The nervousness stems from a pain in his back. A pain that "does me no good," he says. "No good at all."

Cobb is here working on his memoirs. The would-be author feels he has been abused by writers who colored his diamond performances to make him some kind of machine.

"Why is it that everybody has to have an angle?" he asks. He really wants to know. The tone of his voice gets a little angry and more direct when he remembers specific cases and incidents where he believes the facts were not presented correctly.

"They said," he spat out, "I called (Honus) Wagner a name and he crammed the ball in my mouth when I slid into second base. Do you think I would have done such a thing?"

TY COBB

Prudently, we kept our mouth shut. His finger was waving in front of our nose.

"Why," he continued, "I was more of a gentleman than to call a man I respected as much as Wagner such a name."

But didn't he often tell the opposition he was going to steal and then carry out his threat?

"That's not the way you do things, not at all. I never in my life told anyone I was going to steal a base. I'm always made out to be the louse. Cobb was always the louse. Some guy was just after a story always."

Maybe Cobb would set the record straight in his forthcoming book, we thought.

"I may and I may not. Why should I tell you anyway? I hope you haven't come up here looking for an angle or something. Just say it the way it happened. I played baseball for a long time and I gave it everything I had . . . everything."

Maybe it is with reason that he doesn't like to be remembered as the hustlingest cuss the game ever knew. That was the only preconceived idea we had of an image created by legend of a man who did give it everything he had for 25 years.

He really didn't do a lot to dispel it.

"If you've come up here with the idea of taking a whack at me," he warned, "forget it. Maybe the next time I see you, I'll take a whack at you."

We believe he would.

Uplands Golf Club members are checking into plans that may produce a new clubhouse or a satisfactory extension and modernization of the existing one.

Members approved a motion at their recent annual general meeting asking that directors secure sketch plans, approximate costs and determine methods of financing a new clubhouse.

A committee headed by W. Luney already has taken the initial steps.

The committee, which also includes J. Bramley, Frank Scroggs and D. S. Willard, has recommended an architect to draw up preliminary plans.

As well, a study of Vancouver's Point Grey expansion plans has been made along with enquiries as to methods of financing.

These are only the first steps, but they could well lead the way to a bigger and elaborate clubhouse for Uplands members.

Postponement of Sunday's monthly medal round at Gorge Vale will give Laurie Kerr a chance to take away the top honors from Colwood clubmate Bill McColl.

Kerr was unable to play last week but will be a post entry this week. Laurie and McColl tied for the lead after the opening round last month.

The senior challenge buttons at Cedar Hill Golf Club have changed hands.

Currently holding the lapel decorations are John Ingram and Bob Clements, who wrested them from Walter Steven and Herb Marrison last weekend by scoring a 5-and-4 victory over the former holders.

Among the other names in the news at the Cedar Hill course are those of club champion Dick Munn and club president Ray Harrington, who recently clicked for holes-in-one.

Munn used a wedge to record an ace at the 18th while playing with Ingram, Jim Leebetter and Dudley Page.

Harrington, playing with Page, Archie Osman and Bill Roberts, was wielding a No. 7 iron when he dropped his tee shot into the cup on the 11th green.

Plans to increase the junior golf development program to include girls took a turn for the better Monday following a meeting of local ladies' captains and a Victoria district committee.

Technically, the girls "belong" to the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union. The Victoria District Committee, which makes a big thing of junior development with funds from the provincial body, has long since expressed willingness to include girls in their classes.

The only stiplation the men's committee makes is that the CLGU help finance the program, which last year attracted over 200 boys from senior and junior high schools

The BCGA contributed $400 to a local program last year. The B.C. division of the CLGU has no such funds available, but the Victoria clubs believe they can raise sufficient money to make sure that this year the girls will not be excluded.

A decision is expected early in March.

Roof Caves In On Cricket Field

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — The third cricket test here between England and the West Indies was interrupted Wednesday as the roof of a stand collapsed under the weight of spectators standing on it.

A small boy's arm was fractured and another was sent to hospital with unspecified injuries.

Play was held up for four minutes by the roof collapse.

At tea time England had scored 113 runs for the loss of three wickets.

Soccer Crackdown

Tense Finish Features Women's Curling Final

VERNON — The Irene Fraser rink of Vancouver and Victoria housewife Flora Martin were tied with five wins and two losses as the last draw of the British Columbia Ladies' curling association playoffs started today.

Both started the last draw with 5-2 records and both rated as favorites to win their last game, which would make a playoff necessary.

Mrs. Martin's final game is against Shirley Stephen of New Westminster and Mrs. Fraser is scheduled to play Frances Turner of Trail. Mrs. Stephen and Mrs. Turner both have 2-5 records and are tied for the eighth spot in the nine-rink series but both indicated Wednesday that they might be hard to handle.

Beaten by 11-5, 11-4, 13-5 and 11-7 scores in her first four games, Mrs. Turner's rink suddenly recovered form Wednesday by winning two games and losing its third only after an extra end.

In what is rated as the biggest upset to date, Mrs. Turner started Ina Hanson of Kimberley on the way down with an 8-4 win in the morning. Then the Trail rink knocked off Mrs. Stephen, 11-3, and went to an extra end before losing to Betty Ransley of Vancouver, pre-final favorite, 10-11.

Mrs. Stephen injured a knee and her rink will probably finish out with only three players. But the three-woman rink came through in fine style last night by besting Mrs. Topham, 10-5.

Wednesday's results were featured by the two defeats suffered by Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Gustafson, who started the day with 4-1 and 3-1 records, respectively.

SHARED LEAD

Mrs. Gustafson stayed right in the battle on the morning draw with an 8-6 win over Mrs. Stephen and at that point shared the lead with Mrs. Martin, who edged Mrs. Tansley, 8-7. The Victoria rink was two down going into the final end but counted three for the decision.

Then Mrs. Martin went out in front by herself on the afternoon draw when she ran her record to 5-1 with a 10-7 conquest of Mrs. Gustafson. At the same time, Mrs. Fraser moved into contention with an 8-5 win over Mrs. Hanson.

At that time, Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Gustafson were both 4-2, sharing second place a game behind Mrs. Martin.

KEPT ALIVE

Mrs. Fraser kept her chances alive on the evening draw with a 9-5 win over Mrs. Martin, who could have clinched it with a win over the Mainland quartet.

Mrs. Gustafson lost again, by 9-7, to Mrs. Dorothy Fisher of Kamloops and ended the day tied for third place, each at 4-3, with Mrs. Hanson.

SIXTH DRAW

Mrs. Martin 8, Mrs. Tansley 7.
Mrs. Gustafson 8, Mrs. Stephen 6.
Mrs. Turner 8, Mrs. Hanson 4.
Mrs. Fraser 10, Mrs. Fisher 8.

AT ROYAL ROADS

Cadets Launch Tourney Friday

The Claxton Cup and Marshall Memorial Trophy will be the coveted prizes at stake when Canada's three service colleges stage their annual "Little Olympics."

The 11th annual tournament brings together teams from Kingston's Royal Military College, the College Militaire Royal de Saint Jean and host Royal Roads.

The Claxton Cup, donated by the former Minister of National Defence for the inaugural tournament in 1949, is the main team prize. Defending holders of the trophy, RMC has captured the trophy six times.

CMR teams have won the cup three times and Royal Roads triumphed twice — in 1952 and 1956.

The Marshall Trophy is awarded for individual achievement.

Cadet teams consisting of 36 members from each college will be matched in volleyball, water polo, basketball and swimming events. Also at stake is a team rifle prize. Shooting, however, has already been conducted through a mail arrangement. Results will be posted during the tournament.

Opening event in the Royal Roads pool will be a water polo game at 9 a.m. Friday. Other cadets move into the gym for a volleyball game an hour later.

Trophies and prizes will be presented at the annual ball Saturday night.

Royals to Appeal Gogi's Sentence

VANCOUVER (CP)—Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast Soccer League announced Tuesday they will appeal a B.C. Soccer Commission ruling that inside-forward Gogi Stewart be suspended for the remainder of the season.

The commission made the ruling Monday after investigating reports that Stewart assaulted a sports reporter in a dressing room fracas following a game Jan. 30.

The suspension would last until Aug. 31.

LIONS ACQUIRE ANOTHER HAWKEYE ACE

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Iowa halfback Bob Jeter has signed with the British Columbia Lions, giving the Western Interprovincial Football Union club the entire backfield of the 1959 Rose Bowl champions.

Jeter, second draft choice of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, joins former Hawkeye teammate quarterback Randy Duncan, halfback Willie Fleming—both with the Lions last year—and fullback Don Horn.

Jeter, 22, 6-1, 185 pounds, was named the outstanding performer in Iowa's 32-12 victory over the University of California.

N. COWICHAN AGREES TO BOOST FUNDS FOR PROJECT

Full Nursing Service Approved

(From Duncan Bureau)

North Cowichan municipal council Wednesday approved a yearly expenditure of $800 to provide a free, full-time, seven-day-a-week nursing service proposed by Dr. C. J. G. MacKenzie, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit.

If Duncan and Ladysmith agree to the plan it can be brought into effect by the provincial health department.

The council heard it will cost 10 cents per capita per year over and above the present 30 cents per capita costs for health services.

At present one public health nurse serves 5,000 population. The plan would increase the service to one nurse for 3,500 persons.

Dr. MacKenzie, in a letter dated February 15, told the council the plan would increase the permanent nursing staff and add part-time relief nurses for weekends, holidays and emergencies. The home nursing plan under the orders of practicing physicians is now in operation in the Parksville-Qualicum Beach area and eight other places in British Columbia.

Senior government money is available to finance the bulk of the program. He noted that two-thirds of the cost is borne initially by the federal government and then on a "matching grant basis" by the provincial and federal governments.

THIEVES HIT THIRD TIME —FOR WIENERS AND CASH

(From Duncan Bureau)

CHEMAINUS — The Johanson Block on Willow Street in downtown Chemainus was broken into Tuesday night or Wednesday morning for the third time in the last four months.

Entered were three adjoining stores, the Overwaitea Grocery, Butcher Boy Meat Market, and Bowle's Shoe Store.

The busy, but apparently selective, thieves got only a small amount of cash and a few miscellaneous items for their efforts.

They forced a window at the rear of the grocery store and helped themselves to some cigarets, chocolate bars, and a few food items. They entered the adjoining meat market by forcing a sliding door, and took $35 in silver from the cash register and a handful of wieners. Breaking a window at the rear of the shoe store, they entered and made off with a radio and a pair of logger's boots.

Bit of Broadway At Lake Cowichan

LAKE COWICHAN — Local artists are in the midst of rehearsals for a concert to be staged here Feb. 26 and 27 on behalf of Kinsmen Club charities and the Lake Cowichan Drama Club building fund.

It will be called "Broadway Showcase," and will feature properly staged and costumed productions of favorite songs from famous shows.

Cowichan Lake Chorale will be under the direction of Mrs. Elsie W. Kirby.

Adrian Pecknold is in charge of staging and direction with the assistance of Lake Cowichan Drama Club, which will have charge of scenery, costumes, and lighting. Ticket sales will be handled by Lake Cowichan Kinsmen Club.

MAKE DEAL, SAYS MAYOR

Pay-It-Yourself Water System

(From Duncan Bureau)

A group of North Cowichan residents willing to pay $16,000 for access to the Duncan water system was advised Wednesday by Mayor Jack Dobson to form a committee to deal with the city.

Cost of the proposed extension is $27,472, although it would require additional expenditure of $6,000 by the city on suitable pipe to the city-municipality boundary.

Mrs. W. Burak was spokesman for the group of 25 residents who met with council.

"Put forward the signatures of those residents who are prepared to pay for the water extension, and put the money raised into a trust account," the mayor advised. "Then the city council will come forward and say what it is prepared to do."

Residents concerned live in the vicinity of Lakes and Wicks Roads. Mrs. Burak said 15 of them were prepared to provide the $16,000, and that "more would enter if they could pay by the month."

R. E. Potter, city engineer, said his estimate of costs included $2,000 for five hydrants, which, it was hoped, would be paid by the municipality.

It was reported that if the work is completed by April 30 under the federal winter works program, then three-quarters of the labor cost of $8,000 could be saved.

Mayor Dobson suggested the residents' committee underwrite the whole scheme and deal directly with the city. He proposed a contract which would allow other residents to join and pay a proportion of the original cost.

PEACE PLANS 'A FIASCO' SAYS O'NEAL

(From Duncan Bureau)

CHEMAINUS—Wenner-Gren interests are turning Peace River development plans into a fiasco, Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, charged here Tuesday night.

He told Chemainus Chamber of Commerce that "this slick promoter (Wenner-Gren) hasn't even laid out a red cent and already he's picked up a profit of $2 million."

'Know Your Community For Tourists'

ALBERNI—Services to tourists must improve if the industry is to thrive in B.C., Walter Dodsworth, assistant manager of The Butchart Gardens, said here this week at the annual meeting of Alberni Board of Trade.

He listed these as food, transportation, accommodation, and information facilities. He advised residents to know their communities better in order to advise visitors.

Officers installed for the coming year were Jack Jowsey, president; Ted Gardiner, vice-president; David Francis, treasurer; and Charles Blair, serving his 10th year as secretary.

Funeral Rites For Pioneer

(From Duncan Bureau)

COBBLE HILL — Funeral services were held here Wednesday for Eleanor Louisa Scales, 81, well-known resident here for 35 years who died Sunday.

She was born at Hodderdon, Herefordshire, England, married in 1904 and came to Canada in 1905. She lived at Trail, Vancouver, and the Queen Charlotte Islands before taking up residence at Cobble Hill.

She is survived by two sons, William and Robert; two daughters, Mrs. J. C. Pearson and Miss Norma Scales; eight grandchildren, and one brother, Ernest H. Perkins, all of Cobble Hill.

$1,500 Fire Damage

SIDNEY—A fire in an unoccupied apartment above the Mitchell & Anderson Lumber Co. Ltd. building on Beacon Avenue was extinguished Tuesday by volunteer firemen after having caused $1,500 damage.

Fire Chief G. A. Gardner, who blamed careless smokers for the fire, said it could have been smouldering in a chesterfield for a few days.

84-Year-Old Heads Native Sons Post

NANAIMO — Joseph E. L. Muir, 84, was elected here this week to his second term as chief factor of Nanaimo Post, Native Sons of B.C.

He served his first term in 1900, when charter members elected him as first chief factor of the post, founded Feb. 15 of that year.

Mr. Muir is custodian of the Nanaimo bastion, local landmark and meeting place for Native Sons.

During the meeting of the group here, W. E. Greenwood, Vancouver, grand factor for B.C., presented life memberships to Mr. Muir, Victor B. Harrison and Hiram Gough, all members of 50 years or more.

B.C. HYDRO WORKERS WIN WAGE INCREASE

About 500 electrical workers in the provincial service of the B.C. Power Commission have been given wage increases averaging 14 cents an hour as of last Jan. 1 and rising to 19 cents on July 1.

B.C. Hydro officials said the new rate for journeymen in July will be $2.97. About 33 other classifications covered by the agreement will receive increases in ratio.

LOGIC IS ON THE SIDE OF ABOLISHING DEATH PENALTY

RCMP PROBES THREAT AGAINST TORONTO MP

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP has launched an investigation into a crudely-penned registered letter threatening Frank McGee, sponsor of a private bill to abolish Canada's mandatory death sentence.

The RCMP said the force was asked to investigate the letter by the justice department.

Mr. McGee turned the letter over to the justice department Wednesday "for any action the RCMP think should be taken." The letter was received Wednesday by Mr. McGee on the eve of a Commons debate today of his bill. The envelope bore the name "P. McGee" and the address "2497 Coursol Street" Montreal.

The only P. McGee listed in the Montreal telephone directory today denied sending the threatening letter to Frank McGee, the Toronto member of Parliament.

In a telephone interview Magee admitted that was his name and address but said:

"I have never written any such letter."

Two Murders Gave Him a Mission

McGEE
. . . served on juries

OTTAWA (CP)—Five years ago, Frank McGee was like most young Canadian businessmen interested mostly in his family, his job and his home.

Murder changed all that. In fact, two murders.

Mr. McGee, 33, dates his intense interest in capital punishment from the time he served on juries at two murder trials. His interest reaches a climax today when the Commons debates his bill to abolish the death penalty for all crimes except certain types of treason.

"I suppose like most Canadians I never gave the death penalty a serious thought until those two trials," the lanky, Progressive Conservative Toronto MP said in an interview.

In both there was no doubt the men had killed, by stabbing in each case. One claimed provocation led to his crime. The other entered an insanity defence.

Both were found guilty but appealed their death sentence. One won a reduction of the charge and was convicted of manslaughter. The other won his plea of insanity and also escaped death.

Mr. McGee remembers that the judge told the jury that the law is the law and it prescribes death for murder. The place to change the law was not the jury room but Parliament.

"Having gone through this, I examined my position on capital punishment. I started going to the library to find books on the issue.

"There was a great deal of evidence to support arguments for abolition. The case for retention was not nearly so rationally argued. When you remove the emotional arguments, both for and against, you still have the logic of the abolitionist case."

The judge's words in 1955 increased Mr. McGee's interest in politics. In 1957 he was elected in York-Scarborough with the largest majority accorded a member of his party.

He says his interest in capital punishment bears no relation to the fact that he is a grand-nephew of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, a father of Confederation who was assassinated April 7, 1868, on the steps of his Ottawa rooming house after delivering a speech in the Commons favoring Confederation.

However, he has looked into the McGee murder and believes there is serious doubt that McGee's assassin, who was publicly hanged, received justice in the politically-charged atmosphere in which he was tried.

At least 50 members on the government side of the House have indicated their desire to speak on the issue, it was learned. The Liberals were to meet early today in caucus to line up their speakers, and the debate probably will bring most of the eight CCF members to their feet.

500,000 ON HAND

Indonesians Hail Nikita

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Neutralist Indonesia today gave Nikita S. Khrushchev the most enthusiastic welcome of his current Asian tour and he beamed with appreciation.

An estimated 200,000 Indonesians greeted him in the airport area and 300,000 more lined the motorcade route into the city as the Soviet premier began his 12-day visit looking brighter than at any time since he left Moscow.

Khrushchev, who got only lukewarm receptions from the public in New Delhi, Calcutta and Rangoon, was in high spirits and told the cheering Indonesians: "Indonesia is a country with a hot climate and we are receiving a most warm welcome from the masses."

Khrushchev looked healthy and rested, in contrast to the tired, subdued appearance he exhibited during most of his stay in India and Burma.

PARTY MEMBERS HELP

Indonesia's powerful Communist party and the Communist-run trade union federation, Sobsi, joined the government in bringing out the crowd. Buses and trucks gave free transportation to the airport. Musicians beat native gongs and drums. Lines of school children slowed the motorcade into Jakarta.

Khrushchev declared full support for the "independent and active" policy of this sprawling young island republic and said the Soviet Union and Indonesia jointly stand for peace, elimination of colonialism and "prohibition of nuclear weapons menacing the life of humanity."

Indonesia's President Sukarno, carrying a black umbrella against the sun and his habitual gold swagger stick, met Khrushchev as he alighted from the big Ilyushin 18 tuboprop plane which brought him from Burma. He praised Khrushchev as "one of the fighters for the people of your country and for world peace."

Communist China's ambassador, Hwang Chen, and United States Ambassador Howard Jones were among the 1,000 invited dignitaries at the airport. After the 21-gun salute, Khrushchev shook hands with them and smiled but did not pause to talk.

He hinted in his arrival speech that he may offer the Indonesian government further economic aid during his visit. "The Soviet people understand well and take close to the heart the hardships which the Indonesian people have lived through," he said.

He will find the Indonesians receptive to Soviet offers of aid but determined to cling to their neutralist policies in the international arena. The big nationalist newspaper Merdeka said "such loans should not influence our internal or external politics."

Khrushchev and Sukarno will not settle down to formal talks until Feb. 27, near the end of the visit. Together they will visit Bandung, Jogjakarta, Surabay and Bali before negotiating sessions at Sukarno's summer palace in Bogor, 40 miles from Jakarta.

Sukarno is anxious to get Soviet credits in addition to the $118,000,000 worth already extended. The two leaders also are expected to lay the groundwork for cultural agreements and tourist exchanges.

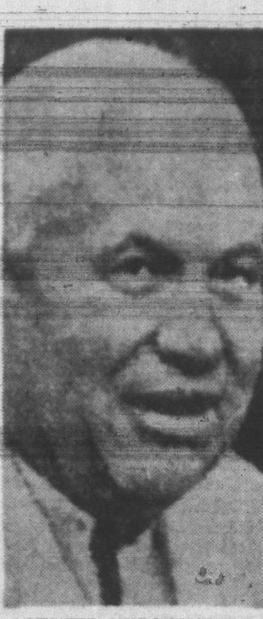
Khrushchev arrived here at a time when Indonesia is embroiled in a dispute with Red China but he is expected to take a hands-off attitude toward the dispute over Indonesia's ouster of Chinese merchants from trade in rural areas.

Steep Rock Shows Big Profit Jump

TORONTO (CP) — Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd. had net profit of $9,049,000, or $1.13 a share, compared with $1,386,508, or 17 cents, in 1958.

Iron ore shipped totalled 2,746,849 tons compared with 1,156,000. Working capital at year-end was $10,385,000, up $6,364,000.

The annual report, signed by M. S. Fotheringham, president, says directors believe the interests of shareholders will be best served by continued application of earnings to maintenance of working capital and expansion of mining capacity.



NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV

OFFICIALS, PRESS ANGERED

Mr. K. Blundered in India

By ROY ESSOYAN

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev committed a remarkable number of blunders during his five-day goodwill visit to India.

He started out by insulting India's parliamentary system and ended up by ridiculing the underfed nation for accepting a "dole" of American food aid.

In between he embarrassed his Indian hosts whose friendship for the West is on the upswing by using India as platform for repeated attacks against colonialism's "imperialist exploitation."

Khrushchev also irritated Indian officialdom by thoughtless remarks. And his brash and burly security men angered the Indian press by their progressively rough efforts to shield their boss.

PRESS IRRITATED

Indian newspaper men covering the tour were outspoken in their irritation. Some of their papers expressed this irritation in their editorial columns.

Indian officials for the most part maintained silence, but several did little to hide their annoyance.

At his voluble best Khrushchev frequently steps on other people's toes. But he usually carries it off by the force of his personality, vigor of his delivery and steamroller weight of his argument.

None of this was in evidence at the start of the tour. Khrushchev looked so tired and acted so uncharacteristically subdued that veteran observers wondered at the cause. But his spirits picked up as the tour progressed, and he delivered his last jibes—at a banquet on the eve of his departure from Calcutta for Rangoon — bubbling with good humor.

WORST MISTAKE

One of the worst blunders Khrushchev committed was his attack on the Western parliamentary system of "bour*gois democracies" delivered in* an address to the Indian parliament last Thursday, the day he arrived in New Delhi.

He said the multi-party political system—which India enjoys—was a device of the capitalist, exploiting class to dominate Western governments.

SAT IN SILENCE

Members of the Indian Parliament sat in silence as Khrushchev's words rang through the hall.

"I think he has under-rated the intelligence of his listeners," an Indian reporter who covered the tour said.

Another Indian's comment: "He seemed to protest too much."

A new railway roadbed between Tokyo and Osaka is expected to permit trains to cover the 375-mile route at speeds up to 155 m.p.h.

Drop Health Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission has disclosed that the tobacco industry has agreed to stop making health claims in cigaret advertising. The industry voluntarily will abandon claims that products reduce tars and nicotine.

A DEATH ROW INTERVIEW WITH CARYL CHESSMAN

'In Time, I Think, I Could Become a Good Writer'

By CHARLES ELWELL

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (NEA) — I was seated alone, locked in a small pea-green cell, waiting. The cell contained a table, two chairs, an ashtray. A set of iron gates opened into a dim corridor from the innards of San Quentin prison.

Caryl Chessman was late.

An elevator grill slammed open somewhere in the corridor, and there was the sound of marching feet. The prisoner arrived in formation, guards front and back.

STOOPED

There was a loud and complicated opening of the gates. Chessman waited, a lean six-footer, slightly stooped, thumbs hooked in the pockets of his jeans.

On command, he entered the cell and took the seat opposite me. There was the clatter of metal on metal as the gates were bolted into place. We faced each other alone; two strangers.

I am a writer. I am also a citizen. A world controversy has raged about this man for more than a decade. Caryl Chessman, known as California's "Red Light Bandit," has been convicted of kidnap and rape. He is scheduled to die Friday in a gas chamber not far from where we are seated. What sort of a man is Chessman?

"Caryl," I said, "I do not want to go into all the legalities. You can understand that." Chessman nodded. The finest legal minds in the state of California have been arguing the technicalities of this case for 11 years.

. . . they saw the nose

"Caryl, you have said you are innocent of the sexual crimes against these girls; yet you admit to a life of criminal violence since the time you were 15. Now, looking back, do you feel a sense of remorse for these crimes?"

Chessman was clearly impatient with the question. He pressed his palms on the table, and answered:

"I could say, 'Yes, I feel remorse'. And what would it prove? Would it undo the things that have been done? No. It would only please the craving of a lot of people. What I do feel is this: I have not lived usefully. More important, I have not been fair to my own potential."

"When you say potential," I asked, "do you mean your legal ability or your writing talent?"

"My writing," he said. "As for the law, I would gladly touch a match to all those law books. I am 38 years old. I have published three books. I don't think of myself as a writer who has arrived. I am not sure how much of my success has to be attributed to notoriety. But in time, I think I could become a good writer . . . that my work could stand on its own literary merit."

"Would you say, Caryl, that after all these years in prison you have learned something about yourself and the compulsions that led you to criminal violence?"

Chessman's face darkened.

"You mean am I still a psychopath or nut? Let's get down to it. Let me put it this way. I've been all over the past. The thing I've learned is that using your anger for creation is more satisfying than using it for destruction. I still have the anger. But I have found when I get mad I can sit down and pound it out on my typewriter."

As Chessman talks, one has the impression of the powerful single-mindedness of the man. He raps the table with a stubby finger, spelling out his points.

The badly broken and bent nose in the long hardened face seems incongruous. Chessman is a spell-binder; a master of the language.

Yet, one's eye and thoughts keep returning to that nose. One of the victims and her boy friend said that the bandit's mask slipped from his face and that they had a clear look at him. They told the court that the man they saw was Chessman.

Changing the subject, I asked a reporter's question. "Caryl, you have been repeatedly described as arrogant. What is you reaction when you read that?"

"Some of the papers say I am arrogant. Some editorial writers picture me as a fiend with horns and dripping fangs. Arrogance is all part of the legend that has been built up around me. Now, I may have more than my share of ego. But survival calls for a degree of ego. On Death Row, you can't be self-effacing and modest, and live."

"How would you describe life on death row? Is fear the dominant emotion?"

"There is fear, of course," he said. "But there is more bravery than you would expect. There is a communal feeling. If one man gets out, we are all happy. The worst time is the day of execution; to lose a friend. I have been up there 11½ years. I have seen them come to get some 90-odd men. You get scars from that.

"Some of the men waiting to die lose their rationality. I haven't let myself. I encourage my friends. I tell them: 'They can kill you, but they can't take away your integrity. Don't let them have that, too'."

A guard appeared at the cell door and signaled that time was up.

The gates swung open. The formation grouped outside in the corridor. Then, as though on cue, rehearsed a thousand times, the formation set off, taking the author-convict back to cell he has called "hell's anteroom."

Heart Foundation 'To Go It Alone'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Heart Foundation withdrew Wednesday from the Community Chest of Greater Vancouver.

A Chest spokesman said the loss of this cornerstone agency threatens the entire Community Chest structure here. He predicted other agencies will follow the Heart Foundation out of the 65-agency Chest.

Heart Foundation president W. C. R. Jones said his group was leaving the Chest simply because it needs more money for research, education and rehabilitation than the Chest can supply.

Mr. Jones urged the public to continue to support the Chest's Red Feather fund campaign.

Ross Wilson, president of the Chest, predicted the organization will begin this year either to disintegrate or—if public opinion is behind it—to revive.

Reporters who asked 50 of the remaining 64 agencies found that none were ready to join the Heart Foundation in quitting.

The Chest has failed to meet its annual fund quota 10 times in the last 11 years.

Its 1959 target was $3,121,542. It has raised $2,656,669 to date, with donations still dribbling in.

Mr. Wilson said: "There is a growing trend on the part of major agencies to break away from the Chest."

He said losing the Heart Foundation was like losing a cornerstone — "The whole structure has been weakened.

"Neither I nor the other directors of the Chest expect this withdrawal to be the last. We may very well see some others in the months immediately ahead."

Mr. Wilson said 1960 "will be the most critical year yet in the history of the Chest in Vancouver."

President Eisenhower, as the U.S. chief executive, needed no passport for his recent tour of Europe, Asia and Africa.

UPSET—Former world figure-skating champion Barbara Ann Scott has branded as ridiculous a Toronto radio broadcast report that she has broken up with her husband, Tommy King, of Chicago, and is going to Hollywood to look for a job. Barbara Ann is vacationing with her husband at Tucson, Ariz.

TV School for Everyone Proposed in Compromise

A compromise over introduction of televised lessons in Greater Victoria schools may result in high school science and geography lessons for all TV owners.

Greater Victoria school board chairman W. C. Gelling Wednesday said the board will investigate the possibility of using CHEK-TV for broadcasting school lessons to classrooms. The subject came up during a joint meeting of school board and civic officials on the 1960 school estimates.

The idea was raised by Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch as an alternative to the board's proposed closed-circuit project for S. J. Willis Junior High School, which he said would be expensive to extend to other schools.

HAS POSSIBILITIES

CHEK-TV manager Russell Furse today said "the idea has possibilities and we're certainly very interested. I am optimistic that something could be worked out to the advantage of all concerned."

Reeve Murdoch said he fully agreed with the desirability of visual education aids such as TV but he feared that a coaxial cable system to all schools would be too expensive.

The $3,500 proposed for converting a room in S. J. Willis into a TV studio would almost buy about 20 television sets for distribution to all the high schools, he said.

By broadcasting the special lessons over CHEK-TV, this expenditure would put a full TV program into operation for all schools instead of a larger sum ($19,500) for introducing it to S. J. Willis alone, he said.

TEACHER 'STARS'

In addition, it would increase parent interest in education because mothers at home could watch the programs, too. Sick children also could keep up with some of school work, he said.

But school superintendent John Gough feared that teachers would be reluctant to go on public view because they might be considered performers instead of teachers.

"You and I don't have to do our jobs before the eyes of the world," he pointed out. "You may say it's the teachers' job but I don't agree. I think you will find the majority of teachers are reticent in this matter."

But trustee R. H. Reeve countered that he had confidence enough teachers would rise to the challenge to make open circuit television work.

MORE EFFICIENT

Mr. Reeve said the TV program was advocated by the board as a method of obtaining greater efficiency from the total school operation.

He also pointed out that although the provincial government has refused to share the cost of the project at present, it was very interested in the scheme.

He said the refusal was expected because otherwise the government would be committing itself to sharing costs of similar programs in all 82 B.C. school districts, including rural ones where the distance between schools would make coaxial cable connections prohibitive in cost.

BA-Oil Earnings Take Big Jump

TORONTO (CP) — British American Oil Co. Ltd. has consolidated net earnings in 1959 of $25,602,000, or $1.25 a share, compared with $20,518,000, or $1 a share, in 1958.

E. D. Loughney, president says a marked improvement took place during the year in all phases of the company's Canadian operations. Higher earnings from producing operations, increased sales of refined products and interest on short-term investments all contributed to improve earnings.

NEW LOOK FOR AN OLD CONGREGATION

Unusual roof design and colored concrete block walls are main features of the new $122,000 St. Aidan's United Church under construction at Cedar Hill Cross Road and Richmond since sod was turned July 5. To be completed April 1 by contractor J. A. Pollard, it will seat 500. Architect Charles Craig designed the building for the 86-year-old congregation, with steeply pitched roof and cut dormers.

MLAs Told Bonus Games Mean Leap in Food Costs

A "bonus card game" operated by a grocery chain here and on the lower mainland came under fire of a B.C. legislative special committee on trading stamps today.

Operators of a chain of stores in Vancouver are at present facing lottery charges laid by Vancouver city prosecutor's office.

The bonus cards are given customers and their purchases are punched out to the value of $100 when the card is filled. Then the customer answers a simple question and may win cash prizes varying from $1 to $1,000.

The legislative committee headed by Dan Campbell (SC-Comox), was told unless trading stamp and bonus card game promotions are checked by legislation, B.C.'s overall food bill will jump by 3 per cent—or by an amount of $9,000,000.

This was main point in a brief read by H. C. Boulton, spokesman for Trading Stamp Committee and secretary-manager B.C. Division, Retail Merchants' Association of Canada.

"We look to this government for leadership and action," he said. The promotional gimmicks could swell costs as much as 7 per cent.

Mr. Boulton said his delegation represents independent retailers and all chain stores "with only one exception," department stores, all consumer groups and all labor organizations in B.C.

None of 9,800 retailers in B.C. has raised voice in support of these promotions, he said.

"The attorney-general has had briefs and letters of protests already" from many of the firms and organizations represented. "We are all strong proponents of free enterprise but the stage has come when only provincial legislation can solve this complicated legal problem. This suggestion has been made several times in the last few weeks by the (federal) minister of justice," said Mr. Boulton.

"Trading stamps and bonus card games, though dissimilar legally, have a few points in common . . . the only real beneficiary is a parasitical third party," he said. "Trading stamp companies in the U.S. do anywhere from $4,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000 of business a year, he said.

NOT FREE

They add nothing to the value of goods being sold. Premiums and cash prizes are advertised as being free — but both retailer and consumer must pay for them heavily. The promotions start in grocery stores, but if allowed to go unchallenged soon spread to every outlet which sells anything, he said.

The Criminal Code has attempted to ban stamps since 1905, but a certain looseness in wording of the act has from time to time allowed periodic outbreaks of the stamps.

Mr. Boulton said basically the matter is a provincial concern.

The bonus card game is newer than the trading stamp promotion. "We are advised that the buying in cost is 25 cents each for the thousands of cards issued to each store, plus 1 per cent of annual turnover.

"We would like to point out that the minimum prize is $1 or one per cent; prizes range up to $1,000 or 1,000 per cent.

"There is some element of chance in selection of a winner though. Let us note each card has a serial number printed on the back of it. This suggests that it might be very easy to arrange for the winning of a grand prize, at any psychologically well-timed date or place."

PUBLIC WILLING

Wyoming has banned the cards and three other states have taxed the promotional companies out of existence.

Mr. Boulton admitted one of the problems to be faced is the willingness of sections of the public to accept the cards and trading stamps, even recognizing they are paying more for their groceries in order to receive "free gifts."

A second brief was presented to the committee this morning by Mrs. B. F. McCloskey, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Skies will be mainly clear tonight, and partly cloudy Friday, weatherman William Mackie predicted today.

With the clearing weather, though, will come lower temperatures. Sheltered areas will be as low as 28 degrees tonight, he said, but the minimum generally will be about 35 degrees. Maximum Friday will be 47 degrees.

Winds will be northerly at 15 miles per hour.

James Parham, of 1012 North Park, was put on $250 bond for six months' good behavior when sentence was suspended in city police court today on a charge that he assaulted his wife Pearl Parham.

Magistrate William Ostler ordered the accused to abstain from alcohol and to take treatment at DVA Hospital.

A charge of careless driving against an elderly motorist whose car was in collision with a Saanich police ambulance at Hillside and Quadra, was dismissed in city police court today.

Police charged Frederick T. Smith, 3228 Kingsley, after the noon-hour crash involving an ambulance taking an injured child to hospital, its siren and red flashing light operating.

Magistrate William Ostler said he could not find that Smith drove without reasonable consideration for other persons using the highway on which he drove — Hillside — when the police car approached the intersection on Quadra.

MALL TALK AT COFFEE WITH COUNCIL

Coffee urns were set up in city council chambers today as the "Coffee Club" took its regular morning break there to hear details of the revised View Street mall and car park project.

The club began in 1940 when a small group of businessmen began meeting regularly for morning coffee together. Today it has grown into a formal organization with about 30 members.

The View Street plan is being explained by city staff in council chambers to all who are interested. Sessions are scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday, Monday and Wednesday.

Social Audit Of Services Advocated

Voluntary organizations should be formed to give a "social audit" on hundreds of public services—such as police protection and education, a University of B.C. professor said here today.

William Dixon, head of UBC's school of social work, told the annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women in the Empress Hotel:

"The average citizen needs help in assessing the value of existing services. Are they up to the mark? We need a social audit in the worst way in order to get the full picture on all the hundreds of functions being carried out by voluntary and public bodies."

He said such a scrutiny would reveal whether or not public needs were being fully met in the social field and what improvements were needed.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Prof. Dixon said it was not true that the ultimate in social programs had been reached. In the past, efforts had been concentrated in relieving economic distress by eliminating poverty.

"Now we must be concerned with the human personality and spirit as well as materialistic things," he said.

Prof. Dixon said it was "astounding that no voluntary organization had been formed to study police administration. Police departments possess social controls yet "are an unknown quantity to the average citizen and to many politicians."

Education, too, should be scrutinized and evaluated by citizens for the public's information.

"There has been an awful lot of talk and protesting, but so far no voluntary action," he said. "Programs could be organized to supplement facilities provided under the public system."

99.5 Per Cent of School Budget 'Untouchable'

Civic officials Wednesday learned they had effective control over only half of 1 per cent of the proposed school budget.

Greater Victoria School Board's 1960 estimates total $7,921,842 but municipalities can cut only "non-shareable" items totalling a mere $36,815 to do ratepayers any good.

Non-shareable items are the expenditures financed solely by ratepayers because the provincial government contributes no grant towards them. These include items like bus transportation for pupils, band and orchestra programs and swimming classes.

Reductions in all other items of the budget would save money only for the provincial government, board officials said, because all savings are applied first to the provincial share.

The municipalities must raise a minimum of 12 mills in tax levy towards school purposes. This levy cannot be reduced.

"We can bring this down to its illogical conclusion," said trustee R. H. Reeve.

"Supposing the city of Victoria had absolutely no school children within its boundaries. The ratepayers would still have to pay 12 mills tax on their properties for school purposes under B.C. legislation."

Burglar Got $1,650 Day Before the Bank

NEW 'HOME' FOR RCMP DEFINITE

Waterfront Site For $1,000,000 Headquarters

A disused old people's home at the foot of Barnard Avenue, off Esquimalt Road, is to be torn down to make way for a new $1,000,000 RCMP provincial headquarters building.

The waterfront property, close by the Victoria-Esquimalt boundary, has been purchased by the federal government from Mr. and Mrs. James Eccles, formerly of Victoria, it was confirmed today.

An RCMP spokesman said today the property has now been transferred to the Crown and the keys of the house are in possession of the RCMP. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Mr. and Mrs. Eccles, the former owners, are now living in England.

BOAT FACILITIES

Both the provincial command and the Victoria detachment of the RCMP will be housed in the new building, and the force's patrol boats will be based in front of it instead of in Esquimalt Harbor as at present.

It is not yet known when the old building will be torn down to make way for the new.

"That decision rests with Ottawa," the RCMP spokesman said.

The present headquarters command of B.C.'s "E" division occupies four floors of the old Windermere Hotel on Courtney Street near Douglas.

First announcement that a new $1,000,000 RCMP provincial headquarters would be built in Victoria was made by Mayor Percy Scurrah on his return from Ottawa last October.

A. De B. McPhillips, MP for Victoria, claimed a lion's share of the credit for having the new headquarters located here.

He said he and Defence Minister George Pearkes had worked "many long months to secure this for Victoria when it might very well have gone up-Island."

ONE OF THREE BRITISH COLUMBIANS to receive weather observer awards from the Department of Transport for excellent service as a voluntary observer is F. H. Staverman, 2884 Leigh Road, Langford. This year's award, the sixth in an annual series, is a copy of the new edition of the Canadian Oxford Atlas of the World. There are more than 1,200 voluntary observers in Canada, each of whom makes twice-daily temperature and precipitation readings, mails a monthly report, which is used to compile weather statistics published each month by the meteorological branch.

SOUTH AFRICAN VETERAN W. C. Warren examines box of chocolates given by Queen Victoria to every soldier on service in South Africa New Year's Day, 1900. He framed his gift.

LONE SURVIVOR

Boer Fighter Marks '60th' For Regiment

Setting off next Wednesday for Hamilton, Ont., to mark the 60th anniversary of the Battle of Paardeberg with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry will be William C. Warren, 83, Greater Victoria resident for 50 years and now of West Saanich.

He is no ordinary veteran, but the last surviving member of the regiment's representation at the vital South African War engagement. The battle was Feb. 28, but the dinner will be Feb. 26.

As a young man in Hamilton Mr. Warren belonged to the 13th Regiment, a militia unit. When war was declared a unit called the Special Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, was formed, and the 13th sent eight men, including Mr. Warren.

BATTLE HONORS

The battalion served with distinction, and as a result the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, direct descendant of the 13th is entitled to list Paardeberg in its battle honors.

Paardeberg is a ford on the Modder River where British forces under Lord Roberts broke the Boer army of P. A. Cronje, which was retreating from Magersfontein to Bloemfontein.

Cronje set up a defence line at the ford, but it finally was broken in an early morning action with Canadians in the van.

"After it was over we were commended on the spot by Lord Roberts," Mr. Warren said. "That was the first time such a thing had ever happened in the Imperial forces."

TO WAR AGAIN

Fighting died down after that, and Mr. Warren was sent home. A few months later it broke out again, and he returned as a cavalryman, and stayed until it was over. He came to Victoria, worked for the city, enlisted for the First World War, lost a leg at Passchendaele, then came back here again in 1919 to work for the federal pensions branch.

He retired in 1944, and made his permanent home in West Saanich, where he and Mrs. Warren enjoy a magnificent view of Saanich Inlet. His seven children live here and on the Lower Mainland.

Cash, Gun Stolen From Gorge Home

Burglary of a Gorge Road house Wednesday evening brought to more than 20 the number of housebreakings in Greater Victoria since Jan. 1, with a total loss of more than $2,500 in cash and jewels.

John Slemko, a new arrival to the city, told police $1,654 in cash and a nickel-plated .32 or .38 calibre revolver were stolen from his home at 15 Gorge East between 5 and 8 p.m. while he and his wife were out to dinner.

He said he had planned to bank the money today after reading of the current wave of house burglaries.

Detectives found a rear window had been forced with a screwdriver and two bedrooms were rifled.

CARDBOARD BOX

The money, consisting of seven $100 bills, 19 $50s, a U.S. $2 bill and eight 25-cent pieces, was in an envelope in a cardboard box that had been kept in a bureau drawer.

The revolver, which had a broken mainspring, was taken from a desk in the second bedroom.

Police have a possible lead on a suspect, a man who was seen near the house at about 3 p.m. Wednesday. He was described as about 30 years of age, five feet eight inches tall, wearing brown, baggy trousers, a brown suede jacket and a dark hat.

Greater Victoria police chiefs warned householders Wednesday to be on their guard against burglary by keeping valuables in a safe place and reporting to police any suspicious people or happenings in their neighborhoods.

LEGISLATURE SPEAKERS

Education Minister Leslie Peterson is first speaker as the legislature resumes the budget debate Friday at 2 p.m. He will be followed by Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook), Bert Price (SC-Vancouver-Burrard), W. C. Speare (SC-Cariboo) and Municipal Affairs Minister W. E. Black will adjourn the sitting.

Pensioner Badly Burned By Hotplate

Pensioner Richard Frederick O'Connell, 76, is in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital with second and third degree burns suffered when his clothing caught fire in his hotel room at 5.50 p.m. Wednesday.

City police said it appeared O'Connell overturned a hotplate in his Lincoln Hotel room, fell to the floor with it, and his upper clothing was set afire.

Another resident of the hotel, Albert Dobbins, said he went into the corridor when his room lights went out, noticed smoke coming from under the adjoining room's door, and went to get the wife of the hotel manager.

They found O'Connell lying beside the overturned hotplate, his clothes burning.

"I dragged him out," said Dobbin, and helped put out the fire.

Police and firemen arrived and the victim was taken to hospital, the upper part of his body burned to the waist.

Only damage to the room was where the hotplate had burned through floor covering.

O'Connell came to Victoria about Jan. 17, from Regina, where he had been a patient of Veterans' Hospital. He has no known relatives in Victoria.

Saanich Sued By Dentist Over Sewer

The municipality of Saanich is being sued over a sewer.

Dr. Warren A. Dennis, a dentist, is asking unspecified damages for a municipal sewer line put through his property in May, 1956.

The hearing, underway in B.C. Supreme Court today, is expected to last through Friday.

The doctor lives at 3517 Lor*aine in the Mount Tolmie area* where a municipal sewer was put through on easements granted by close to 800 property holders.

The municipality granted token payments of from $1 to $20 in each case.

Expropriation of Dr. Dennis' property was made under authority of the Municipal Act when he refused to grant an easement.

The land involved, at the rear of the property, measures 10 feet wide by 130 feet in length.

The municipality claims the length of time that has passed since sewer installation and the fact the easement was for the benefit of the corporation negates the suit.

SCHOOL BUILDING REFERENDUM BEFORE TAXPAYERS IN DECEMBER

Greater Victoria school board will put a building referendum before ratepayers in December.

Trustee Mrs. E. M. Maunsell, revealed the plan Wednesday when she explained a $3,500 proposed estimate for "public relations." Last year only $1,704 was spent.

She said the increased money would be used for publication of a board newsletter to parents and to cover expenses "of a referendum for new schools this year."

ASK The TIMES

Q. Is it true that in Britain women with titles are not members of the House of Lords and cannot be members of Commons and can't vote in general elections? J.C.

A. Life peeresses are members of the House of Lords. There are four of these at present. Members of the Lords do not vote in elections. Titled persons are not precluded from running for election in the Commons.

Q. Where can I write to obtain instructions about rebuilding a 1947-50 five-hp Johnson outboard motor? P.N.O.

A. There is a manual covering this type of work but it is limited to dealer use. However, an individual wanting information will get a sympathetic hearing from the dealer, providing he doesn't waste too much of the mechanic's time.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Children's Books Relieve Boredom on Rainy Days!

By PENNY SAVER

If you have a young family, one of the most dreaded phrases on a rainy day may well be, "Mummy, what can I do now?"

For very young tots, many an hour can be spent discovering bright fun-invoking pictures to be found in the pages of the board books I saw this week. Priced at $1.50, books are made of sturdy cardboard on colored plastic rings. These are ideal for the very young and will also provide pleasure for a youngster that is handicapped.

Older children of school age are always fascinated by ever-popular stamp books. Thought provoking, books have sheets of perforated stamps of pictures to match stories that are in the various editions. Child will be kept busy matching stamp pictures to respective stories and coloring attractive drawings in the books. Seventy-five cents, which is price of these, is a small price to pay for delightful hours they will give your small famiy.

Just like adults, children can get all their favorite stories in paper-backed editions. Store I was in has an outstanding selection from which to choose. Any girl who has dreamed of becoming a ballet star will want the story, "Ballet Shoes" that's included in this series. Books are priced at 60 or 70 cents.

Gem of a little book is "Love Is a Special Way of Feeling," by Joan Anglund. Beautifully illustrated by the author, book contains such explanations of love as the "good way we feel when we talk to someone and they want to listen and don't tell us to go away and be quiet."

Adults, as well as children, will appreciate worth of this book which is priced at $1.75.

For information on any of these items phone Penny at EV 2-3131.

Many Household Queries Solved By Helpful Readers

Housewives! The purpose of this column is for you to use your practical knowledge to help your neighbors.

Since the column was begun a month ago, numerous household problems have been presented and answered by our readers.

If you have answers to questions already printed you may write them in or telephone your suggestions to the women's department of this newspaper—EV 2-3131—between 1 and 2 o'clock any afternoon. We will print your solutions as they come in.

More Household Problems

A subscriber has written asking the following question: "Does anyone know how to eliminate the odors that collect in ice cube trays? Please ask your readers to help me."

Mrs. T. G. also has a question for our readers. Here it is: "How do you get rid of gaps in the exterior of homes and cottages. They are so unsightly. Surely there is someone who can tell us the answer."

Mrs. D. A. G. writes in that she and her husband are thinking of redecorating their living room and an argument has arisen. She'd like readers to give their opinions on how big a room should be before using a wall in contrasting color. Anyone have ideas? Then do help Mrs. D. A. G.

TODAY'S RECIPE

FRUIT SQUARES

One-and-a-half cups sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 eggs, beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup chopped candied cherries, ¼ cup mixed peel, ½ cup raisins.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg together. Cream shortening and sugar. Add beaten eggs and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Add fruit and flour mixture, combine well and spread in greased 9"x9" square pan or on cookie sheet with a piece of foil turned up at edges to form a pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven of 375 deg. F for about 25 minutes or until browned and top springs back lightly when pressed with finger. Do not over-cook as it will make the squares too dry. Cool slightly in pan and cut into squares or fingers while still warm using a sharp knife and keeping it wiped off with a damp cloth. Remove from pan and store in covered container.

Note: Other fruits such as dates or candied ginger or nuts may be used in above recipe.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Smear Campaign

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so heartsick over what has happened to me I don't know what to do. All my friends at school (I am a senior in high) are telling me there is a terrible rumor going around about me. But no one will tell me what it is or who said it. How can I get to the bottom of it? Everyone says they are sworn to secrecy. What does a girl do when she has done nothing wrong but gets a bad reputation anyway? WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: People who tell you "there is a terrible rumor going around about you," but refuse to reveal what it is or who said it are not friends. Ignore the talk and hold your head high. As long as you continue to behave properly, those who took part in circulating the gossip will appear foolish.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of a wedding shower for a MAN? Well, I have just been invited to one. (I am a woman.) This fellow in our office is getting married and someone in the office dreamed up the idea of giving him a shower. They told us not to spend too much money, but to bring something sort of cute and suggestive. What should I take? GIRL FRIDAY

DEAR GIRL: Keep it clean and bring a bar of soap.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything I can do about the way my daughter-in-law keeps house? She washes a cup and saucer only when they are all dirty and she needs one. I have seen her go to the kitchen sink and rinse out my son's shirt and then she spreads it out (wet) on the kitchen table over egg shells, bread crumbs and dirty dishes and presses it a bit. It makes me ill to see the way they are living.

My son wasn't raised like this, Abby. He never complains and you never hear a cross word between them. Can a man forget his early training in two years of marriage? I could go on and on, but what's the use? How can I help her? CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You can help her by teaching her—if she ASKS you. Don't volunteer. If your son is happy, close your eyes and let your mouth follow suit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ENVIOUS": Don't envy her. You would look "electrifying" too, if everything you had on was charged.

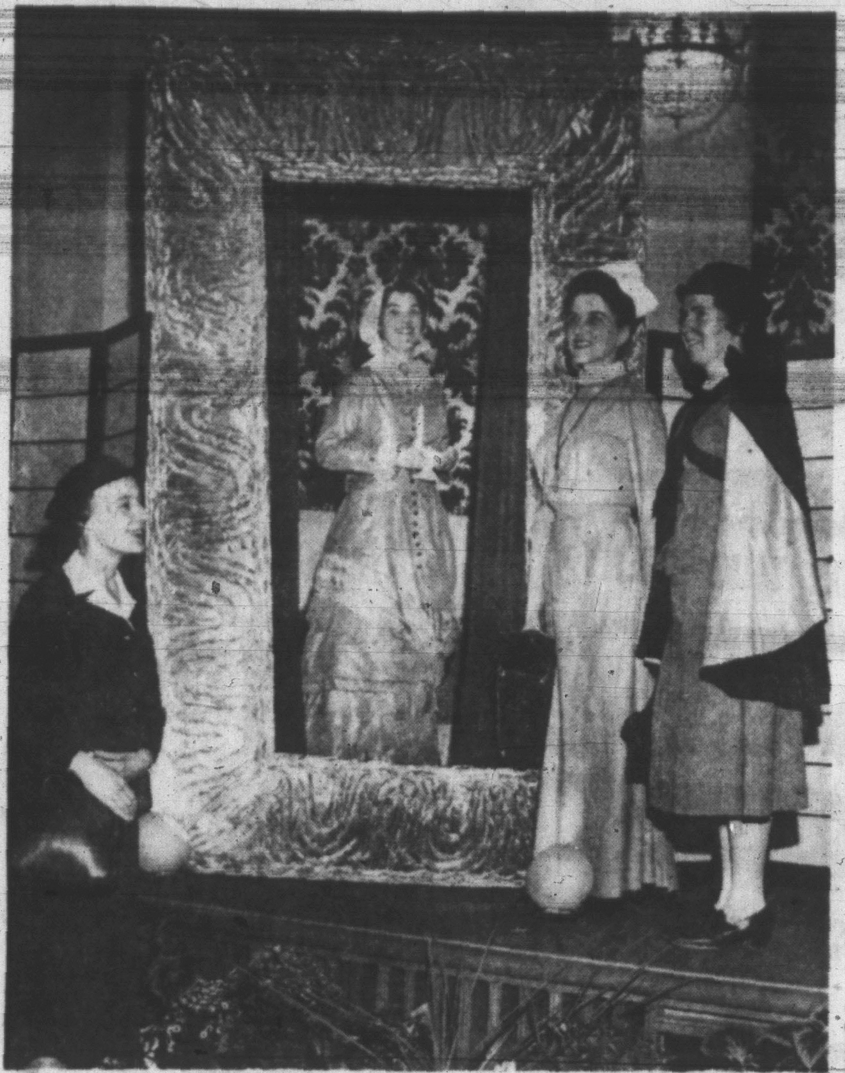
Golden Jubilee Meeting of VON Held Today in Government House



Three uniforms worn by VON nurses since branch was organized in Victoria in 1910 were shown in an attractive presentation at Government House this afternoon at 50th anniversary annual meeting. In the frame is Miss Marjorie Joyce as Florence Nightingale; next to her, Miss Esther Janzow shows uniform of 1910; at right, Miss Betty Hutchinson wears uniform of 1924 and at left, Miss Betty Short is smart in present day uniform. Branch started with one nurse now has eight on staff.

Mrs. W. Findlay was named president of Greater Victoria Branch, Victorian Order of Nurses at the golden jubilee meeting of the branch held in Government House this afternoon.

Other officers are A. Price, first vice-president; Mrs. Hershell A. Smith, second vice-president; R. Peachey, secretary, and A. J. M. Round, treasurer.

Honorary president is Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of British Columbia's Lieutenant-Governor.

CHAIRMEN

Board members include Mrs. F. Alguire, Mrs. W. Ball, Mrs. J. M. Cameron, Mrs. J. C. Cox, Mrs. L. G. D'Easum, Mrs. L. G. Ely, Mrs. A. Gillespie, Mrs. E. P. Gillespie, Mrs. W. Graham, Mrs. S. D. Markham, Mrs. F. E. Norris, Mrs. A. M. Oswald, Mrs. R Peachey, Mrs. A. T. Reynolds, Mrs. T. Roberts, Mrs. T. F. Rose, Mrs. K. C. Sedgman, Mrs. G. Simons, Mrs. H. L. Webster, Mrs. D. J. Lawson, Miss Beatrice Brown, Miss Ruby Simpson, Miss Jean McDougall, Messrs. S. Belither, R. L. Davison, W. A. R. Hedley, W. Maude-Moore, T. W. L. Mutch and H. B. Nash.

Promise made by Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, at annual meeting of Victoria branch of the VON in 19[illegible] that "when the new Government House is opened you will have an annual meeting there," was fulfilled today. "It is wonderful that it should be the golden jubilee meeting as well," Mrs. Ross said.

Report given by Miss Elizabeth Riddell, RN, district director, showed total patients visited at 3,254 in the past year and total visits as 22,436.

There were 798 medical and surgical patients, Miss Riddell said, also 2,059 maternity and new-born cases and 39 health instruction cases.

Prenatal and relaxation exercise classes, given co-operatively by the VON and other local health agencies were very popular, the director pointed out. There were 291 prenatal classes with an attendance of 1,799; 426 relaxation classes with 1,722 attendance and 151 couples' club meetings with 956 attending.

Treasurer's report showed receipts of $57,439.61; This included $14,437.27 paid in patients' fees; provincial and municipal grants, $12,743.50; Community Chest grant, $25,415.30; donations and bequests, $1,274.50; profit from rummage sale, $1,103.75. Disbursements totaled $58,417.42, and there is a balance of $2,293.84.

Donations from the VON Auxiliary for physiotherapy, equipment and assistance with VON projects, totalled $1,251. View Royal committee gave a grant of $150 toward VON work.

Retiring president, Miss Ruby Simpson, spoke of the formation of the VON in Canada in 1897 under sponsorship of Lady Aberdeen.

FIFTY YEARS

In 1910, Miss Simpson said, "a group of women in Victoria, known as the Home Nursing Society, decided to change its name to Victoria branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses."

First president was Mrs. H. B. Robertson, who held the office for nine years. There was one nurse. Budget in that first year was $2,000; today it is over $60,000.

In the third year, another nurse was added to the staff and combined living quarters and office space was taken in an apartment on Cook Street.

In 1919 a third nurse was working; by 1926 there were 22 members on the board; three nurses, two cars and a telephone in the office.

Early presidents included Mrs. Jennie Longstaff, Mrs. Ross Sutherland, Mrs. H. G. Lawson, Mrs. Christie, Mrs. Alan Morkill, Mrs. Fitzgibbon, Mrs. C. Schofield and Mrs. Goulding Wilson.

In the past 20 years there have been Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. R. B. Horton, Mrs. P. Barr, Mrs. S. T. Sehl, Mrs. H. Bate, Mrs. J. H. Wilson, Mrs. E. Mallek, Mrs. Victor Midgley, and Mrs. Markham.

Miss Simpson pointed out that Victor Price, Dr. L. Bapty and Mrs. Donald Lawson, sons and a daughter-in-law of early board members, Dr. Price, Dr. W. Bapty and Mrs. H. G. Lawson, now hold positions on the board.

University Women's Club Hears CBC History

Historical background of Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and its development from the first station to broadcast from Montreal in 1919 was given to the University Women's Club at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Speaker, Robert Harlow, CBC acting director, was introduced by Mrs. A. H. Gunning and thanked by Mrs. Olga Bowes.

Mr. Harlow outlined the structure of the CBC, gave its aims, discussed "what to broadcast"; told of differences in regional tastes and the complications due to different time zones.

"Problems facing CBC are complex," he said, "but we are progressing and we hope to continue to do so."

President, Mrs. H. R. Turner, was in the chair. Resolution was passed endorsing brief submitted by the British Columbia Indian Arts and Welfare Society to the parliamentary committee in Ottawa.

Nominating committee was named as follows: Miss Margaret Crummy, Mrs. Bowes, Mrs. M. C. M. Matheson, Miss M. Moore and Mrs. Turner.

At close of the meeting coffee was served by Mrs. T. G. Hatcher, assisted by Miss Marilyn Berry, Mrs. J. W. McCammon, Mrs. J. M. Finnis, Miss Muriel Knight and Mrs. W. G. Milne.

New Westminster Woman Again The Provincial Council President

Election results announced at Wednesday afternoon session of Provincial Council of Women showed that Mrs. R. T. Gilmore, New Westminster, has been returned as president for a second year.

Other officers are Mrs. J. Dobinson, Nanaimo, first vice-president; Mrs. T. Hickman, Chilliwack, second; Mrs. Vertrand Galloway, Vancouver, third; Mrs. Bert Noel, Victoria, fourth; Mrs. R. Bruce Deans, Kelowna, fifth; Mrs. B. Kane, New Westminster, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. F. Hines, Vancouver, recording, and Mrs. A. Sundman, Vancouver, treasurer.

Chairmen include: Mrs. T. P. McWilliams, Kelowna, economics; Mrs. W. J. Eades, Vancouver, education; Miss Eleanor Morley, West Vancouver, health and welfare; Mrs. H. L. Gale, Abbotsford, laws; Mrs. G. Chandler, Vancouver, resolutions, and Mrs. McWilliams, arts and letters.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, speaking to the meeting Wednesday evening on the role of volunteer agencies in the province, said:

"Volunteer agencies and associations perform a useful and integral part in assisting government to function successfully.

THEY ARE VOLUBLE

"They focus public opinion on the needs; they give a point of view that is fresh and interesting and they are voluble in their demands for the things they deem necessary and worthwhile."

These agencies often play an important part in moulding official decisions, the attorney-general pointed out. They have the ability through their membership of pin pointing the needs and working for the remedies.

"In a province that is experiencing such a quick adjustment to population gains, this is of vital importance."

Role of volunteer agencies was continued in a panel discussion at this morning's session.

Tonight the Provincial Council meets members of the Legislative Assembly at the Parliament Buildings to present resolutions and briefs passed at the two-day annual meeting.

Mrs. Jenkinson Heads WMS Presbyterial Here

Mrs. F. O. Jenkinson was re-elected president of Victoria Presbyterial, Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church at annual meeting held Tuesday.

Other officers elected at the gathering held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church are: Mrs. J. L. W. McLean, vice-president; Mrs. R. H. Cox, recording secretary; Mrs. H. Warren, corresponding; Mrs. J. C. Scott, treasurer; Mrs. A. B. Harvey, publicity; Mrs. C. Summers, evening and young women's auxiliaries; Mrs. McLean, girls' organizations; Mrs. P. S. Watt, children's department; Mrs. H. Calderwood, supply; Mrs. W. Hogg, Glad Tidings; Mrs. D. A. MacDonald, life members; Mrs. P. Jonge, welcome and welfare; Mrs. Charles Maclean, literature, and Mrs. W. A. Dempsey, home helpers.

Treasurer showed a total of $2,282 collected by auxiliaries during the year. Membership had increased, especially among children's groups, it was reported. Seven new life memberships were presented, one to Mrs. David Murphy on the eve of her departure for British Guiana.

DONATED

Supplies given to St. Andrew's Welfare Association included clothing from Victoria and Port Alberni; two quilts from Erskine and St. Paul's. Some of these supplies were to be sent to the Formosan Relief Organization.

Guest speakers at the presbyterial, all from Vancouver, were Mrs. E. P. Fox, British Columbia synodical president; Miss M. Nutt, regional secretary, and Miss Ellen Douglas, a former missionary in India.

Club Women's News

On Africa—Dr. Murray Anderson gave talk and showed slides of Africa at recent meeting of Women's Missionary Society, First United Church. Slides included pictures of Victoria missionaries, Rev. Fred Anderson and Mrs. Anderson, who are at present working with natives in Northern Rhodesia. Mrs. Murray Anderson led devotions.

Life Member — Mrs. Alan Boyle received a life membership in the Woman's Auxiliary to Anglican Church at recent ceremony conducted by All Saints Anglican Church WA. Mrs. B. P. Harding, diocesan board president, made presentation. Gold pin was presented to Mrs. G. T. Storey. Canon J. Wickens was guest speaker. Tea was served.

Plan Fair—At recent meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Cowichan Branch, Canadian Legion, 53, plans were made for a country fair and tea to be held in April. Mrs. F. Chadwick presided. A gift of appreciation for nine years' service as treasurer was presented to Mrs. E. H. Barry. Mrs. H. McCorkell served tea.

This is the face of a grandmother. Her beauty is the despair and envy of females half her age. She can melt a man with a lifted eyebrow or destroy a competing woman with a glance. Her toneless voice sounds like a universal mating call. This is Dietrich, the legend. Dietrich the woman is even more fantastic. Don't miss her story, told for the first time in March McCall's, on sale right now. Advt.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Attends Reception

Mr. Eric B. Edwards, 112 Linden Avenue recently returned from Vancouver where he represented the Victoria Branch of the Registered Music Teachers' Association at a reception honoring Mr. Reginald Bedford, president of Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Association. Reception was held Feb. 16 in Academy of Arts, Vancouver.

Farewell Tea

A tea was held recently in honor of Rev. D. Cook, rector St. Richard's Anglican Church, and Mrs. Cook, who are leaving city shortly to make their home in Toronto. Ladies' Guild of the church was hostess at the affair, held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Wrixon, 2250 Arbutus Road. A water color painting of the new St. Richard's Church done by Mrs. J. Bell was presented to Rev. and Mrs. Cook by P. Kitley.

After Concert

Mr. and Mrs. R. John Nation are entertaining at a small reception Monday evening following the Victoria Symphony concert. Affair is in honor of Dr. Nicholas Goldschmidt, guest conductor from Toronto, and Mrs. Goldschmidt. Reception will be held at the Nation home on Orchard Avenue. Presiding at head table will be Mrs. Hans Gruber and Mrs. H. F. H. Hertzberg. Coming from Vancouver for the affair is Mrs. Duggan Gray.

Bridal Shower

Mrs. Larry Jay, the former Miss Judy Pontious, was honored recently at a bridal shower by Mrs. I. Pedneault at her home in Sooke. Gifts were held in an umbrella. Co-hostesses Mrs. M. Pedneault, Mrs. S. Pedneault and Mrs. S. Whitford presented a blanket to the bride. Guests were Mrs. G. Pontious, Mrs. M. Jay, Mrs. G. Talbot, Mrs. S. Vowels, Mrs. D. Grieves, Mrs. E. Buxton, Mrs. Y. Reibin, Mrs. R. Goudie and the Misses Pat Pedneault, Margaret Buxton, Joanne Pontious, Diane Jay, Bard Davidson, Wendy and Gail Vowels.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Know These Five Facts About Heart Disease

Josephine

While the figures concerning deaths from heart or circulatory diseases are grim, the picture has its bright parts.

For instance, here are five facts which a National Heart Association thinks you should know about heart disease:

1. Some forms of heart disease can be cured.

2. All heart cases can be cared for best if diagnosed early.

3. Almost every heart condition can be helped by proper treatment.

4. Most heart patients can keep on working—very often on the same job.

5. Your "symptoms" may or may not mean heart disease. Don't guess—don't worry. See your doctor!

So much has been learned about the management and prevention of heart disease and a tremendous amount of research is being carried on constantly. The National Heart Association spends at least half of all the money it receives from its annual Heart Fund campaign in a search for new facts concerning the vascular diseases.

Men and women today who have heart trouble should not despair for there is a great deal of help for them. The National Heart Association maintains rehabilitation services to help you get back into the swing and clinics for discovering how much and what kind of work you can do. It will advise you about the care of your rheumatic child and help in many other ways.

Fear of heart trouble or another attack is one of the greatest hazards, so live with confidence but do give yourself care and regular check-ups.

Black, White Whistle Bait

NEW YORK (AP)—If you want to get your man, wear black or white, advises Ceil Chapman, designer for many of the top glamour girls of stage, screen and television.

Following her own advice, she shows a dramatic group of evening gowns in black, white and a combination of the two, guaranteed to make any girl a femme fatale.

For the new decade, Miss Chapman likes new length for evening dresses, 10 inches from the floor, which she calls the "forecast length." She also shows her "candlelight length," just above the ankle, and plenty of flowing, floor-length gowns.

For cocktail and informal evening wear, this designer likes the "beehive" skirt, rounded, draped and tapering toward the hemline. For afternoon wear she shows a group of brilliant prints, but for cocktail time her love remains black—sculptured and draped to accentuate the lines of the feminine figure. Says Ceil:

"The purpose of any dress is to make a man look at a woman—and whistle."

Aldyen Hamber Chapter Year's Receipts Over $600

Total of $644.56 was raised by Aldyen Hamber Chapter, IODE, during past year. This was reported by treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Dalgleish, at annual dinner meeting of chapter Wednesday evening in James Bay Hotel dining room. Disbursements amounted to $767.51.

Mrs. M. Kendall, regent, presided. Seated with her at head table, were Mrs. Owen P. Fowler, municipal regent; Mrs. J. L. Ford, chapter's honorary vice-president; Mrs. V. H. V. Shepperd, provincial councillor and Mrs. H. W. Norman, secretary.

Secretary reported fund raising projects included annual penny sale; rummage sale, imaginary bake sale and candle sale.

A donation of $100 was made to Cerebral Palsy Association for education. Mrs. C. Medley, educational secretary, added that Quick School at Telkwa was adopted early last year and books and magazine subscription had been sent to students. Also in education, $50 teacher training bursary was awarded; $55 went to secondary education student and $10 to Golden Jubilee Scholarship.

Sum of $153.18 was spent on services at home and abroad.

Mrs. Kendall was re-elected regent for coming year; Mrs. J. A. Dunn, second vice-regent; Mrs. E. Holmes, secretary; Mrs. Dalgleish, treasurer; Mrs. C. Medley, education; Miss E. Nagle, Echoes; Mrs. G. Harris, services at home and abroad, and Mrs. M. Campbell and Mrs. H Carruthers, councillors.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful flowers received from our many relatives, friends and neighbors in our sudden, sad loss of my beloved husband and our wonderful Dad, Sidney George White. We especially thank the members of the R.C.N., Rev. D. H. T. Fuller, Chaplain H. Todd, the pallbearers: CPO V. Horth, PO R. Third, CPO T. Bishop, CPO H. Sherman, CPO C. Butterworth, CPO W. Fraser, and Bugler PO Sangret.
—Mrs. Sidney White and sons Ned and Don.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BATH—In loving memory of a wonderful Mother and Grandma, Mable Bath, who was called home, Feb. 18, 1959.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her son and daughters, Glen, Inez, Betty and families.

BATH—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mable, who passed away Feb. 18, 1959.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary trouble and trials are past.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home, to suffer no more.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her husband, Cec.

CHRISTIE—In loving memory of Catherine Christie, beloved wife of George Christie, who passed away February 18, 1959.

God knows how much I miss her.
Never shall her memory fade;
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where she is laid.

—Ever remembered by her husband, George Christie.

FRANCE—In loving memory of Mother, Emily France, who fell asleep February 18, 1952; Dad, 1943, and brother, Herbert, 1938. These, all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.—Hebrews 11:13.

Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear His voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good unto the resurrection of life, and they that have done evil unto the resurrection of damnation.—John 5:28, 29.

—Ever remembered by daughters and sons, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, sisters and brothers.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By JIMMY HATLO

WHAT'S MY NAME DOING HERE? I DISTINCTLY REMEMBER MAKING OUT THE CHECK! AN' AFTER ALL I'VE DONE FOR THE CLUB!!
THEY OUGHT TO KNOW I'M GOOD FOR IT!! WELL, JUST FOR THAT I WON'T PAY 'EM!! I'LL RESIGN FROM THE $&!!*%!! CLUB!!
PHYFFE AND DRUMM MADE IT AGAIN—THEY'VE BEEN UP ON THE BOARD MORE THAN THE THUMBTACKS—
ALL THEY'VE DONE FOR THE CLUB—BALONEY! THEY JUST TAKE UP ROOM AT THE BAR WAITING FOR A LIVE ONE!!
AW, GOSH!! DON'T LET 'EM RESIGN—THROW 'EM OUT RIGHT NOW!!
THE SHOE-SHINE BOY HAS THEM POSTED ON HIS BOX—THEY HAVEN'T PAID HIM EITHER—

9 IN MEMORIAM

CLIFFORD—In loving memory of our darling son, Wayne Lionel Clifford, who was taken from us so suddenly February 18, 1957.

No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there;
And innocence slept sweetly on
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold earth,
Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's holy angel bore
Our darling one away.

—Ever remembered by mother and father, brother and sister.

MACKENZIE—In loving memory of "Dad," Hugh John Mackenzie, who passed away February 18, 1958.

There is no parting from those we love,
No distance can divide.
For today in memory's garden
We still walk side by side.

—Sadly missed by his daughter, Marjorie, son-in-law Fulton and family.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

The best that can be said about South's bidding is that he bid every time it was his turn. Of course, he hoped for a better dummy but he could never expect a better result.

Opening lead—♣ K

If he had simply let East play four spades he would have had no way to beat the contract and, while five diamonds might have been set, the way the cards lay he wrapped up game and rubber.

It wasn't a matter of any great skill but rather finding the cards the one possible way they could be for him to escape with his life.

West opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace. South ruffed and played two rounds of trumps. When West dropped the jack, South was able to get to dummy with the 10 spot in order to take the heart finesse. When this worked, all he had to do was lay down the ace of hearts and ruff a third heart with dummy's last trump. The three-three break in hearts also came off so South ruffed another club to get back to his hand, drew East's last trump and eventually lost a spade trick.

SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.

It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.

5
GRADES

"CLEAR"
Bevel
SIDING

Siding of this grade is designed for use where perfection is demanded. It is well-milled on face and edges making a smooth surface usable full length without waste. 6" and wider siding is vertical grain (VG) for ¾ the width or more from thick edge.

"A"
Bevel
SIDING

Siding of this grade is selected for use where exceptionally fine appearance is desired. It is usable full length without waste and may be mixed grain (MG).

"B"
Bevel
SIDING

Appearance closely approaching that of the higher grades is often achieved with siding of this grade which contains slightly more characteristics and some cutouts in longer pieces. Craftsmen of even moderate skill find it easy to apply. It may be mixed grain (MG).

"RUSTIC"
Bevel
SIDING

Siding of this grade is recommended for use on sidewall coverings where the distinctive charm of rustic appearance is desired. Pieces are graded from the resawn or rough side which is exposed. Thick edge may be rough or surfaced.

"C"
Bevel
SIDING

Pieces of this grade have one or more characteristics which are such size or number that the piece is not of a higher grade. Lengths are random with no specified percentages.

T.V. with Lee

Olympics Opening at 7.30; Julie Harris in 'Ethan Frome' at 9.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

CHATTER—By was of a postscript to Tuesday's column, in which we discussed the public's evident refusal to view top-notch shows, I would tell you briefly what befell Playhouse 90's "To the Sound of Trumpets."

Now those who saw it will remember that it was a First World War drama, starring Stephen Boyd and Dolores Hart. It moved through its acts with gathering intensity. Certainly, for me at any rate, it would have been impossible to turn my back on the final act. It would have meant sleepless nights for sure. How, I would have kept wondering feverishly, did it all turn out?

But that is exactly what happened. Thousands and thousands of viewers who watched the first hour calmly switched to something else for the final 30 minutes.

The play that has since been hailed by most North American critics as Playhouse 90's finest of the season drew a sound 23.5 rating in the first half hour, an almost equally encouraging 22 for the second half hour. Then the sky fell in. In its final—and most important—30 minutes "To the Sound of Trumpets" could muster only a feeble 12.7.

Where did the masses go? Why—believe-it-or-not—the bulk of them to "Mike Hammer," one of the roughest, toughest and most senseless shows on television.

So, once again, let's not rant and rave at the sponsors and networks who offer us so many westerns, crimers and allied "trash." That, it seems, is exactly what the general public desires even if you and I don't.

* * *

AS FOR CANADIAN STARTIME'S the "13 Clocks," I prefer to say little beyond that it left me slightly cold and discouraged.

This is not to be construed as being against stars Robert Goulet, Eric House and the others. I am sure they did as well as they could with their material. It's simply that I am not clever enough to be moved by some fantasies, even James Thurber's. You see, I don't enjoy—even while admitting its genius—Alice in Wonderland as a play.

It may have been this same rabid desire of mine for Canadians to write and produce some hard-hitting, moving contemporary dramas for TV that caused my luke-warmness towards last Sunday night's GM Presents' "Murder, Anyone?" Not only was it quite unbelievable and "acty" but why can't Canadians produce more shows about Canada where their accents can be their own?

Surely we can find dramatic backgrounds in this vast, exciting country of ours? I hate to think it is devoid of any.

American Startime's "The Closed Set?" I enjoyed Joan Fontaine's enactment of a selfish, nasty actress immensely even though the play's ending maddened me somewhat. Of course life is like that, isn't it? Nothing, except death perhaps, can have a neat ending. John Ireland was also good as the Ivory Tower director though I couldn't quite make out what was expected of the conniving little son.

AT LAST!
A 1,050 sq. ft. bungalow with a decent sized living room. This one measures 19.6x15 and none of the other rooms — dining, kitchen, bath, 2 bedrooms—have suffered as a consequence. There is also a finished room in the basement. Oil furnace and detached garage. A lot of thought went into this owner-built home and it's priced right, too, at $12,600

If you're truly interested in a good buy and are weary of shopping for one—give me a call any time.

HIGHBALLS FOR THE PRESS AT HOLLYWOOD MEETING

'Union Men' Came in Limousines

TONY CURTIS
. . . Milroy helped

JANET LEIGH
. . . her dining room

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It was the darndest union meeting you ever saw.

The setting was Tony Curtis' home. Two red-jacketed doormen parked the workers' limousines and sports cars as they drove up Wednesday night.

The working stiffs, about 100 of them, included John Wayne, Shirley Maclaine, Debbie Reynolds, Glenn Ford, Anthony Franciosa, Louis Jourdan, David Niven and Curtis' wife, Janet Leigh.

They were there because they were worried — like everyone else in Hollywood — about a possible actors' strike that could cripple the film industry.

Ford, Curtis and Miss Leigh decided to invite some actors to put questions to the board of directors of the Screen Actors Guild (SAG), whose president is Ronald Reagan.

The 100 actors and actresses crowded into Curtis' dining room, converted into a union hall for the night. But the press was barred from the actual debate because, in Curtis' words, "the actors might be intimidated."

Press quarters were in Curtis' den, and a butler named Milroy was assigned to keep newsmen happy.

"Gentlemen," he said, "tonight we are serving coffee, tea, milk, Coca-Cola and Seven-Up. No liquor—this is serious business."

He was persuaded, however, to bring a couple of rounds of highballs.

Curtis scurried back and forth keeping the press informed with bulletins.

Inside the dining room, the members of SAG were hearing how their board of directors was bargaining with the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

The actors want a pension and welfare plan to which the producers would contribute at least 5 per cent of actors' earnings. They also want royalties on post-1948 movies released to TV—17½ per cent of the salaries they got for making the films.

COMPROMISE

"We're willing to compromise for a lower percentage of pictures that finished in the red," said Curtis. "We don't want to rob a grave."

The situation is so critical that two major studios are reported ready to go out of business if the actors win their demands.

The dining room caucus ended after two hours, and Reagan announced happily to newsmen:

"The members adopted a motion unanimously that they are in wholehearted support of the guild's position."

The workers then left the thick-carpeted home, slipped past two policemen assigned to fend off autograph-seekers and party-crashers—and sped away in their limousines and sports cars.

New Art Gallery Opened by PM

OTTAWA (CP)—The Lorne Building new home of Canada's National Art Gallery, was officially opened Wednesday night by Prime Minister Diefenbaker in a glittering ceremony attended by more than 2,000 people.

The brilliant white-tie inaugural took place on the fourth floor of the seven-storey, $6,000,000 edifice. Crowds stood jampacked on the fourth floor and also around a railing on the fifth floor which looks down through an open space onto the area below.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the "magnificent" new building provides witness to the fact "that national greatness is more than economic power and man does not live by bread alone."

The gallery's art treasures were moved into the Lorne Building about two months ago from their old home in the Victoria Memorial Museum.

MASTERPIECES ON LOAN

On the same floor as the inaugural took place are hung 36 masterpieces loaned by 22 museums in Europe and the United States to mark the opening.

As he spoke, Mr. Diefenbaker faced Thomas Gainsborough's The Painter's Daughter Teasing a Cat, on loan from the national gallery, London. Behind him was Giorgione's A Singer, borrowed from the Galleria Borghese, Rome.

Mr. Diefenbaker noted the building is named after a former governor-general, the Marquis of Lorne, "who did much for art during his term of office." It was the Marquis of Lorne who founded the gallery in 1880.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Everybody duck. I'm going to sermonize.

Everything is Cheatsville now in this year of (how ironic to add) Our Lord. Corruption is fashionable. In some areas, "It's chic to cheat."

MARIE WILSON
. . . 18 years with Ken

DEBBIE REYNOLDS
. . . free tomorrow

Naturally, I don't mean you are guilty, and certainly I'm not—but Mercy me." All those other people . . .

How can a father lecture to his son today about honesty? The boy knows all about disc-jockey payola and he's aware that top movie stars and writers have taken up foreign residence to avoid U.S. income taxes. They have herds of help. They don't lift a finger to get some chore performed. They have a servant lift it for them. It's chic.

Maybe the boy aspires to a business career. He quickly learns of payola deals, from an automobile up, not just in Tin Pan Alley, but in industry where the plucking is plentiful.

"It's square not to cheat," a woman was just lecturing to me, "not to cut corners."

"What was so bad about the disc jockey payola and the quiz-show scandals?" chic people have asked me. "Nobody was hurt."

I claim somebody was hurt: millions of kids my boy's age who thought Charles Van Doren and their favorite disc jockeys were—to use that old-fashioned word—honest.

The common garden variety of cheating—a famous Broadway husband, out with his leading lady, cheating on his wife—is shrugged off nowadays, because in some layers of society it seems terribly unchic for husbands not to cheat. The things I don't write about that every night, would fill libraries, not to mention the divorce courts!

Have there ever been so many headlines about crookedness? I'm telling you again, it's chic. However, I just can't believe Sing Sing, or Atlanta Penitentiary, or Lewisburg, or Alcatraz, will ever really become fashionable.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL: Dick Clark's friends think the girlie phase of the payola quiz will take the heat off him. (He did not attend the wild Miami d.j. convention.) One record firm gave out tickets entitling bearer to one girl . . . Paul Anka, Tenafly, N.J.'s 18-year-old, nine-gold-record singer, is now introducing his kid brother, Andy Jr., 10, and nine little friends, on wax . . . Ken Murray and Marie Wilson, starring at Copacabana, have been a team since 1942!

The Eddie Fisher-Debbie Reynolds California decree is final Friday . . . Frank Sinatra's ABC-TV spectacular lost a full day's filming—a stagehand painted over the stage, with all its cue marks . . . Douglas Fairbanks will narrate his father's silent films on TV.

Kirk Douglas watched the mambo-nicks at the Palladium . . . Ex-boxer Jake La-Motta's studying acting at the Burton Lane Workshop . . . Errol Flynn's estate is tangled in lawsuits; he'd sold many "pieces" of himself . . . Drummer Buddy Rich, a recent heart attack victim, will work in London in March—against doctors' advice . . . Sir Laurence Olivier ordered beefsteak at the Playbill—raw . . . Charlie Chaplin's writing (and will star in) a film about a trip to the moon.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "A disc jockey received a threatening letter—it said, 'If you do not spin this record, we will send you some money'." (via Leonard Richland).

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "My wife's strictly a middle-of-the-roader, both in politics and driving a car"—Robert Merrill.

The South welcomes tourists because, as one Dixie governor said, "One tourist's equal to a bale of cotton, and much easier picked" . . . That's earl, brother.

Hikers to Blaze Trail On Rocky Mountains

CALGARY (CP)—Six Canadian mountain climbers are planning what they hope will be the first successful 200-mile journey along the top of the mountainous Great Divide, which forms the border between Alberta and British Columbia.

The party, under the leadership of Hans Gmoser, 27, of Banff, plans to set out from a point near Lake Louise, early in April and 30 days later end up at Whirlpool River Bridge, 10 miles south of Jasper.

Object of the treck is to blaze a high-level ski trail between Lake Louise and Jasper. The route will take the party over eight icefields and glaciers at heights up to 12,000 feet.

A similar expedition in 1951 ended in failure after 20 miles because of deep snow, poor visibility and the danger of avalanches.

Others in the group, which has received the patronage of Prince Philip, include Neil Brown, 29, Calgary; Kurt Lukas, 29, Vancouver; Pierre [illegible], 33, Montreal; [illegible], 35, Toronto, and Philippe DeLesalle, 29, Montreal.

Announcer Charged

TORONTO (CP)—A free-lance radio announcer and an advertising firm employee were arrested Tuesday night and charged with defrauding McCann Erickson (Canada) Ltd., an advertising firm, of $65,493 since 1957. George Cuttell, 29, who also used the name George Raymond on radio shows, and James Kirkwood Ross, 33, were arrested at their homes.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Carole G. Rowe, aged 11, of Navasota, Tex., for the question:

Is Quartz Useful?

Quartz is one of the most useful minerals in the earth's crust — and only feldspar is more plentiful. Its usefulness dates back to predawn history. One form of quartz is flint and our early ancestors learned to make sharp edged arrows from nodules of flint. These weapons were better than the older stone weapons. They gave mankind more leisure to think and improve himself.

There are many varieties of quartz and we have a use for almost all of them. Pure quartz is a compound of silicon and oxygen, and it is the hardest of the common minerals. It rates seven on the scale of mineral hardness, and only a few precious stones are harder. Diamond, the hardest natural mineral, has class 10 all to itself. A long list of semi-precious stones are forms of quartz. There are assorted agates and jaspers, tiger's eye and carnelian, amethysts and onyx.

There is also quartz in sand and some sands are grains of pure quartz. There is quartz in sandstone, quartzites and in most granites. There are also glassy crystal forms of quartz which come in almost every color you can imagine. In modern industry, the most valuable form of quartz is a crystal form, clear as the purest glass.

Quartz sand is used in glass making, in fact you cannot make glass without quartz. Sand is also used to make sandpaper and certain scouring powders. It is also used as a filler in the making of cement.

Quartz is present in many of our best building stones. The durability of granites, sandstones and quartzites depends upon the quartz they contain.

Quartz crystals came into their own with the Age of Science. Clear rock crystal, which is quartz, is used in the making of transmitters for radio, television and radar.

Crystals Grown From Seed

The best quartz of this kind comes from Brazil and for a time it looked as if we might have a shortage. Then our clever chemists learned how to make these valuable crystals. They use a seed, which is a tiny fragment of the natural crystal, in an alkaline solution which contains silicon. Heat and pressure are applied and the silicon gradually builds up on the seed to form a crystal.

Fused quartz is another valuable man-made material. It is clearer than the clearest glass and can do many things which ordinary glass cannot. It is one of the best electric insulators. It lets through rays of heat, light and ultraviolet. Light follows a bent rod of fused quartz which means that it can be used to look around corners.

This wonderful quartz material is used to make laboratory dishes, for it withstands acids. It is used for lenses and mirrors for cameras and telescopes. When lead salts are added, fused quartz becomes a shield against radioactivity and the scientists have a window through which they can look into a nuclear reactor.

* * *

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Jeffrey Taylor, age 10, of Peterborough, Ontario, for his question:

How can ants breathe underground?

An ants' nest is a series of tunnels and chambers. In an ant-sized world, there is plenty of air circulating through the underground city. Also in an ant-sized world, a crumb of soil is as big as a boulder and the bulk of the nest is made of loosely packed crumbs of soil. There is even air circulating through the walls of the underground city.

The little ant breathes through a series of holes, called spiracles, in her sides. She takes in oxygen and sends out carbon dioxide, just as we do. Also in the soil are microscopic plants which use up carbon dioxide and return oxygen to the air, just as plants do above the ground.

Company Pays

VANCOUVER — The B.C. Electric Company has settled a libel suit by paying $1 to William Johnson, who alleged he had been libelled by a company notice posted on his business establishment last year stating that service had been discontinued for non-payment of a light-bill. He said he paid the bill the day before the notice was posted.

DESPITE UTILITARIAN PURPOSE, MV Sidney has certain eye appeal when under way. Photo by Jorgen Svendsen shows lifeboats during machinery trials in straits. She'll be delivered March 2.

STRICTLY PRACTICAL, NEW FERRY ON TRIAL

'The Duck' Is Built for Job

By MONTE ROBERTS

Handsome is as handsome does will do handsomely to describe the motor vessel Sidney, which will become the property of the province of British Columbia on March 2.

The Sidney, due to enter service this summer from Swartz Bay to Tsawwassen on the mainland, is today swinging compass in Juan de Fuca Strait, in one of the final phases of her pre-delivery trials.

She underwent her final inspection in government graving dock Wednesday.

Anything but an ocean liner, from the outside Sidney looks exactly what she is—the shortest distance between two points separated by water. She's a standard marine white, with a trim in such a quiet blue it's almost self-effacing.

BROAD IN BEAM

Snub in the nose, square in the stern (she's built for end-to-end loading of cars and trucks), and broad in the beam, the Sidney reminds the more imaginative observer of an outside toy celluloid duck.

But inside, she's more like a moderate-sized convention hall.

Her two main public rooms are on the main deck, a large lounge aft, an observation lounge forward. Between them they provide 500 chairs, comfortably upholstered, covered in a plastic-type imitation leather.

In the main lounge, the chairs are a quiet yellow, the walls and ceiling light green. There is generous window space letting in plenty of light in both rooms, and the overhead lighting fixtures — very plain — add to the brightness.

NOTHING ORNATE

There's no suggestion of ornate panelling, crystal chandeliers, or ankle-deep carpeting. The Sidney is comfortable enough for a two-hour crossing, and that's all she pretends to be.

For the inner comfort of her passengers, the Sidney provides a coffee shop on the upper deck, with counter space for about 50 customers at a time, and small booths seating four.

If two hours is too long to sit, stand, or walk, there are eight small cabins equipped with day beds, available at an extra charge.

And there is ample deck space for the promenader or the fresh air and scenery fan who likes to loll in a deck chair with the wind in his hair.

A BIT BREEZY

It will be a bit breezy, because the Sidney's deck space is wide open to the wind, and she'll churn up a breeze of her own, even on a quiet day.

She'll reach 18 or 19 knots on the crossing, powered by twin 3,000-h.p. diesels, with 100 cars in her big car deck and—the government hopes—500 passengers aboard.

Sidney has proved to her builders, Victoria Machinery Depot, that she can do everything her designers had in mind.

Time will tell if she and her sister, the Tsawwassen, now building at Burrard Dry Dock, are the answer to Victoria's transportation problem.

Nazi Infiltration Charged by Germans

BONN, West Germany, (Reuters)—The West German association of people persecuted under the Nazi regime says there has been "shocking Nazi infiltration" in the West German foreign ministry.

An association spokesman said the foreign ministry provides but one example of "the over-all re-Nazification" going on in West Germany.

The spokesman told a press conference, "The entire foreign office and the diplomatic corps of the federal republic consist to a considerable extent of the same Nazi diplomats as in the Third Reich."

He added: "The re-employment of these former Nazi diplomats is a serious burden on the federal republic's reputation abroad."

A foreign office spokesman later rejected the allegations and said that only four of the top officials in the ministry were in the Nazi foreign service.

The association issued a list of 61 foreign office officials, most of them holding senior posts, with an alleged Nazi past.

Divorces Linked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court divorce survey shows half the people involved in divorce were from broken homes themselves. Forty-three per cent of the parties knew each other less than a year prior to marriage. In 95 per cent of such cases, either the husband or wife, or both, did not attend church regularly. Three of four court reconciliations remained permanent.

FIFTH IN A SERIES ON MENTAL HEALTH

Little Things Mean a Lot

In one of the active area wards at Essondale, I saw long-term patients being led back to an interest in the outside world.

Many have been in closed wards for years. Many are still very ill.

Forbes

In the active area ward (there are six in the hospital with an average of 150 patients in each), they have a new chance. Their case histories are reviewed. They are given more freedom and specialized treatments are tried.

Change from close supervision and a closed ward to the comparative freedom of the other ward has worked with some and notable gains have been made.

Evelyn Turner, nurse in charge of one of these wards, told me that 20 long-term patients were brought back to reality last year.

"That may not seem many to you," she said, "but when you look at past histories of these patients, you know it's a great gain."

Young patients enjoy privileges of miniature beauty parlor in active area ward at Essondale under supervision of student psychiatric nurse Charmain Adams of Burnaby. Room was furnished by general hospital nurses taking post-graduate work in the mental hospital.

Always New

In Miss Turner's ward they are always trying new ideas. Recently, floor-length mirrors were added to the recreation rooms. "We found that giving patients an opportunity to see themselves created a desire to spruce up," she said.

A group of nurse affiliates (general hospital nurses at Essondale for post-graduate work) asked if they might open a powder room for the patients.

"They said they would furnish it if we gave them the room," Miss Turner told me.

Result is a miniature beauty parlor, gay with chintz curtains, frilly boudoir tables, mirrors, and all the accessories needed for hair, face and hands.

"It's so popular we have had to set time limits in order to ensure that all patients who want to use it have an opportunity," the head nurse said, her eyes bright with knowledge of something well done.

"It's proved to be such good therapy, we may open another one before too long."

Another experiment that paid dividends was introduction of several cages of budgie birds in the ward.

"Sometimes the smallest thing does the trick," Miss Turner said quietly.

Staffs of these active area wards includes a maximum number of senior student psychiatric nurses, both male and female.

Family Circle

"We are trying out the idea of placing some male nurses in women's wards and some women nurses in the men's wards," Miss Turner explained. "It fosters the normal family circle idea.

"After all, if you were a man patient, there might be a time when you'd like a woman's hand to help you. Of course you would.

"That goes for a woman patient, too. There are times when a man's strong arm gives her confidence.

"There's also the angle of women—and men, too—wanting to look their best for the opposite sex. We've discovered, in some instances, it has been the first step on the road back to reality."

Student nurses are noncommital about it. "It's a bit revolutionary, you know," one young man told me.

Nevertheless, it is having results and results are what every staff member and every student nurse is working for.

The Road Back

When student nurses reach the active area wards they are nearly all in their senior terms. They are competent to look after medications; they understand psychological requirements; they can be assigned to surgery and they are capable of leading programs of remotivation that take patients through five major steps on the road back to the outside world.

Some of them have as many as 48 patients in their care.

"Parental disapproval of sons and daughters going in for psychiatric nursing is fast disappearing, as pubic interest in mental illness increases," Miss Turner pointed out, "and we now are recruiting the best types of young men and women for our work."

Honduras Step Closer To Self-Government

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain Wednesday granted the people of British Honduras a greater voice in their government.

In return, the Central American colony pledged "unswerving loyalty" to the Crown and to the person of the Queen.

The agreement, reached in two weeks of talks here, punctured long-cherished hopes of nieghboring Guatemala to take over the 8,867-square-mile colony and its 85,000 inhabitants.

A statement issued Wednesday night said "complete agreement" on a new contitution was reached by a representative delegation from the colony and colonial office officials.

The new constitution permits the people of British Honduras to elect their own prime minister for the first time.

George Price, leader of the People's United Party, who served on the delegation, is expected to become first prime minister. His party won all nine elected seats in the legislature in 1957.

British Honduras decided to preface the new constitution with a statement that the people "desire to advance toward self-government within the Commonwealth" and remain loyal to the Crown.

JOHN AND CLARE HAL[illegible]
. . . superior ideology n[illegible]

WAY TO FIGHT REDS

Nations of Asia 'Look to Canada'

Two young Moral Re-Armament crusaders returning from a visit to Japan and the Philippines said here today that Canada is in a unique position to give ideological leadership to the non-Communist countries of Asia.

John Hallward, grandson of Lord Atholston, founder of the Montreal Star, and his wife, Clare, said Asiatic countries looked to Canada for support in their fight against Communist ideology.

"They respect us and will listen to us," said Mr. Hallward. "Canada can do a lot to combat the forces of Communism in Japan and the countries of southeast Asia."

The Hallwards are returning to their home in Montreal.

Mrs. Hallward is the daughter of Sir Edward Meynell, a cousin of the late Lord Halifax who served as ambassador to the United States.

WORST THING

Mrs. Hallward said the worst thing that Canada could do would be to recognize Red China.

"The non-Communist countries of Asia are against the recognition of Red China," she said, "because it would lead to the expansion of Communism in Asia."

They were of the opinion that the Indian government took a wrong and costly step when it recognized Red China.

"Unless and until free Asia is fully armed and united by a superior ideology in addition to its economic and military strength, recognition of Red China by the free countries will only aid the Communist plan for expansion," they said.

AGAINST DISARMING

Mr. Hallward was opposed to disarmament at this time. He said a policy of co-existence would also lead to the expansion of Communism throughout the world.

In the Communist dictionary, he pointed out, "co-existence means take over by every method short of a shooting war.

"In India they have a good definition for co-existence," he said. "They say co-existence means non-existence."

The couple felt that a united ideology is the only way the West could combat the spread of Communism.

And they felt that Moral Re-Armament was the answer because it offered more to man than the Communist ideology.

Home Nursing Grant for VON

Expansion of Services Planned With Extra Aid From Province

The provincial government will provide funds for expansion of home nursing services by the Victorian Order of Nurses, mainly in Vancouver and Victoria.

The financial assistance will be in addition to normal annual grants to the VON, an official of the department said.

The VON and the provincial health department have each conducted home nursing services in separate areas of the province. The new budget includes disbursements for expansion of both services.

The initial announcement came in a speech by Health Minister Eric Martin in the legislature Wednesday.

He said in the forthcoming year B.C. is providing in the budget a sum of money which will be used to institute home nursing programs similar to those already operating in nine areas of the province.

The 1960-61 estimates note an increased outlay for local health services home care from $12,000 to $114,000.

This is the only indication of the expenditure involved and it does not show how much will be diverted to the VON.

BUILDING AID

Mr. Martin also reported, as forecast in the throne speech, that his department would this year begin a "program of substantial cash grants towards approved construction costs" of non-profit agencies providing nursing home beds.

"At the present time an intensive survey is being planned to ascertain the number of nursing home beds available in each community and to estimate the requirements of each area," he added.

He did not indicate what percentage of the over-all cost would be paid.

The health minister indicated the $7,000,000 increase in hospital expenditures in 1960-61 would mostly go to expand existing services.

There will be a substantial number of new beds coming into service, he said, and new wage agreements will eat up more money as well as the rising cost of drugs, medical and surgical supplies. The government also intends to expand its system of regional laboratories and regional radiology services.

He recalled the mention in the budget speech of an extension of superannuation benefits to all hospital workers in the province. "Details are not yet worked out," he said.

But the voluntary scheme will cover all permanent employees and will cost approximately $1,000,000 a year.

It would mean that a hospital employee would be able to transfer to any other hospital and have his superannuation benefits carry along with him.

He said he did not think there would be any lessening in hospital construction. Projects currently under way or which will be started this year, provide 656 beds at a total cost of $12,650,006, the government share being $6,101,835.

Mr. Martin repeated that B.C.H.I.S. benefits would be extended to chronic cases this year.

A survey will be started soon by the B.C. Medical Association and the UBC faculty of medicine to provide accurate information on the number of chronic hospital beds which will be required, and what transfers will be made from acute care hospitals.

MARTIN DEFENDS ACCOUNTS

'It's Grossly Untrue Health Under-Spent'

It is "grossly untrue" that the B.C. government has been starving social services to create an election year budgetary surplus, Health Minister Eric Martin thundered at his opposition Wednesday.

"You don't understand how to read the estimates," he told Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Speaking in the budget debate, Mr. Martin took issue with Mr. Strachan's remarks that the department of health and welfare was underspent by $10,000,000 in recent years.

Said Mr. Martin, "An underexpenditure as shown in the public accounts does not necessarily mean an underexpenditure."

He went on to explain that supplementary estimates must be taken into consideration when comparing estimates with public accounts.

SPRINKLER SYSTEM

Mr. Strachan interrupted to ask, "What happened to the sprinkler system in that school?" (He referred to the Jericho Hill school for deaf and blind children, the budgetary allotment for which was underspent in the same period in which it was condemned for lack of sprinklers.)

Mr. Martin said, "Don't ask me. That will be dealt with later."

Mr. Martin produced figures to prove there has been more spending by his government for social welfare than for highways. "We are spending more for social services than for anything else."

Mr. Martin said he was "shocked, just shocked" to hear the CCF proposal to cancel the homeowner grants and give the money to the municipalities to reduce the tax mill rate.

'COMPLETE SLAVERY'

"The CCF would have to take over the municipalities and run them. You can't tell them to cut the millrate. In order to reduce the millrate you'd have to dictate to the municipalities. It means complete social slavery, and I won't stand for it for one."

"Not only have you got me disturbed, you have got me awfully angry," he shouted across the floor. "The people of this province should be grimly warned — socialism means centraliztion of power in the hands of a few. Freedom of the individual is the most valuable thing there is, and we'll not take it away. I often think about the taking over of the human race by power-mad socialists," he added.

Finally, Mr. Marin attacked the CCF theory that because the government has agreed to pay half the construction debt of the school districts, this amount (about $47,000,000) was a direct debt of the province.

Mr. Martin said if the government were to recognize this obligation as direct debt "they would have to transfer half the assets of the school districts and set them up in the government books. Try and deduct from the school boards one cent of assets and see what sort of storm you get."

FIX THEM, SAYS LABOR COUNCIL

Streets Here 'Deplorable'

No city in North America has worse streets than Victoria, Ed Haw, IWA delegate to the Victoria Labor Council, said Wednesday.

He termed street conditions here "deplorable."

The VLC supported him, and will ask city council to start an immediate public works program for repairs.

"I realize this is rushing in where angels fear to tread," said Mr. Haw. "There's bound to be a tax increase hidden somewhere if the job is done."

In the face of current unemployment, planning should begin now for an early start on the program, he maintained.

NOT FOR PROFIT, SAYS MLA

Public Service Ambulance Need

Ambulances should be part of hospital services, instead of being operated for profit by private companies, Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East) said in the legislature Wednesday.

"They should also be placed at the disposal of the municipalities and run at cost," he said.

He also called for establishment of rehabilitation homes for patients at Essondale Mental Hospital who are on the road back.

"It is far too easy for patients to suffer a relapse after they have been discharged from the hospital so that they may have to be readmitted."

MORE FREEDOM

Mr. Turner suggested rehabilitation homes would give patients more freedom and enable them to return to normal life by controlled stages.

He said Health Minister Eric Martin, in answer to CCF complaints of overcrowding in B.C. hospitals, had said there were 300 vacant beds in Greater Vancouver hospitals.

"The minister missed the point," Mr. Turner declared. "He should have added that there are vacant beds because of the shortage of trained nurses."

STAYDOWN STRIKE ENDS

DEAL, Eng. (AP)—A staydown strike by 127 coal miners was called off by the union Wednesday after they had spent six days 2,100 feet underground.

The union had feared for their health. The miners walked out to protest the dismissal of 140 workers no longer needed in the diggings.

World-Wide Protest Grows As Chessman Death Nears

'America Will Rue The Day'

(By UPI)

Opposition grew throughout the world today to the scheduled execution Friday of Caryl Chessman in San Quentin's gas chamber.

In London, where six of the nine morning newspapers devoted more space to the Chessman case than to the impending royal birth, one newspaper said Americans will rue the day if Chessman is executed.

The London Daily Herald prediction reflected a burst of European sentiment against the execution.

"There is one thing to be said about the case of Caryl Chessman who has spent 12 years fighting for his life," the Herald said. "If he is executed tomorrow, it will be a day when it will be rather unpleasant to be an American."

Jurists in South America sent protests to California Governor Edmund G. Brown. A French singer left Paris by plane to make a personal appeal to Brown. A Roman Catholic priest in Milan, Italy, appealed directly to President Eisenhower.

HELPS GANGSTERS

The priest was Fr. Michele Blandino who has devoted much of his life to helping war criminals and deported U.S. gangsters. He sent his appeal to the U.S. Embassy in Rome asking Eisenhower to prevent the execution.

In Lisbon the newspaper Republic said editorially, "besides ranging world opinion on the side of the condemned man, the 12 years of struggle for his life have chiefly cast doubts on the validity of the death penalty as an anachronistic repressive measure."

The newspaper dismissed Chessman's 12-year legal battle as the important item and asked, "should we not say rather that justice itself has broken the record?"

STUDENTS RALLY

In Scandinavia student groups re-pledged their support in a campaign to have Chessman spared.

Mme. Georgie Viennet, a handsome French songstress, left Paris Wednesday night by plane en route to California to protest personally to Brown. Last year she formed an association against capital punishment and said its membership includes Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr. Albert Schweitzer and Nobel Prize winning author Francois Mauriac.

Prominent jurists from Argentina, Panama, Spain and Mexico added their criticisms to the clamor over U.S. handling of the Chessman case.

Mexican congresswoman Macrina Rabadan telegraphed Eisenhower to pardon Chessman and said Latin American women would wear mourning during the president's forthcoming 10-day tour of Latin America if Chessman is executed.

Judge Secundino Torres Gudino of Panama and Amilcar A. Mercader, former president of the Buenos Aires court of justice, also protested.

Torres Gudino said the execution would "create an enormous lack of confidence in U.S. laws."

Mercader said the impending execution "causes me deep concern."

"I have asked myself whether the time he has spent on death row has not been worse than death itself," he said.

Newspapers throughout Europe called on President Eisenhower to commute Chessman's sentence although he does not have the power to do so.

KIDNAPPER, ROBBER, PERVERT

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — At about 7.50 p.m. Jan. 23, 1948, Caryl Chessman, 26, a graduate of three California penal institutions, was arrested by Los Angeles police after an 85-mile-an-hour chase.

Police rammed the Chessman car to bring it to a halt. The auto had been stolen and contained loot from a robbery staged earlier in the evening.

Chessman went to trial as the notorious "Red Light Bandit." And a jury of 11 women and one man convicted him on 17 of 18 counts.

Witnesses named Chessman as the man who posed as a policeman with a flashing red spotlight on his car and preyed on lovers-lane couples.

On two occasions the bandit robbed the couples and departed. Two other times he robbed the couples but also forced the girl to go with him in his car and forced her at gunpoint to perform a perverted sex act.

Chessman's convictions and sentences:

Kidnapping—four counts. Death on two counts; life without parole on two counts.

First degree robbery—eight counts. Five-years-to-life, served consecutively.

Sex perversion—two counts. Zero-to-15 years.

Attempted robbery—one count. Zero-to-20 years.

Grand theft—one count. One-to-10 years.

Attempted rape—one count. Zero-to-25 years.

'WE STILL HAVE HOPE'

Lawyers Seek Another Delay

(Times News Services)

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. — Attorneys for Caryl Chessman went back to the California Supreme Court in San Francisco today in an 11th hour effort to put off Chessman's execution scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

The court refused by a 4-3 vote late Wednesday to recommend clemency for the 38-year-old convict - author. Without the court's approval the governor was powerless to commute Chessman's 1948 death sentence for kidnap, robbery and sex perversion.

George T. Davis and A. L. Wirin, attorneys for Chessman, filed two petitions with the state supreme court:

—An application for a 10-day stay of execution to give attorneys time to file affidavits by psychiatrists and others that Chessman "is rehabilitated and is entitled to clemency."

—A motion for reconsideration of Wednesday's ruling by the supreme court voting against recommendation of clemency.

"We haven't given up hope," Davis said. "The end of this case won't come until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning."

'Conscience Appeal' to Governor

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, to whom Chessman made a "conscience" appeal Wednesday, said he was standing firm on his decision to take no further action in the case.

"Unless the court takes some further action, I have no power to grant clemency under the constitution—and the question is closed," the governor said.

California law provides that both the governor and a majority of the state supreme court must approve clemency in the cases of persons convicted of two or more felonies. Chessman was convicted of 17.

However, Brown said he would remain in Sacramento rather than attend today's opening of the Winter Olympic games at Squaw Valley as scheduled.

Brown rejected a clemency plea by Chessman's attorneys last October, noting that Chessman had shown no contrition. The condemned man contends there is no reason for contrition because he is innocent.

Chessman again insisted he was innocent in his "conscience" plea to the governor.

Eisenhower Powerless to Intervene

In Washington, the White House today described the Chessman case as "a matter entirely for the State of California."

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said there was nothing Eisenhower could do officially

Hagerty's views on the lack of power for the president to intervene in state cases was borne out by justice department officials. They said a president can exercise his clemency or commutation powers only in federal cases.

Meanwhile, Chessman entered what appeared to be the final 24 hours of an 11½-year battle to escape execution.

He's taking the series of setbacks calmly—commenting only that he felt he has made a great contribution to humanity. He said his death would be "significant."

The condemned man said one of the main purposes in the last two years was to use his case—as it became increasingly controversial—"to focus attention upon the existence of the death rows and the practice of capital punishment."

Chessman said he believed passionately that the death penalty is an outmoded, useless device which does not prevent any crimes.

He said he considered the possibility of the death penalty when he was holding up drug stores in the early years of his life of crime, but was "indifferent" to it.

"I said to hell with the death penalty," Chessman added.

NOT AN 8-POUND BOY —IT WAS A STOCK FRAUD

A false report on the birth of the Queen's baby stirred some sections of Victoria today.

The report coming through on a direct stockbroker's wire shortly after noon said the Queen had had an eight-pound boy.

Several people who had been making wagers on a boy or girl were collecting bets before they learned the report was not true.

Royal Birth Close

LONDON (AP) — The Queen was reported to be in labor tonight in an apparently difficult childbirth. John H. Peel, the gynaecological surgeon who is delivering her baby, remained at her side in a day and night vigil.

LONDON (AP) — The Queen called her doctors into prolonged consultation at Buckingham Palace today but by early evening her expected baby still had not arrived.

John H. Peel, obstetrician and the gynaecological surgeon in charge of the birth, led his three medical colleagues into the palace soon after 9 a.m. They were still there at 7 p.m.

Peel was able to assure Prince Philip that he could safely leave the palace for a luncheon engagement.

A crowd of several hundred milled around the palace waiting for news. Some have kept vigil at the gates since Saturday.

The Prince, clearly in high spirits, wisecracked his way through his luncheon speech.

"I'm sorry that the Queen cannot be present," he told the lord mayor, "but as you realize she is otherwise engaged."

BAND PLAYS

During the morning the crowd outside the palace watched the changing of the guard through the palace railings in wintry but sunny weather and heard the guards' band play selections from Call Me Madam. The band started up with the number It's a Lovely Day Today.

At one point a sudden roar of jet engines made Londoners look up expectantly. British air force Hunter jets were due to fly over the palace in salute to a new royal baby on its birth.

But it was another of the many false alarms—a giant Boeing 707 airliner heading over the city toward London Airport.

—Barron, Victoria Daily Times.

See Also Page 13

OTTAWA (CP)—A pointed but dispassionate plea for abolition of the death penalty for murder in Canada was voiced in the Commons today by Frank McGee.

With about half the 264 MPs in their seats and the public galleries packed, the young Progressive Conservative member for York-Scarborough began his argument with these six main contentions:

1. "Capital punishment is not an effective deterrent to murder and certainly not a unique deterrent."

2. "It is morally wrong that the state should take a life."

3. "Capital punishment is based on revenge, on retribution. Punishment should be reformative, and not retributive."

4. There was a great risk of error; "innocent men have been hanged and innocent men will be hanged as long as human beings are human beings and subject to error."

5. There was a question of the capacity of the country's legal system, no matter how good it is, to reach any decision that would "justify taking a human life."

6. Capital punishment has an adverse effect on justice. Juries, being humans, "are reluctant to bring in a guilty verdict because of the necessity to impose a penalty of death." This was "hardly logical and not in my view— desirable."

Fines for Unions, Firms A Way to Prevent Strikes?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The possibility of controlling strikes by imposing government fines on management and labor has been suggested by British Columbia Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

The fines would be imposed if the two parties failed to solve a dispute within a given time, he told the Vancouver Foremen's Club Wednesday.

The minister said a proposal put forward by a United States professor of economics called for a 15-per-cent cut in wages and seizure of union dues and company profits on every day the parties failed to reach a settlement.

"I wonder if there is merit to considering this proposal?" Mr. Wicks asked.

He said remedial legislation is no answer to labor strife in B.C. and called for a higher degree of discussion between management and labor as the greatest possible deterrent to labor strife.

WAR DANGER STRESSED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter warned today that scientific advances are driving the world ever closer to the possibility of "war by miscalculation."

Herter said that in order to arrest this frightening progress toward the possibility of "general war," it was urgently necessary to take steps to create "a more stable military environment."

ONE GOAL ACHIEVED, ONE TO GO

Peggy Bank Goes for Landscaping

One down and one to go is the score today in The Times' "Pennies for Peggy" drive to fill a wheelbarrow with coppers for the sake of art and the city's honor.

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said Victoria sculptress Peggy Walton Packard will be paid her commission Friday for the bust of Queen Elizabeth.

"She sent in her bill for $300 and I have an appointment for 11.30 tomorrow morning to give her the cheque," he said.

That takes care of the fund's initial objective, but there still is a job to be done in properly landscaping the Beacon Hill park site for the bust. So the wheelbarrow is still waiting for more pennies from Victorians. Contributions can be mailed to "Pennies for Peggy," c/o The Daily Times or can be left in special containers at either the Broad Street or Douglas Street offices of The Times.

So far more than 2,000 pennies, a $250 landscaping offer, several letters and even a First World War veteran's mementos have poured into the wheelbarrow.

Ald. Mooney said Mrs. Packard reduced her bill by $50 to offset the lack of an inscription on the statue as had been previously arranged.

This leaves about $150 in city funds for the landscaping job but parks officials have estimated that a setting befitting a statue of the Queen would cost several hundreds more.

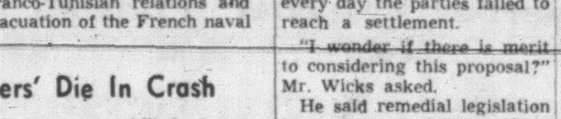
All money collected in The Times fund will be turned over for use in landscaping the statue's final resting place. (It was moved from Garbally public works yard to the City Hall lobby while an argument raged over the permanent site to be chosen.)

Examples of citizens' sentiments over delay in setting up the statue which is to commemorate the Queen's visit here last July, are these messages sent along with contributions:

"Good for you! Make City Hall look small! . . ."

"I am enclosing my total bank roll that I had when I was wounded in France in 1916, also some spare meal tickets that were given me on the hospital train when I was invalided home while serving with the CEF . . .

"I have been waiting for a deserving cause and feel that this is it."



They better git thet statue paid fer b'fore it's set up in th' park, cuz once it's there they won't be able t' budget.

Riot Squads Watch Farms

PARIS (UPI)—The government moved in riot police today to maintain order in two farming districts where French farmers, angered by President Charles de Gaulle's price-freezing policy, called massive protest rallies.

Authorities feared a repetition of last Thursday when a similar protest rally by 5,000 farmers in the northern city of Amiens erupted into a bloody three-hour riot in which more than 120 police and demonstrators were injured.

SOCREDS SET SIGHTS ON OTTAWA BY 1985

EDMONTON (CP) — The aim of the Social Credit party in the next 25 years is to achieve national power in Canada, Premier E. C. Manning told 300 party members Wednesday night when he opened the Social Credit League's new headquarters here.

Premier Manning said it is just now beginning to be recognized that Social Credit principles are as applicable to prosperity as to depression.

Cigaret Plant For Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans are in progress for the Rothman-Rembrandt group to build a cigaret manufacturing plant in the Vancouver area, a company official announced Wednesday.

John Fitzgerald, public relations director of the group for Canada, said the plant—first on the Pacific coast of North America—will provide 300 manufacturing jobs with an estimated capital investment of $1,500,000.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Resurge Continues At Toronto and N.Y.

The New York stock market scored one of its best

REG. N. E. HARRIS, CLU . . . honored by profession

Added to Wednesday's small recovery, the market at noon had made up the losses of Monday and Tuesday.

Gains of two or better were posted for Ford, Republic Steel, Texas Instruments and American Tobacco.

Spearheaded by resurging banks and steels the Toronto market continued to clip along at higher levels today.

AT TORONTO International Paper had the best industrial gain with an increase of 1½ at 105. Interprovincial Pipe Line was ahead ⅞ at 55⅜.

On the losing side Goodyear Tire fell 10 points at 160 on a small turnover and Huron and Erie slipped five points on sales totalling 50 shares.

Western oils declined slightly. Changes were minor with gains outnumbering losses.

AT NEW YORK Distillers-Seagrams added a point in the Canadian list. Walker-Gooderham, McIntyre Porcupine, Aluminium Ltd. and Hudson Bay Mining were also higher.

Canadian oils were mainly better on the American exchange. Canadian mines and industrials generally lost ground.

AT MONTREAL the stock exchange continued to show gains, following Wednesday's late revival, in moderate trading.

AT LONDON the stock market showed some improvement today following the late rally on Wall Street Wednesday.

Gilt-edged securities were a little firmer and most dollar stocks improved. Industrial shares were irregular with Unilever, Philips Lamps and Ford Motors all showing improvement. Steels were generally erratic.

AT VANCOUVER the market was active with prices stronger during the forenoon. Peace River Pete traded 1,000 at 25. Giant Mascot moved 36,000 at 27. Continental Mines sold 2,000 at 40. Mid-West Copper moved 10,000 at 14. Pacific Nickel traded 5,000 at 74.

Long Service Rewarded

Thirty-two years of uninterrupted service in the insurance business has won a life membership in the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada for Reg. E. N. Harris, CLU, of Victoria.

Mr. Harris was one of three insurance men so honored at the 53rd annual meeting of the LUAC at Montreal, Feb. 10-12.

A member of LUAC since 1928, Mr. Harris became a CLU in 1930. In 1933 he served as president of the Victoria local. In 1946 he assumed the dual responsibility of secretary-treasurer of the Victoria local and at the same time served as a member of the board of directors of LUAC.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax prices had a firmer appearance in trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Flax trade was moderately active and offerings were less burdensome than on Wednesday.

Barley trade was moderately active with domestic and export house purchasing. Prices were firm.

Oats trade was mostly of a domestic nature. Rye trade had no feature and rye prices were irregular.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: West Germany 150,000 bushels; the United Kingdom 55,000, and Belgium 30,000.

Lakehead prices for Class 2, IWA, and domestic wheat all were unchanged from Wednesday.

WORLD PROTEST MOUNTS

NOT AN 8-POUND BOY —IT WAS A STOCK FRAUD

A false report on the birth of the Queen's baby stirred some sections of Victoria today.

The report coming through on a direct stockbroker's wire shortly after noon said the Queen had had an eight-pound boy.

Several people who had been making wagers on a boy or girl were collecting bets before they learned the report was not true.

Royal Baby 'Overdue'

LONDON (AP) — The Queen was in the early stages of an apparently difficult childbirth tonight. John H. Peel, the Queen's gynaecologist, kept at her side in Buckingham Palace all day and decided to stay the night there.

Peel announced his decision after a bedside conference with the Queen's physicians—their third of the day.

Then Peel and the physicians left the palace, leaving the Queen in charge of two experienced maternity nurses. Peel returned to the palace shortly before 10.30.

A few minutes later, Commander Richard Colville, the royal press secretary, walked across the palace forecourt to the waiting crowds and told them the birth was not imminent.

A single spotlight picked out the royal standard waving from a rooftop mast in the chill night breeze.

Earlier Peel was able to assure Prince Philip that he could safely leave the palace for a luncheon engagement.

The Prince, clearly in high spirits, wisecracked his way through his luncheon speech.

"I'm sorry that the Queen cannot be present," he told the lord mayor, "but as you realize she is otherwise engaged."

BAND PLAYS

During the morning the crowd outside the palace watched the changing of the guard through the palace railings in wintry but sunny weather and heard the guards' band play selections from Call Me Madam. The band started up with the number It's a Lovely Day Today.

At one point a sudden roar of jet engines made Londoners look up expectantly. Royal Air Force Hunter jets were due to fly over the palace in salute to a new royal baby on its birth.

But it was another of the many false alarms—a giant Boeing 707 airliner heading over the city toward London Airport.

SPECIAL SERVICES ON OLYMPICS

Times readers will be kept fully abreast of events at the Winter Olympics which opened at Squaw Valley, California, today.

Sports staffer Mike Rose is on the scene as is Andy O'Brien, sports editor of Weekend Magazine. Another special writer will be Bill Westwick, sports editor of the Ottawa Journal.

Their dispatches will supplement full coverage by Canadian Press and United Press International wire services. (See sports pages.)

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—The men's downhill ski race, originally scheduled for Friday, was postponed until Feb. 22 because of heavy snow today.

Riot Squads Watch Farms

PARIS (UPI)—The government moved in riot police today to maintain order in two farming districts where French farmers, angered by President Charles de Gaulle's price-freezing policy, called massive protest rallies.

Authorities feared a repetition of last Thursday when a similar protest rally by 5,000 farmers in the northern city of Amiens erupted into a bloody three-hour riot in which more than 120 police and demonstrators were injured.

TO PREVENT STRIKES?

Fines for Unions, Firms Suggested

VANCOUVER (CP) — The possibility of controlling strikes by imposing government fines on management and labor has been suggested by British Columbia Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

The fines would be imposed if the two parties failed to solve a dispute within a given time, he told the Vancouver Foremen's Club Wednesday.

The minister said a proposal put forward by a United States professor of economics called for a 15-per-cent cut in wages and seizure of union dues and company profits on every day the parties failed to reach a settlement.

"I wonder if there is merit to considering this proposal?" Mr. Wicks asked.

He said remedial legislation is no answer to labor strife in B.C. and called for a higher degree of discussion between management and labor as the greatest possible deterrent to labor strife.

SOCREDS SET SIGHTS ON OTTAWA BY 1985

EDMONTON (CP). — The aim of the Social Credit party in the next 25 years is to achieve national power in Canada, Premier E. C. Manning told 300 party members Wednesday night when he opened the Social Credit League's new headquarters here.

Premier Manning said it is just now beginning to be recognized that Social Credit principles are as applicable to prosperity as to depression.

ONE GOAL ACHIEVED, ONE TO GO

Peggy Bank Goes for Landscaping

One down and one to go is the score today in The Times' "Pennies for Peggy" drive to fill a wheelbarrow with coppers for the sake of art and the city's honor.

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said Victoria sculptress Peggy Walton Packard will be paid her commission Friday for the bust of Queen Elizabeth.

"She sent in her bill for $300 and I have an appointment for 11.30 Friday morning to give her the cheque," he said.

That takes care of the fund's initial objective, but there still is a job to be done in properly landscaping the Beacon Hill park site for the bust.

So the wheelbarrow is still waiting for more pennies from Victorians. Contributions can be mailed to "Pennies for Peggy," c/o The Daily Times or can be left in special containers at either the Broad Street or Douglas Street offices of The Times.

So far more than 2,000 pennies, a $250 landscaping offer, several letters and even a First World War veteran's mementos have poured into the wheelbarrow.

Ald. Mooney said Mrs. Packard reduced her bill by $50 to offset the lack of an inscription on the statue as had been previously arranged.

This leaves about $150 in city funds for the landscaping job but parks officials have estimated that a setting befitting a statue of the Queen would cost several hundreds more.

All money collected in The Times fund will be turned over for use in landscaping the statue's final resting place. (It was moved from Garbally public works yard to the City Hall lobby while an argument raged over the permanent site to be chosen.)

Examples of citizens' sentiments over delay in setting up the statue which is to commemorate the Queen's visit here last July, are these messages sent along with contributions:

"Good for you! Make City Hall look small!"

"I am enclosing my total bank roll that I had when I was wounded in France in 1916, also some spare meal tickets that were given me on the hospital train when I was invalided home while serving with the CEF . . .

"I have been waiting for a deserving cause and feel that this is it."

See Also Page 13

OTTAWA (CP)—A pointed but dispassionate plea for abolition of the death penalty for murder in Canada was voiced in the Commons today by Frank McGee.

With about half the 264 MPs in their seats and the public galleries packed, the young Progressive Conservative member for York-Scarborough began his argument with these six main contentions:

1. "Capital punishment is not an effective deterrent to murder and certainly not a unique deterrent."
2. "It is morally wrong that the state should take a life."
3. "Capital punishment is based on revenge, on retribution. Punishment should be reformative, and not retributive."
4. There was a great risk of error; "innocent men have been hanged and innocent men will be hanged as long as human beings are human beings and subject to error."
5. There was a question of the capacity of the country's legal system, no matter how good it is, to reach any decision that would "justify taking a human life."
6. Capital punishment has an adverse effect on justice. Juries, being humans, "are reluctant to bring in a guilty verdict because of the necessity to impose a penalty of death." This was "hardly logical and not—in my view—desirable."

Appeals Sent To Governor

(United Press International)

Opposition grew throughout world today to the scheduled execution Friday of Caryl Chessman in San Quentin's gas chamber.

In London, where six of the nine morning newspapers devoted more space to the Chessman case than to the impending royal birth, one newspaper said Americans will rue the day if Chessman is executed.

The London Daily Herald prediction reflected a burst of European sentiment against the execution.

"There is one thing to be said about the case of Caryl Chessman who has spent 12 years fighting for his life," the Herald said. "If he is executed tomorrow, it will be a day when it will be rather unpleasant to be an American."

Jurists in South America sent protests to California Governor Edmund G. Brown. A French singer left Paris by plane to make a personal appeal to Brown. A Roman Catholic priest in Milan, Italy, appealed directly to President Eisenhower.

HELPS GANGSTERS

The priest was Fr. Michele Blandino who has devoted much of his life to helping war criminals and deported U.S. gangsters. He sent his appeal to the U.S. Embassy in Rome asking Eisenhower to prevent the execution.

In Lisbon the newspaper Republic said editorially, "besides ranging world opinion on the side of the condemned man, the 12 years of struggle for his life have chiefly cast doubts on the validity of the death penalty as an anachronistic repressive measure."

The newspaper dismissed Chessman's 12-year legal battle as the important item and asked, "should we not say rather that justice itself has broken the record?"

STUDENTS RALLY

In Scandinavia, student groups re-pledged their support in a campaign to have Chessman spared.

Mme. Georgie Viennet, a handsome French songstress, left Paris Wednesday night by plane en route to California to protest personally to Brown. Last year she formed an association against capital punishment and said its membership includes Nobel Peace Prize

'WE STILL HAVE HOPE'

Lawyers Seek Another Delay

(Times News Services)

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. — Attorneys for Caryl Chessman went back to the California Supreme Court in San Francisco today in an 11th hour effort to put off Chessman's execution scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday.

The court refused by a 4-3 vote late Wednesday to recommend clemency for the 38-year-old convict-author. Without the court's approval the governor was powerless to commute Chessman's 1948 death sentence for kidnap, robbery and sex perversion.

George T. Davis and A. L. Wirin, attorneys for Chessman, filed two petitions with the state supreme court:

—An application for a 10-day stay of execution to give attorneys time to file affidavits by psychiatrists and others that Chessman 'is rehabilitated and is entitled to clemency."

—A motion for reconsideration of Wednesday's ruling by the supreme court voting against recommendation of clemency.

"We haven't given up hope," Davis said. "The end of this case won't come until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning."

'Conscience Appeal' to Governor

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, to whom Chessman made a "conscience" appeal Wednesday, said he was standing firm on his decision to take no further action in the case.

"Unless the court takes some further action, I have no power to grant clemency under the constitution—and the question is closed," the governor said.

California law provides that both the governor and a majority of the state supreme court must approve clemency in the cases of persons convicted of two or more felonies. Chessman was convicted of 17.

However, Brown said he would remain in Sacramento rather than attend today's opening of the Winter Olympic games at Squaw Valley as scheduled.

Brown rejected a clemency plea by Chessman's attorneys last October, noting that Chessman had shown no contrition. The condemned man contends there is no reason for contrition because he is innocent.

Chessman again insisted he was innocent in his "conscience" plea to the governor.

Eisenhower Powerless to Intervene

In Washington, the White House today described the Chessman case as "a matter entirely for the State of California."

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said there was nothing Eisenhower could do officially

Hagerty's views on the lack of power for the president to intervene in state cases was borne out by justice department officials. They said a president can exercise his clemency or commutation powers only in federal cases.

Meanwhile, Chessman entered what appeared to be the final 24 hours of an 11½-year battle to escape execution.

He's taking the series of setbacks calmly commenting only that he felt he has made a great contribution to humanity. He said his death would be "significant."

The condemned man said one of the main purposes in the last two years was to use his case—as it became increasingly controversial—"to focus attention upon the existence of the death rows and the practice of capital punishment."

Chessman said he believed passionately that the death penalty is an outmoded, useless device which does not prevent any crimes.

He said he considered the possibility of the death penalty when he was holding up drug stores in the early years of his life of crime, but was "indifferent" to it.

"I said to hell with the death penalty," Chessman added.

... CHESSMAN

winner Dr. Albert Schweitzer and Nobel Prize winning author Francois Mauriac.

Prominent jurists from Argentina, Panama, Spain and Mexico added their criticisms to the clamor over U.S. handling of the Chessman case.

Mexican congresswoman Macrina Rabadan telegraphed Eisenhower to pardon Chessman and said Latin American women would wear mourning during the president's forthcoming 10-day tour of Latin America if Chessman is executed.

Judge Secundino Torres Gudino of Panama and Amilcar A. Mercader, former president of the Buenos Aires court of justice, also protested.

Torres Gudino said the execution would "create an enormous lack of confidence in U.S. laws."

Mercader said the impending execution "causes me deep concern."

"I have asked myself whether the time he has spent on death row has not been worse than death itself," he said.

Newspapers throughout Europe called on President Eisenhower to commute Chessman's sentence although he does not have the power to do so.

WAR DANGER STRESSED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter warned today that scientific advances are driving the world ever closer to the possibility of "war by miscalculation."

Herter said that in order to arrest this frightening progress toward the possibility of "general war," it was urgently necessary to take steps to create "a more stable military environment."

Chessman's Crimes Listed in Detail

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — At about 7.50 p.m. Jan. 23, 1948, Caryl Chessman, 26, a graduate of three California penal institutions, was arrested by Los Angeles police after an 85-mile-an-hour chase.

Police rammed the Chessman car to bring it to a halt. The auto had been stolen and contained loot from a robbery staged earlier in the evening.

Chessman went to trial as the notorious "Red Light Bandit." And a jury of 11 women and one man convicted him on 17 of 18 counts.

Witnesses named Chessman as the man who posed as a policeman with a flashing red spotlight on his car and preyed on lovers-lane couples.

On two occasions the bandit robbed the couples and departed. Two other times he robbed the couples but also forced the girl to go with him in his car and forced her at gunpoint to perform a perverted sex act.

Chessman's convictions and sentences:

Kidnapping—four counts. Death on two counts; life without parole on two counts.

First degree robbery—eight counts. Five-years-to-life, served consecutively.

Sex perversion—two counts. Zero-to-15 years.

Attempted robbery—one count. Zero-to-20 years.

Grand theft—one count. One-to-10 years.

Attempted rape—one count. Zero-to-25 years.

'Know Your Community For Tourists'

ALBERNI—Services to tourists must improve if the industry is to thrive in B.C., Walter Dodsworth, assistant manager of The Butchart Gardens, said here this week at the annual meeting of Alberni Board of Trade.

He listed these as food, transportation, accommodation, and information facilities. He advised residents to know their communities better in order to advise visitors.

Officers installed for the coming year were Jack Jowsey, president; Ted Gardiner, vice-president; David Francis, treasurer; and Charles Blair, serving his 10th year as secretary.

N. COWICHAN AGREES TO BOOST FUNDS FOR PROJECT

(From Duncan Bureau)

North Cowichan municipal council Wednesday approved a yearly expenditure of $800 to provide a free, full-time, seven-day-a-week nursing service proposed by Dr. C. J. G. MacKenzie, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit.

If Duncan and Ladysmith agree to the plan it can be brought into effect by the provincial health department.

The council heard it will cost 10 cents per capita per year over and above the present 30 cents per capita costs for health services.

At present one public health nurse serves 5,000 population. The plan would increase the service to one nurse for 3,500 persons.

Dr. MacKenzie, in a letter dated February 15, told the council the plan would increase the permanent nursing staff and add part-time relief nurses for weekends, holidays and emergencies. The home nursing plan under the orders of practicing physicians is now in operation in the Parksville-Qualicum Beach area and eight other places in British Columbia.

Senior government money is available to finance the bulk of the program. He noted that two-thirds of the cost is borne initially by the federal government and then on a "matching grant basis" by the provincial and federal governments.

THIEVES HIT THIRD TIME —FOR WIENERS AND CASH

(From Duncan Bureau)

CHEMAINUS — The Johanson Block on Willow Street in downtown Chemainus was broken into Tuesday night or Wednesday morning for the third time in the last four months.

Entered were three adjoining stores, the Overwaitea Grocery, Butcher Boy Meat Market, and Bowle's Shoe Store.

The busy, but apparently selective, thieves got only a small amount of cash and a few miscellaneous items for their efforts.

They forced a window at the rear of the grocery store and helped themselves to some cigarets, chocolate bars, and a few food items. They entered the adjoining meat market by forcing a sliding door, and took $35 in silver from the cash register and a handful of wieners. Breaking a window at the rear of the shoe store, they entered and made off with a radio and a pair of logger's boots.
